WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has held several conversations with Henry A. Kissinger on the Mideast peace talks and officials describe the secretary of state as optimistic of progress.

Nixon, at Camp David, Md., talked several times Sunday by telephone with Kissinger on the Arab-Israeli talks in Geneva.

A high U.S. official described Kissinger as reasonably confident that Egypt and Israel will reach an agreement next month on a separation of their armies near the Suez Canal.

However, there may be problems and

Kissinger could return to Geneva in January, the official said.

The secretary arrived back in Washington Saturday night after a 15-day, 13-nation journey through Western Europe and the Middle East.

Kissinger returned with a head cold and Nixon told him to "get some rest," a spokesman said. Nixon planned to meet personally with Kissinger this afternoon at the White House, the spokesman said.

During his weekend at his Maryland retreat, Nixon also examined more than 50 pieces of legislation approved by Congress in the closing days of its session.

The high U.S. official described Kissinger as reasonably confident that after the Dec. 31 Israeli elections there will be progress on disengagement on the Suez front.

Kissinger expects the negotiations then to move on to reopening the canal to Israeli shipping and the ships of all nations carrying goods to and from the Jewish state.

Kissinger told newsmen that only a United Nations representative, probably Maj. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo of Finland, will attend the military disengagement talks between Israel and Egypt.

The Soviet Union had exerted pressure to have Russian and American representatives at the negotiations.

Oil price zooms as Persian Gulf nations confer

LONDON (AP) — The economies of Western Europe and Japan are in for more hard blows as a result of another big increase in the price of oil by the Persian Gulf governments.

And government sources in Caracas said Venezuela, which supplies more than 10 per cent of the oil processed in the United States, will raise the tax reference price on its crude Jan. 1.

The six Persian Gulf producers — Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Qatar — announced Sunday after a two-day meeting in Tehran that effective Jan. 1 they would increase the taxes and royalties they collect on the oil produced from their fields from $3.06 a barrel to $7, an increase of 128 per cent.

They did this by increasing the "posted" price of crude oil from $5.11 a barrel to $11.651. The posted price is an artificial price set by the producing companies as the basis for calculation of the taxes and royalties paid them by the Western companies that produce or market their oil.

The price of $5.11 was set in October. The posted price last January was only $2.59 a barrel.

Venezuelan sources did not disclose what increase could be expected in the tax reference price, which is used for calculating taxes paid by foreign oil companies.

The newspaper El Nacional predicted, however, that it would go from the current average of $7.74 a barrel to $10 a barrel. It was $3.11 a barrel last January. Most other foreign suppliers to the United States are expected to do likewise.

Christmastime proves special for returned Vietnam POW

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — For Air Force Col. Dwight Sullivan this Christmas is a very special one, his first at home since he was freed from a North Vietnamese prison camp after 6½ years.

"I always felt when I was over there, that my first Christmas at home would be the best Christmas ever. And it's turning out that way," said Sullivan, who was released early this year.

Sullivan and his three teenaged sons will spend the holiday at the home of his parents here. Nothing special is planned in the way of celebration, but the former POW admitted:

"Of course, I've gone a little overboard on buying gifts for this year. I guess I'm making up for those six Christmases I missed."

Sullivan recalled in an interview Sunday that most Christmases in captivity were not observed because POWs lived in small groups and were watched closely.

But in 1971 they moved to new quarters, one large room in the camp that became known as the Hanoi Hilton.

"We got a Christmas program together, had a choir, and (read) the Christmas story out of the Bible. We sang carols relating to the Christmas story," he said.

"One man who could read music used a bamboo pen with ink made of brick dust, and he'd write the notes for our religious carols on toilet paper."

Others "used an old white mosquito net, draped it around, and made it look like a half Christmas tree against the wall," he said.

Razor blades were used to cut small stars out of stolen tinfoil to trim the tree. Christmas cards made from scrap paper and gifts fashioned from bread dough were exchanged.

"But for the other Christmases — I just didn't do anything," he said.

Sullivan said the POWs would not ask for decorative materials or assistance in observing Christmas because they feared their captors would make propaganda out of it.

Fuel pinch, terrorism mar Yuletide

World events dim celebrations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians today prepared to celebrate Christmas as best they can despite shortages of gasoline, heating oil and electricity, an uncertain economic outlook and the threat of terrorist attacks in some areas.

In Bethlehem, the little town where Christmas began with the birth of Jesus some 2,000 years ago, merchants prepared for the annual influx of pilgrims for midnight mass in the Church of the Nativity.

But the general prediction was for fewer than last year's poor turnout of 5,000 because of the October war and the Palestinian terrorist attack in Rome and Athens last week.

"This is the worst Christmas in years," said one burly souvenir shop owner. "We sometimes get more tourists in midsummer."

From Tokyo to Paris and Berlin shoppers scurried to complete their last minute shopping with stores generally reporting increased sales despite the past year's inflation. Some store managers in Europe and the United States noted, however, that expensive items were not selling as well as usual.

For Americans and most Europeans it was a dimmer holiday because of the oil shortage. The Christmas tree at Rockefeller Center in New York had fewer lights this year and the giant tree in front of the city hall in Copenhagen had no lights.

The fuel shortage also kept a lot of Americans home this year as most gas stations were closed Sunday and planned to shut Christmas Day.

In Europe, several governments suspended the Sunday driving ban. Motorists in Italy, France and West Germany took to the highways in record numbers and Alpine ski resorts reported heavy bookings. Many persons in West Berlin prepared presents for relatives they will visit for the second Christmas in a row in East Berlin.

Pope Paul VI was breaking tradition by celebrating Christmas Eve midnight mass before thousands in St. Peter's Basilica. For the past 26 years the papal Christmas Eve mass was held in the Sistine Chapel for diplomats accredited to the Holy See.

United Nations peacekeeping troops along the Suez cease-fire line will be eating traditional roast turkey and holiday pudding, but Lt. John Byrne from Ireland commented:

"It's hard to feel the holiday spirit out here, wedged between two armies. It would be nice to see both sides come out of their positions and shake hands on Christmas ... but that could never happen here. The Jews and the Arabs don't believe in Christmas. It's out of place here."

Energy shortages dimmed the holiday lights in Japan and toys were more costly. Stores were jammed, but merchants estimated an increase in sales of only about 20 per cent over Christmas 1972, due largely to price increases.

In America the tradition of helping those less fortunate at Christmas time appeared not to have died away this year, although some charities reported reduced contributions and higher prices.

Billy Graham says Nixon made errors

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham says President Nixon has made serious errors in judgment and kept himself isolated in the White House.

The North Carolina evangelist, a long-time friend of Nixon, said the President should admit having made mistakes with regard to Watergate and other matters.

"Until there is more proof to the contrary I have confidence in the President's integrity," Graham said. "But some of his judgments have been wrong and I just don't agree with them."

"I think many of his judgments have been very poor," the Baptist preacher added in an interview in Christianity Today, an evangelical weekly.

White House officials said there would be no immediate comment on Graham's statements.

Graham added that everyone "needs some friends around him who will just say, 'You are wrong!'"

BABE IN TOYLAND — Could there be a finer Christmas present than this 7 pound, 10 ounce boy whose birthday will almost coincide with a Miracle of Miracles in a Bethlehem manger nearly 2,000 years ago? It is a season long to be remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Randy Kelley, 230 Henkle St., parents of this holiday newcomer, shown in the arms of an attendant behind the glass window of the gaily decorated Memorial Hospital nursery.

Traditional Yule costs $12,402

By RICK BROWNE

Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Want to buy your true love a partridge in a pear tree and the accompanying French hens, leaping lords and maids amikling for the "Twelve Days of Christmas?"

Be prepared to pay at least $12,402. The Christmas gift list that some gallant Englishman prepared for his lady love back in the 1700s has been hit by inflation.

However, an extensive look-but-don't-buy shopping expedition here proved that you still can purchase the 12 gifts, although some are a little hard to find.

The Twelve Days of Christmas found: —A partridge in a pear tree.

The partridge was the hardest gift to find, the pear tree one of the easiest.

The partridge was located through a San Francisco poultry dealer at the Quail Farm in Echo Springs, Ark. The owner said her smallest previous order to the West Coast was for 1,000 birds but as it was a special gift she agreed to supply one in a cage by air freight for $31.

Pear trees are out of season in December, but the San Rafael, Calif.,

Nursery said it probably could find one for $5.95.

—Two turtle doves.

The Tropical Isle Pet Shop in San Francisco will sell two white ones for $19.95.

—Three French hens.

A French hen was just a common hen in England. A common hen at the American Poultry Co. here costs $4.50 — $13.50 for three.

—Four Calley birds.

Calley birds are blackbirds, though today's song often says calling birds. Dairy farmer Martin Larsen of Napa, Calif., said he'd catch them with a net for $30.

—Five golden rings.

Tiffany's of San Francisco sells 18 karat gold rings at $150 apiece — $750 for five.

—Six geese a-laying.

Lewis Dennis Jr. of Riverbank, Calif., sells geese for about $75 a pair — but this gift would require all females. Nonetheless, he put the total at $225.

—Seven swans a-swimming.

Dennis also had swans. White Mutes at $350 apiece or Australian Black Swans at $200. Cost of seven Aussie blacks: $1,400.

—Eight maids a-milking.

The San Francisco Bay area has a dearth of milkmaids but Glen Parkinson of Oak Glen Farms in Sonoma, Calif., said a portable milking machine costing $400 will service eight cows. The cows would cost $700 apiece excluding fodder. Total cost: $5,600 for the milkers and $400 for the milkee.

—Nine pipers piping.

The Prince Charles Pipe Band in San Rafael has more than 60 pipers at its disposal who would play for $50 apiece. Nine pipers cost $450.

—Ten ladies dancing.

The LaVonne Talent and Modeling Agency of San Francisco will provide 10 young ladies in long dresses for eight hours of dancing for $100 apiece. Total cost: $1,000.

—Eleven lords a-leaping.

America is a lordless society but LaVonne said it would be happy to provide actors wearing powdered wigs, waistcoats and breeches for $125 apiece. LaVonne wanted assurances, however, that the lords would have some breaks and wouldn't have to leap for the full eight hours. Total cost for leapers: $1,375.

—Twelve fiddlers fiddling.

Musicians Union Local 6 said 12 men fiddling for four hours would run $648. Anything over four hours is overtime at $113.40 an hour. Total cost of fiddlers for eight full hours: $1,101.60.

Total cost for the 12-day gift giving spree: $12,267.55. But remember, that doesn't include state or federal taxes. Or mileage for the actors and musicians.

No paper Tuesday

The Record-Herald follows an annual custom in not publishing an edition on Christmas Day in order that employees may spend the holiday with families and friends. Comics and other features normally appearing in Tuesday's paper will be found on inside pages today.

Weather

Cloudy and warmer through Tuesday with light rain likely. Low Monday night in the middle to upper 30s. Mostly cloudy and warmer with chance of showers Tuesday. High Tuesday in the upper 40s and lower 50s. Probability of precipitation 70 per cent Monday night and 40 per cent Tuesday.

Congress ends year in stronger position

By JOHN BECKLER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first session of the 93rd Congress ended as it began with Congress and President Nixon in a power struggle — but with a vast difference in their positions.

The year that began with Nixon dominating Congress through vetoes, impoundment of funds and the curtailment of programs, ended with him the subject of the first presidential impeachment investigation in a century.

In January the President threatened to veto any spending bills exceeding his budget. But by December his influence on Capitol Hill had declined to where he signed a Health-Education-Welfare appropriations bill nearly $1 billion over his budget and released $1.1 billion he had impounded.

In between, Congress forced Nixon to end all U.S. military action in Indochina and wrote into law over his veto a bill limiting a president's power to commit U.S. troops abroad without congressional approval.

House Speaker Carl Albert, looking back over the session, said it was characterized "by a strong spirit of renewal and reassertion of the authority of the Congress."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Senate Majority Leader, called Congress "the rock of the nation at a time when the executive branch has been seized in a whirlwind of resignations, disclosures, denials, dismissals and indictments."

If there was one event that marks the dividing line in the shifting fortunes of Congress and the President it would be the Senate Watergate investigation, which began May 17.

By the time its 37 days of televised hearings ended in August the midnight burglary of the Democratic National Committee's headquarters had grown into a seemingly endless scandal that is still unfolding. Nixon was on the defensive and a confident Congress was moving to reclaim lost powers.

Nixon accused Congress of neglecting the nation's business through a preoccupation with Watergate, and it is true that few of his legislative recommendations were passed in the form he proposed.

But the Democratic leaders of Congress could point to a significant amount of legislation that did pass — in sheer quantity more than in the first session of any other Congress in years.

After eight years of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, Congress cut off money on Aug. 15 for U.S. military activity in Indochina.

The war powers bill imposed a 60-day limit on the power of a president to send

U.S. troops into action overseas without congressional approval.

Congress, over the administration's objections, revised the federal farm program, setting target prices for major crops and providing for direct payments to farmers only when market prices drop below the target. High farm prices this year have greatly reduced crop subsidy payments.

With Nixon's help, Congress cut into the federal highway trust fund for the first time to allow some of the money to be used for mass transit projects in urban areas.

It provided an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, returned limited self-government to the District of Columbia, provided $2 billion in grants and loan guarantees to keep bankrupt Eastern railroads operating.

State summer activities eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Even with the long winter just getting under way, some state officials already are pondering the effects of the energy crisis on the summer life styles of Ohioans.

Director William B. Nye of the Department of Natural Resources expects more use by Ohioans of their own state parks. He notes that residents who normally go out of state for outdoor fun can save gasoline by seeking it here.

There also is a move in the General Assembly to change the thrust of tourism campaigns from out-of-state visitors to Ohioans, asking them to explore the state's abundance of natural, cultural, and historical attractions.

Nye recently announced a reservation system for state campgrounds, similar to one already in effect for lodges. This will save gas that might be used by families driving long distances only to find camp sites filled, he said.

State Sen. Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, chairman of the Legislative Service Commission Study Committee on Tourism and Travel, said he wants a tourism campaign that "will zero in on Ohio's 11 million citizens" whose leisure and vacations will be cramped by the fuel shortage.

Applegate pointed out that Ohio spends only $300,000 a year on the promotion of Ohio tourism anyway, while states such as neighboring Michigan have budget outlays as high as $2 million a year. "Ohio is 43rd of the 50 states in the amount of appropriations for this purpose," he said.

The senator said his committee not only will work to have Ohioans take full advantage of state attractions because of the fuel shortage, but also in an effort to boost the state's economy. The committee will work with the Ohio Travel Council, the Governor's Commission on Tourism, and other public agencies as well as with the private sector, he added.

Other officials say that even if the state escapes home heating and gasoline problems this winter—which is not likely—the summer months will be critical as well.

Presidents of Ohio's electrical industries say, in fact, that they foresee no problems this winter if they are allowed to burn coal. But summer and the use of air conditioners are something else. "Our time of peak demand," cautioned D. Bruce Mansfield, president of the Ohio Edison Co.

Surgical section top winner in hospital contest

Fourth winners in the annual Fayette County Memorial Hospital departmental Christmas decorating contest were announced at a Christmas party Saturday night.

The judges, Mrs. Edwin Nestor, Mrs. Joseph P. Loudner, Mrs. Ralph Child and Mark Thellmann determined the winners on the basis of theme, originality, design, quality and composition involved in the decorative displays.

Results were as follows: Surgery, first place; Northwest Wing, second place; West Wing, third place, and School of Nursing, honorable mention.

Shown at right are three employees of the first-place Surgery Department and part of their display.

Space heater checklist

As the impact of the heating oil shortage grows, space heaters will become more popular than ever to take off the chill. This lends special weight to the Consumer Product Safety Commission's safety checklist for those who use such heaters. A lot of injuries and even deaths could be averted if householders would act on the Commission's advice.

There are two basic dangers: fire and asphyxiation. There also is the threat of severe shock if electrical heaters are carelessly used in bathrooms where they may come into contact with water or plumbing fixtures.

The commission estimates that perhaps 700,000 space heaters burning gas, kerosene or oil are improperly vented and may emit carbon monoxide. In a closed room, this odorless gas can reach fatal concentrations.

As to fire, the perils are evident. The checklist urges a number of precautions: locate heaters away from combustible materials; alert the family to the danger of clothing being set afire on contact with a heater; see that young children are closely supervised when in a room with a space heater; for electric heaters, use heavy duty cord if an extension is necessary, and make sure the heater has an automatic shutoff device activated should it be upset.

These tips amount to common sense, really. The same can be said of the commission's urging that space heaters be serviced annually and installed and repaired by skilled servicemen.

Abiding by these rules is a sound precaution against accident.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

No clothes for Christmas

My recollections of Christmas have a certain jaundiced character. You see, I was, without recognizing it, a victim of the "revolution of rising expectations."

Like the French youngster who is told to put away his shiny motorcycle and get out his bike because gasoline is in short supply and appallingly expensive, I learned in the first seven or eight years of my life to expect toys, a tricycle, roller skates, and the like to turn up under the Christmas tree.

Invariably the things I wanted appeared and I would spend the day, for example, marshaling toy soldiers and conducting elaborate military exercises.

THEN THE world fell in: the Depression hit and my father lost his job. A proud, stubborn man, he refused to go on relief, or even to apply to the Works Progress Administration (W.P.A.) when it was established. So he went to work on commission, selling refrigerators, oil burners, and even at one point collecting coins from refrigerators. (I wonder if anyone remembers those refrigerators that ran only if a daily dime was inserted in the slot?)

We had a brief period of high hopes when he took the civil service examination for fire marshal and got a 97. But that went down the drain because the second man, who scored in the low 90s, was a wounded veteran of World War I and therefore picked up 10 points. Dad, unfortunately under the circumstances, was an unwounded veteran with only five-point bonus. He lost by one or two points, so it was back to commission sales.

The impact of this came home to me only gradually until Christmas, 1932. I recall the year because, to add to our afflictions, a local bank where Mother had a small savings account folded.

My brother, who was then 5, and I had an arrangement that whoever woke up first on Christmas morning would wake the other and then we would sneak downstairs. This was no mean trick: Dad could have slept through the Second Coming, but Mother had cat's ears. If the hour was too early (we once set forth at 2:30 a.m.), she would roll Dad out, he would come roaring and swinging, and we would scuttle back to bed.

This particular Christmas I was looking forward to electric trains, having assiduously dropped hints for three months. We came down, turned on the lights on the Christmas tree and there I stood . . . stunned . . . NO TRAINS! "Well," I figured, "maybe they didn't have time to set them up."

We went through the stockings, finding the usual: a harmonica, pen and pencil set, some puzzles. Then we turned our attention to the packages. Opening the elaborately wrapped boxes, what did we find? Clothes! There were a few toys, mainly for Bob, my brother, but all I rated was clothes. What a put-down!

Even now I find it difficult to express my feelings of anguish and betrayal, feelings which were intensified at the time by the fact that Bob was happy as a clam at high water with his little trucks and things. He was in my judgement a thoroughgoing fink.

Of course, what I didn't appreciate at the time was that he had been too young to enjoy the relatively lavish Christmases of the 1920s: he didn't share my sense of deprivation because he didn't recognize the contrast.

LATER THAT DAY when it became evident that no trains were in the offing, I'm afraid I behaved abominably: crying and accusing my parents of not loving me. Dad stopped that with a fast back-hand slap—oh, was he fast!—and then Mother took me off and sensibly told me that she had planned to get the trains with some of her savings but the bank had gone bust.

Bluntly she informed me that Dad had no regular job and that I should stop behaving like a selfish brat. She added that if I said one more word about trains, she would spank me. I don't know whether the death penalty is a deterrent or not, but a spanking from Mother sure was: Dad struck only in anger; she laid it on methodically. There was no further discussion of trains, though a couple of years later my grandfather did get me some.

From then on I knew what to expect at Christmas: clothes, clothes, and more clothes. Still nursing memories of the good old days, I was perpetually angry although, for obvious reasons, I kept my views to myself. The worst of it all was Bob's totally unsympathetic attitude: for him, Christmas was a time to get clothes.

I have recovered and now open with pleasure whatever my family provides, but the tradition, but the tradition lives: the other day our daughter distinctly mumbled as a box was delivered: "Oh, not clothes for Christmas."

Season's Greetings to you all.

"I ENVY THEM THEIR MILEAGE, J.B."

Hal Boyle . . . Give health tag for Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — No one can make a fully dressed person feel as naked as Alfred Hodder, executive director of the Medic Alert Foundation.

Mr. Hodder says that anyone with a medical problem should be registered with Medic Alert and should wear its easily recognized necklace or bracelet, listing any confirmed medical ailments or allergies. This would mean that if you should be involved in an automobile accident or be scooped up unconscious off a street, that a doctor or even a passer-by would know immediately that you should not be given penicillin if you are allergic to it, that you have diabetes or a heart disease, that you wear contact lenses or have a pacemaker implanted in your chest.

Medic Alert was founded in 1956 by Dr. Marion C. Collins, its current president, after his daughter almost died from an allergic reaction to tetanus antitoxin. Collins decided then that persons with apparent medical problems should be protected in medical emergencies.

Having covered World War II and conflicts in Korea and Vietnam, I am accustomed to seeing soldiers wearing "dog tags"—small metal plates on a chain around their necks that resemble dog licenses and list name, serial number, and, very important in case of wounds, blood type.

That was for combat action. Hodder feels that civilian life can be equally hazardous. At $7 for a lifetime membership, Medic Alert will issue necklace or bracelet, both easily identifiable by the caduceus physician's symbol of winged staff and entwined snakes and the words Medic Alert in red on its front. On the reverse side of the metal tag can be listed up to five lines of medical ailments or allergies, the first one for free and others for 75 cents a line.

The American Medical Association estimates that one out of every five Americans has a hidden medical problem. On this theory, Medic Alert has signed up more than 475,000 American members and has affiliate organizations in 15 other countries.

Medic Alert's largest membership is in California, where its home office is in Turlock. Its second largest group is in Pennsylvania, where it has 11,000 members in Philadelphia alone. Hodder says that registration with Medic Alert guarantees a lifetime assurance that vital medical information has been computerized and is available on a 24-hour basis through the organization's emergency phone service. Among common ailments inscribed on the tags are diabetes, Addison's disease, emphysema, asthma, multiple sclerosis, heart conditions, epilepsy, hemophilia, and allergies to such drugs as penicillin, sulpha, terramycin, demerol, aspirin, orphine, codeine, barbiturates, novocaine, cortisone, tetanus toxoid, or multivitamin.

Iowa leads the nation in cash receipts from marketings of livestock. Iowa is first in cash receipts from hog marketings, second in cattle and calves, sixth in sheep and lambs and eighth in dairy products.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Any bit part would help Star Struck's ego

DEAR ABBY: You seem to have all the answers so maybe you can help me. I want to get into show business. I know I don't have the talent to be a big star, but I'd be satisfied with bit parts as long as it's show business. How do I get started?

I'd gladly be an errand boy, or park cars, or run an elevator in a television or movie studio.

I'd do anything just to be where the action is. I don't have any contacts, but I've had this hangup about Hollywood ever since I can remember. I'm 18 now, and want to do something about it.

I live in New Jersey, but I'd be willing to move to California.

STAR STRUCK

DEAR STRUCK: An 18-year-old with no talent, no contacts, no experience, and no special training shouldn't head West without a round-trip ticket and enough bread to keep him going for six months. But if you decide to go to Hollywood, buy yourself a Sunday Los Angeles Times. It has an enormous want ad section, and it's thick enough to use as a mattress, if necessary.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I'm a monster, but here goes. I am a 24-year-old woman with a 5-year-old son from my first husband, and a 1-year-old son from George, to whom I've been happily married to for two years.

George legally adopted my older son (Junior), but now he wants me to give the boy back to his real father, who is also remarried, and who would dearly love to legally adopt this boy. (So would his new wife.)

My husband says he can't help favoring the younger boy (his own) and I fully understand, because the older one is the living image of his real father. Junior has expressed a desire to live with his real father, and he cries when he has to come home to us after spending the weekend there.

I confess, I also favor the youngest boy, and I honestly cannot give him the love he needs.

My problem is what will people say about a mother who gives her own child away? I know he'd be better off with his natural father, but I'm afraid if I let him go, I'll feel guilty. Can you help me?

TORN IN TEXAS
DEAR TORN: Under the circumstances, Junior would be better off with his natural father, who wants him. You don't and neither does your present husband. The boy wants to go. So let him, and don't feel guilty. You'd be doing the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who really gets my goat. Sometimes when I've been on the phone for a long time she will call and shout in a very angry tone: "I have been trying to get you for an hour—who in the devil have you been yakking with for so long?" And like a fool, I apologetically tell her.

Or if I come home after having been gone all day, she'll phone and bark: "I've been trying to reach you all day—where the heck were you?" Not knowing what else to say, I tell her.

I don't think I have to account to her about where I've been or to whom I've been talking to. Other than coming right out and telling her it's none of her business, can you suggest a more subtle way of telling her off?

ANNOYED IN DENVER
DEAR ANNOYED: Say: "If anybody asks you . . . just tell 'em you don't know." She'll get the message.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Have a beautiful Christmas Eve. Call up an enemy and bury the hatchet.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 24, the 358th day of 1973. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1814, the United States and England signed the Treaty of Ghent in Belgium, ending the War of 1812.

On this date: In 1524, the Portuguese navigator who discovered the sea route to India, Vasco da Gama, died.

In 1650, Edinburgh Castle in Scotland surrendered to the forces of Oliver Cromwell.

In 1865, a secret order called the Ku Klux Klan was organized in Pulaski, Tennessee.

In 1942, the French administrator in North Africa, Admiral Jean Darlan, was assassinated in Algiers during World War II.

In 1943, Franklin Roosevelt announced that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower would command Allied forces in the coming invasion of Europe.

In 1949, there was a new Christmas song hit: "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives approved a request by President Lyndon Johnson for power to use federal credit guarantees to facilitate U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Apollo 8 astronauts orbited the moon and sent back a Christmas Eve prayer for peace.

One year ago: The United States called a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam over Christmas.

Today's birthdays: Billionaire Howard Hughes is 68 years old. Choreographer Robert Joffrey is 43.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, DEC. 25

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Keep enlarging your sphere of contacts — particularly among those who share your interests and contribute to your personality development.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Make this day as tranquil and peaceful as you would like it to be. You will probably find greater pleasure in familiar surroundings than in out-of-the-way places.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Talking things over with friends or family members could have far-reaching but favorable consequences. Explore all ideas.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Not only should the day live up to your expectations, but it may even surpass them. Afternoon and evening hours will be distinctly social.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

If travel is necessary, take more than the usual precautions to make it safe. There could be some delays or interruptions along the way.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A day when you can sit back and rest on your laurels — with warm satisfaction. Hours after noon splendid for social interests.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

It would be wise to keep plans flexible now. Certain changes of circumstance may call for sudden improvisation.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Certain trends, a desired development or something equally stimulating should start your day off happily — and keep it so.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Whether you have elected to travel or remain at home, you seem assured of heartwarming displays of affection, interesting communications and splendid cooperation.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Whatever is planned should include those who look up to you for affection and guidance. Thus you will give EVERYONE a lift.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Chance could very well step in and unexpectedly hand you, on the proverbial silver platter, what all your striving couldn't attain: A fine day!

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your feelings now are far more reliable than advice from so-called experts. Never underestimate your truly extraordinary intuition.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect; are ambitious and scholarly in your leanings. You have a lively imagination, are inventive and may be attracted in scientific experimentation. You have a subtle but scintillating wit and, with your gregarious nature, make friends easily. Try, however, to hold on to them. Don't jeopardize associations with occasional spurts of suspicion and jealousy, a Capricornian tendency. You are extremely versatile; could become a successful writer, artist, editor, musician; would be exceptionally capable in the advertising and promotional fields.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 26

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

You may not find it exactly easy to get back in stride now, but when you spot an unusual opportunity for making gains, you'll revive quickly.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Someone may try to place a burdensome imposition on you. Reject what you consider unfair, but graciously offer alternatives for handling.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Certain situations may disturb during the a.m. — especially since you can't seem to put your finger on the cause. Try to get a little privacy and THINK! The answer will come — seemingly "out of the blue."

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Mild influences indicate a so-so day unless you do something about it. But, in your search for more stimulating activities, don't go off on wild tangents.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

If you hear certain news or receive some mail that's not too pleasing, you may feel likely to explode. But DON'T vent your ill-humor on associates.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A day calling for the utmost discretion. Taking issue with associates — even if you KNOW you are right — could have a bitter ending.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

An ideal day in which to gather in the fruits of past endeavors. Reward may come in the form of a promotion — with expanded prestige.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Take the necessary measures to protect certain economic interests which may have been threatened. You can do it, but you'll need a cool, level head.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Now's the time to make the effort toward the attainment of a major goal. You have plenty of stellar support to back you.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Your outlook similar to that of Sagittarius. If you are bursting with self-confidence, as you should be, this is the day for gaining cooperation in putting over a pet project.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Several chances to do better than usual. Take advantage of all worthwhile opportunities. A good period in which to try out new ideas and methods.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Aspects now increase your desire for further recognition and prestige. Both can be attained by using a new approach. Don't stymie yourself by sticking to the traditional.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with personal magnetism, a fine mind and boundless ambition. Capricornians are renowned, also, for their versatility and for their accomplishments in scholarly and artistic endeavors. You have a keen conception of money values and are generally willing to plod until you have accumulated a competency. Your integrity is outstanding, as is your practicality and meticulousness in handling details — even though you dislike them. Fields in which you could carve a successful career: science, music, writing, education, statesmanship and architecture. Traits to curb: secretiveness, envy, jealousy.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
2♣	3♣	Dble	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead — nine of diamonds.

This deal occurred in the European championship in the match between Norway and Italy. East-West were Franco and Giovine, representing Italy. They were playing the Marmic system and Franco's two club bid showed a three-suited hand with 5-4-4-0 or 4-4-4-1 distribution.

The Norwegian South thought he might be able to cramp the opponents' bidding before they could find their suit, so he bid three clubs.

Giovine, who does not speak English well, asked for a review of the bidding and, upon being assured (in Italian) that South had actually bid three clubs, licked his chops and doubled (in English).

With four likely trump tricks and a partner who had opened the bidding, Giovine was highly confident of his double. He led the nine of diamonds.

Declarer won in dummy and returned the king of spades. Franco took the ace and played the king of hearts, which South ruffed. After cashing the queen of spades, declarer trumped a spade in dummy, ruffed a heart and played a diamond to the ace.

By now seven tricks had been played and South had won six of them. He still had the A-Q-J of trumps, as well as a spade and two diamonds. West's remaining six cards were all trumps.

Declarer now led a heart from dummy and discarded a diamond. West was forced to ruff and return a trump.

South won it with the jack and exited with the jack of diamonds. Again West had to ruff and lead a trump, so South made three clubs doubled.

Apparently West's double was unwise, but nonetheless it would be hard to find any red-blooded bridge player who wouldn't double three clubs with the West hand — in any language.

Sleeping Pills: The Dangers

Whenever I finally find a sleeping pill that helps to give me a good night's sleep it is soon taken off the market because it is dangerous.

What's left for us insomniacs? Mr. H.F., Tex.

Dear Mr. F.:

The drugs, or sleeping pills, are not "taken off the market." Rather are they classed as "dangerous" to those who take them in excess. Unfortunately, many valuable drugs are abused by those who take them in large quantities.

The reasons for which they were designed are fundamentally valid and serve to provide a good night's sleep. It is the overuse, abuse and addiction of these drugs that make it necessary to impose the sanctions you refer to. Hazardous drugs are therefore prescribed in small quantities by physicians in order to avoid the dangers of overuse.

My uncle has plastic anemia. Could this come from his work in a factory that makes plastic products?

Miss T.N., Va.

Dear Miss N.:

The condition you refer to is known as aplastic anemia. There is absolutely no relationship between this condition and exposure to modern synthetic plastic.

Aplastic anemia is a special type of blood disorder which can be diagnosed only by microscopic studies of the blood. In this condition, the red blood cells are affected, while the white blood cells are normal.

The cause of this complex type of anemia may be exposure to chemical agents like arsenic and benzene. Other chemicals can produce aplastic anemia after long periods of exposure.

Any factory workers who inhale fumes or come in contact with questionable chemicals are usually given protective devices.

Some cases of aplastic anemia occur in infants and young children because of a genetic disorder.

Ruffles flourish for the toddler set

Christmas belles

OLD-FASHIONED charm in a new version of the ever-popular pinafore. Embroidered and appliqued with birds-and-flower motif, it is worn over a bright red short dress.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHO SAYS Christmas is for children? It's really for adults, that wonderful time of year when they can recapture through their own offspring the magic of past holiday seasons when they were young.

Christmas is for everyone, especially for doting grandmothers and fond mothers. It offers them a delightful excuse for dressing up their own live dolls in festive finery, and they love doing it.

Every holiday it seems that designers have outdone themselves in creating fashions for the younger set. This year is no exception. Fashions for little girls are frilly and fuzzy with ruffles and flourishes. You'll find it hard to resist them when you shop.

Nannette, a house that leads the way in toddler fashions, offers a number of long gowns in its holiday collection. They're ankle-length so they show off new party shoes and lace-edged socks.

Those who prefer short dresses — they show off dimpled knees and plump little legs — needn't worry. Short styles are plentiful in the Nannette collection. Among the most beguiling are pinafore dresses that have old-fashioned charm. The one pictured here is crisp snow white over a lace-edged red dress.

Nannette's Christmas collection may look frilly and fragile but all the fashions are super practical, designed for machine wash-and-wear easy care.

Christmas cookies They're a holiday tradition

HERE'S a bar cookie that takes the cake. Easy to make, Fyrstekake has cardamom and almond filling under its crisscross pastry.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
YOU KNOW Christmas is right around the corner when the house is filled with the wonderfully spicy aroma of cookies in the making and baking. It's a holiday tradition in many homes, one children love, and one they'll remember all their lives.

With all the hustle-bustle of Christmas, cookie-making sometimes gets left until the last minute, and then it's done in a rush that spoils the fun. So don't wait, this weekend roll out your dough and start baking. It's the best way I know to get into that merry frame of mind that's called Christmas Spirit.

Every country has its Christmas cookie tradition. The Germans like spiced cookies with figures pressed into them. They are called:

SPRINGERLE (Molded Anise Cookies)

- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Sugar or all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons anise seed

In a large mixing bowl, beat eggs until light; gradually beat in sugar until mixture is very pale and thick. Stir in lemon peel and vanilla. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to egg mixture, blending well (dough should be smooth but not sticky). Chill for 1 hour.

Sprinkle pastry board lightly with sugar or flour. Roll dough 1/2-inch thick. Make design with springerle roller or molds. Cut into squares.

Place cookies on buttered cookie sheets which have been sprinkled generously with anise seed. Set cookies aside for at least 24 hours. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until edges are pale gold. Do not brown. Cool on wire racks. Store in an air-tight container at least 10 days before eating. These cookies may be stored for several months.

Makes about 4 dozen.
Honey, an ingredient that's naturally good, lends its sweet taste to another German holiday favorite:

LEBKUCHEN (Honey Bars)

- 1 & one-third cups honey
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided

1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 package (2 1/2 ounces) slivered, blanched almonds

1/4 cup finely chopped citron
1/4 cup grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon apple pie spice
In a large saucepan, combine honey and sugar; heat slightly. Add butter; stir until melted. Sift 2 cups of the flour with baking powder and baking soda. Add to honey mixture, blending well (dough will be semi-liquid). Blend in almonds, citron, lemon peel and apple pie spice. Add remaining 1 1/2 cups flour; mix well (dough will be sticky to the touch).

Wet the back side of a metal spoon with cold water and use to spread dough evenly in four buttered 8 x 8-inch square pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Immediately remove from pans and cut into squares. Store in tightly covered container at least 1 week before using. They soften during storage. These bars may be kept for several weeks.

GERMAN Christmas cookies: Springerle with designs pressed into them and Lebkuchen, spiced honey bars.

Makes 4 (8-inch) square cakes.
There's cardamom-almond filling under the pastry that crisscrosses these delectable bar cookies:

FYRSTAKE

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons milk
- Cardamom-Almond filling

Sift together into a mixing bowl, flour, baking powder and sugar. Add butter and cut it into crumb consistency. Beat egg yolk with milk and add. Mix well.

Press two-thirds of the dough 1/2-inch thick into the bottom of a 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Spread surface with Cardamom-Almond Filling (the recipe follows). Roll remaining dough 1/8-inch thick into a rectangle. Cut into strips 1/2-inch wide with a pastry cutter. Place in a crisscross fashion over the filling. Bake in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Cool and cut into bars. Serve as a bar cookie.

Makes 54 (1 by 2-inch) bars.

CARDAMOM-ALMOND FILLING

- 1 1/4 cups unblanched almonds
- 1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 egg white
- 6 tablespoons water

Put almonds through the food chopper using the fine blade (or use blender). Add sugar with spices, egg white and water. Blend thoroughly.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That landmark TV film "My Sweet Charlie" is returning to the air Christmas Eve. "My Sweet Charlie," first seen on NBC Jan. 20, 1970, marked one of those rare turning points in television. A movie made especially for TV had for the first time achieved prestige and acclaim.

The film itself did not win the Emmy that year as outstanding dramatic program, losing out to the special, "A Storm in Summer." But Emmys did go to Patty Duke as best actress, to Richard Levinson and William Link for their teleplay and to Edward M. Abrams for best film editing.

Until "My Sweet Charlie," the TV movie, still a newcomer on the scene, had been slick and generally competent, but there was little luster attached to it.

Another NBC movie, "Silent Night, Lonely Night," which ran a month earlier, helped clear the way but did not receive the acclaim of "Charlie."

After that, TV movies became more prestigious and supplanted taped drama as the major dramatic vehicle of television. Such movies include "Brian's Song," "That Certain Summer," "A War of Children," "The Marcus-Nelson Murders," "Go Ask Alice," "The Affair," "Sunshine" and "Blood Sport."

TV movies also are presented under other names, such as specials, but remain essentially movies for television. Such specials include "The Snow Goose," "Jane Eyre" and Sunday night's memorable "The Glass Menagerie."

"My Sweet Charlie," which stars Miss Duke and Al Freeman Jr., is about a pregnant young Southern girl who hides out in a house along the Texas coast. There she meets a black New York lawyer fleeing from the police. Their antagonism toward each other gradually grows into respect.

Levinson and Link wrote the screenplay from the novel by David Westheimer. Lamont Johnson directed.

The TV movie had begun to show signs of lagging this year. CBS cut back its Tuesday night series of original movies—the platform for last year's Emmy winner, "A War of Children"—and introduced two rotating series, "Hawkins" and "Shaft." And NBC, which had pioneered the TV movie, had neglected it in recent years. It was ABC which honed it to a fine edge with its two nights of Movies of the Week.

At midseason, however, NBC is re-entering the field with a new Wednesday night series of originals and theatrical films. Prominent among the originals is "The Execution of Private Slovik," which Levinson and Link wrote from the book by William Bradford Huie. It chronicles the execution of the only soldier for desertion in World War II.

Poor nations hurt by energy crunch

UNITED NATIONS, New York (AP) — Although industrialized nations are being hit hard by the energy crisis, a United Nations report says developing countries are feeling the fuel crunch even more.

Millions of poor villagers in India, for example, have so little fuel that they are having to choose between cooking their food and heating their homes, according to the U.N. report.

Some 80 countries, many of them poorer than India, have weak financial structures, the document adds, and have staked their hopes for a better future on imported oil and fertilizers.

As the oil shortage becomes more acute and prices skyrocket, these nations are without so-called safety valves that are available to the United States, Japan and the Western European nation, the report claims.

The safety valves may be in financial reserves to cover the inflated oil prices, in coal deposits that can be reactivated to take the pressure off of oil imports, or in technology to speed the development of nuclear, geothermal or solar energy.

The U.N. document says soaring oil prices have severely affected prices in these poorer nations.

In Poona, 75 miles from Bombay, motor scooter prices have jumped from 7,000 to 9,000 rupees as "dealers speculated that the middle class, which had laboriously worked its way up to sedans, would now scurry back to scooters," the report said. One dollar equals about 7 rupees.

And kerosene prices in India have jumped to 55 cents a gallon, about a full day's wages in villages where poor laborers make as little as three to four rupees a day.

"Hardest hit were the poorer classes — the users of bottled cooking gas, mostly in cities, and of kerosene, which supplies such light and heat as the villagers can afford," the report says.

"Millions of people suddenly had to decide whether they wanted food or light and heat. At the new prices they might not be able to afford both." The report says the prices of charcoal and firewood also climbed.

Homicides continue on holidays

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent death takes no holiday during the Christmas season.

Police say yuletide historically is filled with violence, and this Christmas weekend was no different.

Shootings claimed the lives of at least five Ohio residents, three in the Warren area.

A man and a woman were victims of what police called an apparent double murder at a Warren Township home. Trumbull County deputies identified the pair as 22-year-old Fred Bechman and 23-year-old Lola Ann Fleeton, both of Youngstown. Police said no arrests had been made.

Authorities were questioning a suspect Sunday in the death of James Salzman, 27, of Youngstown. Police said Salzman was gunned down in the parking lot of a night spot near Warren. Police records show 24 persons were murdered this year in Trumbull County. Eleven died this month.

Police were holding a Toledo mother and her son in the shooting death of the woman's husband.

Authorities said Mrs. Thelma Rambo and her son were charged in connection with the death of Lee Rambo.

Margaret Baldwin of Columbus faced arraignment today on a charge of manslaughter. She was being held in the shooting death of Dennis James at her east side residence.

Alfalfa juice is projected as being able to boost the protein content of breads, pastries, pastas, soups, stews, gravies, milk substitutes, ground meats and other processed foods.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The recent arrival of photo annuals, magazines and books might offer suggestions for last-minute Christmas giftgiving for camera fans.

The U.S. Camera — Camera 35 Annual unifies its 1973 round-up of portfolios with the theme of "Personal Pictures" (American Express Publishers, New York, $1.50). As editor Jim Hughes points out, a camera and the photographs it takes often reveal as much about the person behind the lens as the subject in front of it.

Some photographers do it unconsciously, viewing the world around them with personal, preceptive vision that mirrors their outlook and identifies their output. Others actually turn the camera on themselves to record their lifestyles. And there are a few who try to go further, seeking to picture their inner thoughts, emotions and moods.

Camera 35 Annual shows each of these types of personal pictures among examples from 14 photographers but it stars actress Gina Lollobrigida on the cover and with 16 pages of her photos.

Other include a remarkable family album by Catherine Noren which spans a century of picture taking through four generations; a revealing look at primitive people by Canadian traveler Richard Iden; and color portfolios which focus on Nature's beauty in Okafenoque Swamp by Andrew Unkang and on people in Central Park by Pearl Korn.

Gina Lollobrigida's pictures of her native Italy were a delightful surprise which showed she has a passion for taking pictures as well as a keen eye, an alert trigger finger and competent mastery of her equipment. She also had a tremendous handicap — public recognition.

To overcome it, she had to resort to complete disguises in order to shoot in anonymity. About 200 of her pictures, from thousands taken in the past couple of years, have been selected for Gina's newly published book, "Italia Mia" (Amphoto, Garden City, N.Y., $14.95). "Personal Pictures," like any human activity, can go too far at times and get too personal. The result was that I, the viewer, felt like an intruder or a Peeping Tom in a couple of instances. It was an uncomfortable feeling. What it revealed of the photographer would be normally an invasion of privacy. But we find, in all media and all levels of conduct — public and private — these are not "normal" times.

SOME MONTHS AGO a new photo magazine, with a French connection and an American base, made a test appearance in the U.S. Public reaction was favorable and now we have "Photo World" on newsstands around the country on a regular basis, starting with the December 1973 issue (Dow Jones Publishers, New York $1). Its spicy French flavor comes from its sire, PHOTO magazine, a Paris publication. Other ingredients are strictly American but the overall emphasis is on what talented photographers produce — photographs.

Basic books designed to illuminate the subject of photography, to unravel some of its complexities and explain techniques, are always welcome. Here's a new one that seems to do the job well: "Photography Is..." by Wyatt Brummitt (Amphoto Publishers, Garden City, N.Y., $9.95).

The fundamentals are explained and illustrated and if the text is well digested and put to practical use, it should accomplish the author's objective: "...to help the reader attain better, more eloquent, more individual and more useful pictures."

FOR A GOOD photo book for youngsters, I recommend "Tinker and the Medicine Men — The Story of a Navajo Boy" by Bernard Wolf (Random House, New York, $4.95). It is a picture story with dramatic photos and a warm, enlightening text which describes the life of a 6-year-old Indian boy.

This is Wolf's fourth book for America's youngsters which depicts the everyday life of a child of another land or culture simply and sympathetically. He previously went to Ecuador for the picture story of "The Little Weaver of Agato;" to the Azores to photograph "Daniel and the Whale Hunters;" and to the West Indies for "The Jamaica Boy."

In each case, he lived with the native families he photographed, gained their confidence and respect and told their stories with sensitive dignity.

FINALLY, in this grim world beset with violence, there's a camera and a voice which cries loudly, "Is Anyone

ALL EYES are on the passing girl and none on the photographer who happens to be Italy's famous actress, Gina Lollobrigida—but that's because she was disguised in baggy clothes and floppy wig. This eye-catching slice of Italian life is one of a portfolio of pictures by Lollobrigida which appears in the current U.S. Camera—Camera 35 Annual.

Taking Any Notice?" The voice and camera belong to Donald McCullin, British photojournalist, and the query gets an unusual presentation in a beautifully printed book published by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

McCullin's assignments — mostly self-imposed — have taken him to the world's trouble spots in Biafra, Cyprus, the Congo, India, Bangladesh, Northern Ireland, Vietnam, England and America. His photos of man's inhumanity to man are powerful but artistic images that ask that relentless title question.

There is no text in the usual sense. Instead, the photographer's succinct comments are noted in isolated phrases or words that illuminate the photos. At the same time, appropriate comments by Russian novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn are excerpted from his Nobel Prize speech and appear with the pictures too.

The book's conception and design is unique and the title deserved a universal and affirmative answer.

Real estate chief hurt in blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the Ohio Real Estate Commission remained in serious condition today following a fire in his suburban Sycamore Township home Sunday that killed his wife and injured a son.

Montgomery volunteer firemen said the body of Mrs. Florence Tranter, 57, was draped out a second floor window when they arrived. She apparently had pushed out the window from the den where the fire began, firemen said.

John L. Tranter, 58, was in Cincinnati General Hospital with burns over 60 per cent of his body, the Hamilton County sheriff's department said.

Tobacco sales

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky farmers received a total of $228,392,318.24 on burley tobacco markets prior to the Christmas sales recess, the State Department of Agriculture said Sunday.

The price averaged $93.72 on sales totaling about 243,653,104 pounds during the four-week period before the holiday sales recess started last Thursday.

Exchange students tell of Christmas in their homelands

By MARK THELMANN

In South Africa, if you refer to the cherry, fat man in the red suit with the long white hair and beard as Santa Claus on St. Nicholas, you probably will get blank looks, for he is known as "Father Christmas."

In Spain and Bolivia, you have to wait nine days longer to exchange gifts. This is done on "Three Wise Men" day which is celebrated Jan. 6.

Although customs this time of year are different the world over, the underlying theme of thankfulness and giving is found everywhere.

SHEILA GORDON, the dark-haired, dark-eyed, 18-year-old foreign exchange student from Pietermaritzburg, South Africa is attending Miami Trace High School and living with the Will Braun family, Hess Rd., during her nine-month stay in Fayette County. She explained how Christmas is celebrated in her native country.

"Since I am of British descent, my family celebrates Christmas the same way Americans do, but what makes it different in South Africa is the way the Zulus, who work on my father's farm, celebrate it."

"The Zulu tribes come to our door on Christmas and ask for a 'Christmas box' which is a present prepared for them. In return for the gift, which is usually clothing for the children or food, they do a dance."

Sheila, who can speak fluent Zulu, said the Zulus are a contented, happy people.

"Everyday is Christmas to them and they are fun to be around. After the dance and the giftgiving, they have the rest of the day off so they return to their homes and proceed to get 'smashed,'" as Sheila put it.

"The Zulus drink quite a bit, but it never interferes with their work or anything; it's their life-style," Sheila commented.

Sheila added that people show up on your doorstep asking for Christmas boxes whom you can't remember ever seeing before.

"Even if someone held a door for you once, they appear Christmas morning, remind you of their good deed and ask for their gift. If you don't give them one, they follow you around all day, so you have to be prepared with plenty of presents," she explained laughingly.

FERNANDO MARTIN from Talavera, Spain, is another American Field Service (AFS) exchange student like Sheila. He and Walter Ayub from La Paz, Bolivia, who is sponsored by Rotary International, attend Washington Senior High School.

They both come from Spanish-speaking countries whose Christmas customs are very similar, and they both are perfecting their English with great haste.

Fernando, a slender, dark-haired, dark-eyed 17-year-old, who is staying with the Rev. Gerald Wheat family, 220 N. Hinde St., says that although through television and books he knows what Santa Claus stands for, Santa is not included in a Spanish Christmas.

"In mid-December, the streets are decorated with lights and we exchange Christmas cards through the mail as you do here, Fernando explained. "On Christmas Eve, my people get together over a turkey dinner. We have no Thanksgiving; that is unique in your country due to its history, so turkey is traditional for us only at Christmas."

Fernando commented the most exchanged gift in Spain is candy and brought out a piece his parents had recently sent him.

It was bar-shaped, 4" by 6" beige-colored, and filled with nuts, not chocolate. He cautioned that one can eat only a little at a time due to its sweetness. Otherwise, you will get sick.

He went on to explain that after the dinner celebration, during which everyone is allowed to drink and smoke regardless of age, the younger boys get together to go singing in the streets.

"The 8, 9, and 10-year-olds make very simple instruments, like pop bottles beaten with spoons, and go door-to-door singing and playing. In return, they are given coins by the people," Fernando said.

"When they return, everyone gets together for more singing and celebrating. Since most of the people in Spain live in apartment complexes, instead of houses as you do in America, it is easy for everyone to join in on the fun which continues long after midnight," Fernando added.

"Another big meal is served in the afternoon on Christmas Day," Fernando said, "and then since most of Spain is Catholic, we all attend Mass afterwards. We leave the mass, singing in the streets and then present a gift to our parents for which the children have saved their money. This is the only giftgiving."

FERNANDO continued: "The children get their gifts on 'Three Wise Men' day which is celebrated Jan. 6. There is a big parade in the streets the day before and that night we leave our shoes out in order to find our gifts in them, or next to them, the following morning."

Fernando next talked about celebrating New Year's Day.

"Everyone attends a big dance and dresses fancy on Dec. 31 and then at the stroke of midnight it is traditional to eat 12 grapes, one on every stroke; you have to go fast. Then we all hug and kiss and drink champagne."

Another contrast has to do with the Christmas pine tree.

"Only recently has this custom come to Spain, he said. "Before, we made models of the Nativity scene which were displayed on a table or the floor, depending on size. Some of them were quite intricate. We were influenced by the Christmas tree idea through television which is only 10 years old in Spain."

"Another thing I have thought of," Fernando added, "is the idea of the children's letter to Santa Claus telling him what is wanted. Since we have no Santa Claus, the children in Spain write to the Three Wise Men."

WALTER AYUB, the dark-haired, dark-eyed and dark-complexioned exchange student from La Paz, Bolivia, who is sponsored by Rotary, resides with the Dr. George Pommert family, 203 River Rd.

Walter explained that his Bolivian Christmas is much like Fernando's Spanish Christmas, except for a few things.

"Christmas trees in the homes are not yet popular. We still have replicas of the Nativity scene as our decoration and the presents are found placed around these on Christmas morning."

Walter related a custom in which the children are awakened at midnight Christmas Eve to place their shoes outside. When questioned why, he smiled sheepishly and admitted he really doesn't know.

"I can't see what purpose it serves, now that we are talking about it. We bring in the shoes the next morning and nothing is ever in them. I'll have to ask about it when I return," he said smiling.

Walter explained the relatives got together over a big dinner on Christmas Day and have a big celebration. "Like in Spain, everyone drinks and smokes and enjoys themselves," he said.

Walter continued, "More presents are given on New Year's Day. They mostly consist of clothes given to the children by their parents. We get together and celebrate some more, but we don't eat grapes at the stroke of midnight. I've never heard of that," he said, looking confused. "Are you sure Fernando wasn't kidding you?"

AFTER TALKING about Christmas in their native lands, all three foreign exchange students had more to say concerning their first visit to America.

Sheila Gordon said she left her father's broiler and vegetable farm - a "broiler" is a type of chicken, usually sold to the Indians in South Africa who are forbidden to eat beef because of religious convictions - and spent 22 hours in the air before she got to America.

"It all started when the AFS representative came to my private school of 1,000 girls and told us about the exchange program. I applied and after much paperwork and interviewing, was selected."

There were many things I expected to experience in America which were different from South Africa. I knew the seasons were reversed and this would be a cooler climate. There is no central heating in my country because the coldest it ever gets in winter is 40 degrees; usually it is 60 degrees in winter. I don't mind the cold and I like the snow," she said.

Sheila stated that wood houses seemed strange to her.

"The houses here are very pretty. In South Africa, the houses are either made of brick or mud and sticks. The freedom here is a new thing too. We are not as politically active in my country because of the strong censorship of the newspapers and radio and there is no TV."

Concerning her education in a private school, Sheila said, "Although I am taking sociology, psychology, government, typing, world and drama literature, speech, English composition and band at Miami Trace, I feel it is still easier than my school."

"In South Africa, you attend school for 12 years," she continued, "but all testing is essay. I finished high school at age 17 and went to the university for six months before coming here. After my stay in America is over, I plan to go to the University of Natal and earn a B.A. degree in language, majoring in Zulu and French. I then plan on teaching Zulu to Europeans and English and French to the Zulus."

Sheila has an older brother and sister in her family and her father worked in a gold mine before turning to farming.

FERNANDO MARTIN left a younger brother and sister, his mother and his father who works for the railroad in Spain, when he came to America. He said he enjoyed his trip over which gave him an opportunity to explore Paris, France by bus, during a stop-over.

"I enjoyed Paris very much. It's very pretty because they have a wet climate which makes everything lush and green," Fernando commented.

Fernando also said he thinks school is easier in America.

"In Spain, you attend elementary school until you turn 14. Then you have a choice of working, finding a vocational school to go to or continuing for two more years. If you decide to go to college, you go another year for preparation. Upon passing all your exams, you enter college and study for your degree four or five years."

He continued: "In Spain, those planning on college must attend the college in their district. If you wish to attend another you must request permission from the college in mind."

Fernando, who is doing well with the English he manages to speak very quickly, admitted although he learned English in school in Spain, the real education of the language started when he set foot in America.

"At first, I couldn't understand anything and I had the constant delusion that people were talking about me. I'm doing much better now and have gained a lot of confidence. In fact, this whole experience has changed my personality and life. I am much more independent and willing to do things and go places alone. I never did that before."

FERNANDO admitted he missed the parks in Spain.

"There are parks in Washington C.H., but no one used them. People are always walking in the parks in Spain and they used as places to meet and talk and relax."

"I have also noticed the streets and sidewalks here are used to get places, whereas in Spain, they are used for walking and window shopping. The streets are much narrower and the sidewalks, wider, and the people walk for the sake of walking, like they do in the parks."

Fernando admitted he didn't like American food at first because it tasted bland.

"Spanish food is hot and spicy and we eat on different schedule. We'll have a biscuit or toast in the morning and a small sandwich around 11 a.m. Our lunch, consisting of three courses: soup, main dish and dessert, comes around 2:30 p.m. At 6 p.m., we have another small sandwich and this is followed by another three-course dinner around 9 p.m. Afterwards, we watch television and then go to bed around midnight."

Fernando went on about television: "We have one, sometimes two state-controlled stations in Spain. Our shows are mostly American with dubbed-in Spanish and are broadcast only in black and white. I find the voice-match for the dubbing remarkable since I have watched American TV. I have seen 'Medical Center,' 'Cannon,' the 'Lucy Show,' 'Marcus Welby,' 'Bewitched,' all of them in Spain and the real English voices are almost the same as the dubbed Spanish ones."

WALTER AYUB left two brothers, his father, who runs an import store, and a cousin who lives with him in Bolivia, when he came to America. He admitted being very homesick at first, but well adjusted and content now.

"English has been my main barrier in America because I arrived with only a two-week crash course in this difficult language behind me. That was very minimal preparation!" Walter exclaimed.

Walter said outside of his difficulty with English, school here is not that hard.

"In Bolivia, grades are through 6 is primary school; 7 through 12 is secondary school. After this is completed, you choose to go to work or to go to college for four or five years to earn a degree."

He admitted unhappily that after secondary school or college, there is

Energy pinch adds to tragedy

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Before the energy shortage, Charles Huffstutler, 38, made $2.80 an hour as a shipper for an Ohio plastics processing company.

Now Huffstutler is out of work, a victim of the crisis in energy.

His former employer, Meridian Plastics of nearby Byesville in central Ohio, cut its work force from 200 to 100 in a matter of days.

When General Motors cut back large car production, another casualty of the fuel shortage, Meridian lost its biggest customers. The Byesville factory made plastic parts for big GM cars.

That was merely the straw that threatened to break the camel's back. Even if General Motors still were buying, Meridian would have trouble finding raw materials. The raw material for plastics comes from oil. Processors say available material, already in short supply, is being shipped overseas for higher prices.

"The material shortage is what's hitting us," said Huffstutler.

"They put on the bulletin board that if the government doesn't do something about shipping all the raw material overseas, that they're going to have to shut the factory down completely in February, that they'll run out of stock of what material they have on hand."

But, Huffstutler's mind wasn't on his job. His wife had been hospitalized a week after he was laid off. He began living in a hallway of Guernsey Memorial Hospital in Cambridge.

Standing outside the door of his wife's room, Huffstutler talked of his job in

Soybean growers plan to promote 'checkoff' plan

A group of soybean growers from Clinton, Fayette and Greene counties plan to promote the half cent per bushel checkoff referendum, which will be voted on at the Fayette County Agriculture Extension office Jan. 8-9-10.

John Gruber, Fayette County Extension Agent, presented facts about soybeans at a meeting held last week at the Wilmington Elks Lodge stating that more than 150,000 acres of soybeans were raised in the three counties in 1973. In 1973, 55 per cent of the production was exported. "It is therefore essential to promote the sale of soybeans overseas since there are seven other products in competition for the world protein market and nine other products competing for oil sales," Gruber said.

John Miller, field representative for the American Soybean Association, stated that 11 other states already have estimated there will be a 200 million bushel carryover of soybeans, Miller pointed out.

IN THE PAST more than 100 million bushel carryover has resulted in depressed prices, Miller said. With a shortage of nitrogen fertilizers, more farmers could substitute soybeans for corn in their farming operation next year, resulting in a still larger supply.

Norman Schiering, Ohio Soybean Statewide Temporary Committee member from Fayette County, said the 18-man committee has spent many hours establishing the recommended soybean checkoff.

Farmers at the annual meetings in Clinton, Fayette and Greene counties approved resolutions favoring the soybean checkoff. Representatives from Fayette County encouraging a vote were Robert Taylor, Richard Davidson, Richard Carson, Wayne Hidy and Schiering. Also attending were Ed Fladt, John Crain, Walter Garman and Gruber.

mandatory enlistment in the army for four months and everyone does this without exception.

Walter agreed with Fernando about the parks and walking and added that on New Year's Day everyone meets in the park.

He mentioned TV is only three years old in Bolivia and movie houses were heavily patronized.

"On Sunday afternoon, everyone goes to the movies," he said.

When asked what he likes best about America, he smiled and answered, "The girls! They are so much prettier and taller and appear so much older."

slow, worried tones, lacking the intense quality of bitterness.

"I'm concerned about my wife, not my job," he said. He shrugged. "You can't hold a grudge against a factory when it's not their fault," he said. "All you can blame is the government, and you don't know who to blame in that."

He moved his heavy body restlessly, one ear tuned to the door. "I don't think there is a shortage. During this Vietnam War they used billions of gallons a month, and there never was a shortage. And here it is, the war's over, and they're not using that, and yet here comes up a shortage all the sudden."

"I could understand it slowly, but not all at once, that much shortage," he said. "I think they just want to get the gasoline and everything up higher."

Adding to Huffstutler's worry in his conviction that a depression is coming. "My dad always said that a depression was going to come eventually, no ifs, ands or buts about it," he said. "The way I look at it, it probably is."

Still, he looked at the prospect with a certain amount of optimism. At the time Huffstutler talked he and his wife lived with his parents on a farm near Lore City, Ohio, a dozen miles to the east of his former job.

Huffstutler's father is retired. His wife's hospitalization was covered by insurance, he said, and the couple's expenses weren't high.

"It's not so hard on me as it would be for people that's got children," said Huffstutler. "We don't have children."

Huffstutler said he came to Ohio because of his wife. He used to live in southern California, he said, but his wife became frightened of earthquakes.

"When the earthquake hit (in 1971), she went in a fit, and, boy, I thought she was going to go out of her mind," he said. "So, I told her to pack her clothes."

Huffstutler said he was ready to quit the plastic industry. When his wife recovered, he said, they were going to move to her parents' home in Iowa.

"I'm just hanging around here until she gets well," he said.

Two days later Mrs. Huffstutler died.

Decanters cut back

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Liquor Control Director Richard Guggenheim has managed to bottle up his enthusiasm for decorative decanters lining the shelves of state liquor stores this time of year.

Guggenheim says he has spent three years trying to sell an inherited stock of 67,411 ceramic decanters.

After 35 months of determined effort, including selling at below cost such items as a California quail, a San Francisco cable car and a Winston Churchill commemorative, only 467 remain.

The new policy is to permit distillers to provide special decanters, but only if they can be returned if they don't sell, Guggenheim said.

"We buy very few of these things now, and we put them in specially for Christmas on a limited basis," he said.

Super Bowl prospects dwindle down to four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League Super Bowl countdown is at four and holding. Minnesota and Dallas are still alive in the National Conference and Oakland and Miami are the American Conference survivors after the opening weekend of playoff games dominated by home teams.

Minnesota had the closest call, outlasting Washington 27-20 on a pair of fourth quarter touchdown passes from Fran Tarkenton to John Gilliam. Dallas will host the Vikings for the NFC title next Sunday after eliminating Los Angeles 27-16 with Roger Staubach hitting Drew Pearson on two scoring pitches.

George Blanda's four field goals helped Oakland romp to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh. That put the Raiders in the AFC championship game against defending Super Bowl champion Miami next Sunday. The Dolphins advanced by whacking Cincinnati 34-16.

Vikings 27, Redskins 20
Minnesota managed only nine rushing yards in the first half and went into the dressing room trailing 7-3. That was when defensive end Carl Eller decided to shake things up. He made a little speech to his teammates, telling them to get out there and play football.

That bit of inspiration helped the Vikings turn the game around in the fourth quarter when Tarkenton, who's never been in the playoffs before in 13 pro seasons, tossed scoring passes of 28 and six yards to Gilliam.

Cowboys 27, Rams 16
Dallas forced turnovers on Los Angeles' first two offensive plays and cashed in for a pair of touchdowns en route to a 17-0 lead. Then the Rams rushed back, slashing away all but one point of the margin.

But rookie Drew Pearson, who had caught a four-yard TD pass earlier, grabbed an 83-yarder from Roger Staubach to finish off LA.

Raiders 33, Steelers 14
Blanda kicked field goals from 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, putting points on the scoreboard everytime the Raiders got him in range and insuring that there would be no opportunity for the kind of last-second heroics the Steelers used to eliminate Oakland from the playoffs a year ago.

Dolphins 34, Bengals 16
Cincinnati frightened Miami, scoring

13 points on two Horst Muhlmann field goals and an interception which safety Neal Craig returned for a TD, in the final 3½ minutes of the first half. That cut a comfortable 18-point Dolphin lead down to a less-awesome five points.

UCLA overwhelms Bonnies, 111-59

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes UCLA's basketball success startles even Bruin Coach John Wooden.

"I thought St. Bonaventure would be stronger than it was," said Wooden after the top-ranked Bruins captured their 81st straight victory by blasting the Bonnies 111-59 Saturday night.

"Perhaps," surmised Wooden, "they were awed by our strength."

The Bruins provided reason for awe, exploding for 20-2 and 13-3 scoring bursts in the first half, when they ran up a 63-20 lead.

In other games, second-ranked Maryland tripped Santa Clara 53-32; No. 7 Indiana survived a second-half scare to beat 15th-rated South Carolina 84-71; No. 8 Louisville defeated Bradley 74-65; No. 9 Providence trimmed DePaul 93-75 and No. 10 Alabama Alabama walked over Columbia 70-43.

Long Beach State, ranked 11th, walloped Indiana State 74-45; No. 12 Memphis State crushed Samford 101-69; No. 14 Arizona stopped Texas Tech 86-64; No. 16 Southern California halted Ohio U. 80-68; Vanderbilt, rated 17th, beat Kansas 83-72; No. 18 Syracuse upended Boston College 110-88 and in the only other loss among Top 20 teams, No. 19 Jacksonville was upset by St. John's, N.Y. 68-60.

Maryland chipped away at the Santa Clara defense to claim the championship of the Cable Car Classic in Oakland. John Lucas scored 23 points to win most valuable player honors in the tourney.

In a consolation game of the same tournament, San Francisco, a preseason ranked team, snapped a five-game losing streak by beating St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-63.

The 15th-ranked Gamecocks came back to within three points of Indiana in the second half after trailing by 14. "It looked like last year all over again," said Indiana Coach Bob Knight, referring to a game where the Hoosiers frittered away a 16-point lead to South Carolina in the second half.

Louisville outscored Bradley 20-6

So, the defending world champions did just that. They shut out Cincinnati in the second half and got a second TD pass from quarterback Bob Griese and a pair of long range field goals of 46 and 50 yards by Garo Yepremian to finish off the Bengals.

early in the first half and then held on for its sixth straight victory. Bill Butler scored 19 points for Louisville, which was bothered by a fullcourt press in the second half which cut its lead to three points.

Providence duo Kevin Stacom and Marvin Barnes took care of DePaul. Stacom scored 38 points, while Barnes had 16 points and 17 rebounds.

Alabama, upset Friday night by St. John's in the opening round of the Connecticut Classic, came back to punish Columbia with Ray Odums scoring 15 points.

Meanwhile, St. John's continued to be a giantkiller, beating Jacksonville behind the shooting of Frank Alagia who scored 19 points and was named the Classic's most valuable player.

Long Beach State forced Indiana State into 23 turnovers and 26 per cent shooting from the floor, as Long Beach got 14-point performances from Leonard Gray, Clifton Pondexter and Glenn McDonald.

John Washington, starting for the first time because of senior Wes Westfall's illness, scored 17 points and grabbed 24 rebounds for Memphis State; Coniel Norman scored 25 points to pace Arizona over Texas Tech; Southern California ran off 12 straight points in 2:23 of the first half to spurt ahead of Ohio University; Lee Fowler and Terry Compton combined for 37 points to lead Vanderbilt over Kansas and Dennis DuVal collected 30 points for Syracuse which beat Boston College, for its 36th straight home triumph.

New Mexico State captured its own Roadrunner Invitational tourney, beating Oklahoma State 85-56; the host also triumphed in the Oral Roberts Classic, as Oral Roberts defeated Murray State 86-83 and Dayton beat California 66-62 to capture its Dayton Invitational.

Larry Fogle, the nation's leading major college scorer with a 36-point average, tallied 43 points in Canisius' 127-88 victory over Scranton U.

Flyers win in Dayton Invitational

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stung by a one-point championship loss last year to Alabama, the University of Dayton hung on this year and won over the University of California-Berkeley 66-62 Saturday night in the Dayton Invitational.

Dayton was led by co-captains Donald Smith and Mike Sylvester, both of whom drew praise from California Coach Dick Edwards.

"Sylvester was tough, really tough," Edwards said. "He hurt us inside and we put him at the foul line too much. It's hard to keep the ball away from him."

"And not too many people can shut out Don Smith," Edwards said.

Dayton Coach Don Donoher said the championship "should give the team confidence."

Smith scored Dayton's last two points with 1:13 remaining after being fouled by Rickie Hawthorne, opening a seven-point lead—the widest margin of the game.

But Hawthorne bounded back, sinking a hook shot with 39 seconds left to narrow the gap to four points.

Dayton hung on to win the championship, however.

In the consolation game, forward Larry Haralson and guard Ron Caldwell led Drake to a 66-60 victory over Georgia. The two players, each scoring 18 points, brought Drake behind in the first half and led them to a 39-14 halftime lead.

"This tournament has been good for us in the sense that we'll correct mistakes," said Georgia Coach John Guthrie. "You come up to something like this to prepare yourself for a conference race."

Ohio State came from behind to take third place in the Kentucky Invitational tournament with an 85-80 victory over Dartmouth. The Buckeyes trailed by 11 points in the second half, but tied the score at 77-77 with 3:59 remaining and went on to win.

Dartmouth took control of the game midway through the first half, holding a 47-40 lead at halftime. But Buckeye Larry Bolden led Ohio State's comeback, hitting 13 points early in the second half. Bolden was high scorer

Tom Weiskopf named year's male golfer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio, has been named male golfer of the year by the Golf Writers of America.

Weiskopf, who won the British Open last summer and won $243,155 in 1973, won the title by a six-vote margin over fellow Columbus star Jack Nicklaus. Kathy Whitworth outpooled Judy Rankin for the women's title, while Gay Brewer and Patty Berg were named recipients of the Ben Hogan award for comebacks from physical ailments.

Big Ten basketball teams spread across continent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Ten basketball teams will spread throughout the continent and even into Hawaii this week for a series of holiday tournaments before finally settling down to conference openers Jan. 5.

They'll take with them a 43-23 record against interstate rivals but the going figures to be a lot tougher on the tournament trail which will feature strong opposition.

Seven teams will engage in tournament play including Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Michigan, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Minnesota.

Iowa, Northwestern and Ohio State will not participate in tournaments this week although Northwestern and Ohio State played in tournaments last week. Michigan also was involved in a tournament last week and the Wolverines captured their own tourney title with a 70-66 victory over Bowling Green in the championship game.

Ohio State took third place in the Kentucky Invitational by defeating Dartmouth 85-80 and Northwestern fell to Texas A&M 86-84 in the Marshall Tournament. The Wildcats lost both

Rose Bowl practice sessions different

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Woody Hayes and John McKay are taking entirely different practice approaches to the Rose Bowl game.

Hayes, the tough disciplinarian who coaches Ohio State, is drilling his Big Ten coachmen hard daily at Citrus Junior College.

The casual McKay, coach of Southern California, doesn't have another practice scheduled until Wednesday for his Pacific-8 champs.

The fourth-ranked Buckeyes (9-0-1), and the No. 7 Trojans, (9-1-1) are rematched in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Southern California whipped Ohio 42-17, last New Year's.

"I'm afraid we're soft," said Hayes, trying to snap a personal two-game losing streak and the Big Ten four-game winless spell in the Rose Bowl.

Hunter safety course offered

A special Hunter Safety Course will be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish & Game Association and held at their lodge. This community service event will take place on Sunday, December 30, from 1:30 - 4:00 P.M.

Movies and discussions on the subjects of safe gun handling in the home, on the range, and in the field will be highlighted. Jerry Cremeans, local game protector, will be the principal instructor. He will be assisted by experienced personnel of the sponsoring organization.

Interested persons of all ages are welcomed to participate. It is known that a substantial number of younger people will receive their first guns as Christmas gifts. Therefore, it is thought that the choice of December 30 as the date for the course will provide a timely opportunity for these youngsters to get off on the right foot by learning proper, responsible handling of their new hunting or target guns.

In addition to the indoor instructional phase of the course, some carefully supervised shotgun and rifle shooting will be conducted to help familiarize participants with their firearms and to give them a chance to practice safe gun handling under the watchful eye of competent instructors.

Participants will be awarded colorful Hunter Safety Course shoulder patches and certificates. The course and refreshments will be free of charge.

Miami of Ohio whips Gators, 16-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Miami, the Oxford, Ohio, school which calls itself the "cradle of coaches," has sent four former coaches on to major college football powerhouses. The present head man, Bill Mallory, wants to take the Mid-American Conference up with him.

"Florida played a major power tonight," Mallory said Saturday after his 15th ranked and undefeated team overpowered the Gators, 16-7, in the frost-bitten Tangerine Bowl.

"People should give the Mid-American Conference champion a little more consideration in the bowls," he said. "Our champion is capable of playing some of the best instead of them always having to pull in someone who is 6-4."

Florida finished the regular season with a 7-4 record, tied for fifth in the Southeastern Conference. But it won the last five games and was ranked No. 1 on defense in the SEC.

The victory gave Miami an 11-0 record and its first undefeated season since 1955, when the Redmen were coached by Ara Parseghian, now at Notre Dame.

Miami also has been coached by Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Pont of Northwestern.

The bowl game, played in mid-20 temperatures, drew 37,234.

Miami, No. 1 on defense in the nation, overwhelmed Florida with an old-fashioned power running formation and the type of hard-nosed, opportunistic defense that the SEC is famed for.

The Gators didn't get beyond mid-

1968 and Southern California triumphed in the last game.

McKay is coaching on his seventh Rose Bowl and Hayes in his sixth, ranking them one-two for most coaching appearances in the Pasadena classic. McKay is 4-2 and Hayes 3-2.

While Hayes likes his squad to mix it up, McKay takes the opposite approach in the final practices.

"We will not scrimmage," McKay said. "We don't want anyone getting hurt. We'll just try to get everyone in the best mental and physical shape possible."

Cavaliers top Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dwight Davis relishes a good personal performance, but he would prefer some new faces on the opposing team.

"I enjoy doing well, but I'm getting tired of playing against these guys," Davis said after he scored a game-high 25 points and paced the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 99-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Sunday night.

"We've played against them six times already, and that's a lot of times to play the same team."

Cleveland broke away from a 77-77 tie with nine minutes remaining, hit eight points in three minutes and stayed in command the rest of the way.

In other NBA games, Capital defeated Buffalo 110-85, Kansas City-Omaha beat Golden State 101-93 and Boston slipped past Seattle 96-95.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky nipped San Diego 123-120.

AL batting crown

BOSTON (AP)—With an average of .293, Baltimore's Tommy Davis has captured the individual crown and the Orioles, also averaging .293, took the team batting championship in the first year of the designated hitter in the American League.

Davis, formerly batting champion of the National League, had 156 hits in 432 times at bat as a designated hitter, according to official figures released by the league Saturday. Davis had 13 hits in another playing capacity and finished tied with Milwaukee's George Scott at .306 in the over-all batting race.

Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

It's a bright, sunny day here at your Fayette County Airport, with the sun reflecting on the ice and snow covering the ground and runway. It's very pretty, but it makes the take-offs and landings a little hazardous.

Larry and Gloria Loyd flew to Louisville, Ky., to visit Larry's father who is in the hospital recovering from a serious operation. Larry's dad won the "oldest pilot" trophy back in June at our annual fly-in. We became acquainted with him, then, and were very sorry to hear of his illness.

"Tex" Guerra flew our Cherokee to Texas, where he is visiting old friends and his family. He left this past Monday, and we're hoping the weather holds for his return this weekend. Otherwise, Tex might miss joining his wife and children in Sabina for Christmas.

We're pleased to announce that Jack Sanders received his private pilot's certificate. Jack claims he wasn't nervous, but we think otherwise. He had his alarm set at 6 a.m. on the day of his flight test, but was up at 5 a.m. Also, he took his shower with his glasses on, which we thought was a little strange! Anyway, he was a mighty happy man when the whole thing was over, and he had that important piece of paper designating him a private pilot.

WE HAVE some good news and some bad news. The good news - we are happy to welcome Bob Woodmansee to our VA training school. Bob has enrolled in the commercial pilot course. Now, for the bad - we are losing Tim Vehnekamp from our VA program, as he and his family are being transferred to northern Ohio. We will miss Tim, Margie, and their little baby, Wendy. The Vehnekamps flew to Alabama for the Thanksgiving holidays and got weathered in for a few days. However, as they were visiting with Margie's family, the forced layover was very enjoyable.

We have seven students enrolled in the Instrument Ground School, being taught by Paul Homman, our ground instructor. The men studying for their instrument ratings are: Don Soale, Homer Newhouse, Jack Yager, John Woodmansee, Steve and Gene Stanton and Howard Wright.

Another bit of news, Bill has passed all of his tests for agricultural flying, and we expect to be quite busy with this phase of flying when spring comes. We are gathering our equipment for the ag business now, and he is looking for a suitable ag plane to use.

Private pilots flying our aircraft have been Steve Warner, Kenny Smith, Howard Bryant, J.E. Kinley, Jack Patton, Millard French, Walt Gooldin and Jim Roberds.

IN BETWEEN our bouts with the nasty weather, student pilots receiving instruction and flying solo were David Taylor, Ned Payne, Don Jackson, Mark Pitstick, Randy Martindale, Bruce Denen, Bill Sever and Gene Pfaff.

Roy Smith purchased a Cessna 140. Other recent plane purchases included a Cherokee 140 by Gene Pfaff and a Mooney by Don Morrow of Jeffersonville.

Our charter work has been steadily picking up, and Bill and Curt Hiser have gotten around quite a bit, both in the single and the twin-engine. There were three trips for the V & Y Construction Co. - one to Warren, Pa., one to Louisville, Ky., and one to Steubenville. We flew to Detroit for Chrysler Corp., to Baltimore Md., for Greenfield Plastics, to Detroit, for the Budd Co., to Baltimore for General Motors and to Richmond, Va., for the Jeffersonville Farm Service. These trips have been both passenger and freight trips.

In between charters, Bill gave some flight tests. Gary Welch, from our Ross County Airport, received his private license, Father Crowe, from Madison County Airport, received his commercial license, two students from Lebanon were flight-tested and Pam Janey, Marshall Clark, and Paul Rowland all received private licenses.

Gene Pfaff and his son, Willie, flew to Cleveland to pick up Gene's other son, Dan, who had flown in from Japan for the funeral of his grandmother.

WE HAVE HAD several business planes land here when the weather permitted. Hough Brothers Co., of Sunfield, Mich., came in to visit Landmark, and Fred Ross of Neff Aviation arrived in a Bonanza. Alpine Air Charter Co. sent their Lear jet here to pick up freight for the Ford Motor Co., and we had a Bell Helicopter, coming from Danbury, Conn., stop for fuel. A Cessna 177 came in from Pittsburgh, and the K-D Manufacturing Co.'s Aerostar from Lancaster, Pa., was in and out of here several times bringing businessmen to visit the Mecto Tool Co. J.A. Donaldson, of Hamilton Aviation, flew here in a Beech 18, and D.D. Lay flew his Seneca here from Lawrenceburg, Ky., to visit the Mac Tool Co.

Instructor Paul Homman flew with John Woodmansee on a night training flight to Fort Wayne, Ind. Since they were flying our four place Cherokee, they took their wives along for the ride.

Joe Kingery took a student cross-country flight to Lancaster, Hillsboro and back. It was a memorable trip for Joe, as he learned about carburetor ice. Joe started flying with us in the summer, and he had never encountered this before.

Paul Junk received his recommendation flight preparing him for his upcoming flight test, and Louie Poole enrolled in the commercial pilot course.

VA STUDENTS practicing their maneuvers and building hours towards their commercial ratings were Tim Vehnekamp, Billy Pauley, Bob Woodmansee, John Woodmansee, Tom Romph and Charlie Dodds. John and Tom have both also had their initial flight training in the Aerocommander for the retractable gear and constant speed propeller time that is now required by the F.A.A.

Roy Smith has been flying his Cessna 140, and Deane Carter and Owen Prince took their Skyhawk to Ross County where they could get a hangar for the winter months. Larry Soldan and Kenny Bumgarner went flying in Larry's Cherokee Arrow, and Maurice Hopkins were flying his Skyhawk. Also, Maurice, Eddie Pendergraft and Paul Crosby flew Paul's mother home to Van Wert.

That's about all the flying news for now, so I'll call it quits and get busy wrapping Christmas gifts. To all of you - Happy Holidays from the guys and gals at the Fayette County Airport.

Ohio Bell manager explains toll-free call arrangement

Calling free anywhere in the country for motel reservations or dialing a toll free number to discuss an investment opportunity is almost taken for granted these days.

For Ohio Bell customers this means dialing "1" for access to the long distance network and then "800" which designates the call as toll free and this will not be charged to their bills.

Since this service is being offered more and more lately, some people think any number in the 800 series is free of charge, according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for Ohio Bell here.

"This has been misinterpreted,"

Galloway said. "Only when people are instructed to dial 800, instead of an area code, are they making a toll free call."

Any other area code number that begins with 8 is exactly that; an area code for some part of the country, that will be billed accordingly.

Business ethics being questioned

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — James S. Kemper Jr. got up to talk before a fraternity group last fall with no notes. As he recalls, it was not until he heard his own voice that he was sure what the subject would be.

The topic, a new one for Kemper, president of the $1.5-billion Kemper Insurance Group, was morality in business. He has since refined his ideas, particularly in a speech at the University of Southern California.

The core of his thesis is this: We must run the crooks out of the business establishment. Those who produce unsafe or shoddy merchandise, who advertise falsely, who give political payoffs must go.

"It is the crooked or unethical businessman who usually produces the restrictions that affect us all," Kemper states. Such a person, he feels, does more harm from within than any critic could do from without.

"The public perception today," Kemper said a few days ago, "is that there is no strong moral leadership from our institutions." And so, he believes "this is the biggest opportunity in a century for business to assume moral leadership."

To begin with, he would have the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Chamber of Commerce drive out of their organizations those members who fail to live up to ethical standards.

"Public law provides punishment for corporate crooks, but there is a gray area in which unethical conduct may not be criminal conduct, and in that area we must police ourselves," he insists.

As Kemper sees it, "There should be specific enforceable sanctions within trade associations so the business community can publicly ostracize and expel companies which fail to live up to acceptable standards of performance and morality."

How to make your Christmas jingles easier and cheaper.

A lot of people will be jingling our bell this Christmas.

So we'll all be pretty busy. Making sure your jingle doesn't get jangled.

Especially your long distance jingles.

Just remember a couple of things. Long Distance calls made the days before Christmas, and even the day after, have the best chance of getting through.

On Christmas Eve, the best time to call is between 5 and 6 P.M.

And for wishing Merry Christmas, Christmas Day, avoid the busy time period by calling before

10 A.M., or between noon and 3 P.M.

Most important, though. Whenever you make a long distance holiday call, dial it yourself. Any long distance call, day or night, is cheaper when you dial direct without operator assistance. That way you'll save.

So have a Merry Christmas. And when it comes to wishing one, just jingle our bell.

Use your phone for all it's worth.

*Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number.

Super Bowl prospects dwindle down to four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League Super Bowl countdown is at four and holding. Minnesota and Dallas are still alive in the National Conference and Oakland and Miami are the American Conference survivors after the opening weekend of playoff games dominated by home teams.

Minnesota had the closest call, outlasting Washington 27-20 on a pair of fourth quarter touchdown passes from Fran Tarkenton to John Gilliam. Dallas will host the Vikings for the NFC title next Sunday after eliminating Los Angeles 27-16 with Roger Staubach hitting Drew Pearson on two scoring pitches.

George Blanda's four field goals helped Oakland romp to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh. That put the Raiders in the AFC championship game against defending Super Bowl champion Miami next Sunday. The Dolphins advanced by whacking Cincinnati 34-16.

Vikings 27, Redskins 20
Minnesota managed only nine rushing yards in the first half and went into the dressing room trailing 7-3. That was when defensive end Carl Eller decided to shake things up. He made a little speech to his teammates, telling them to get out there and play football. That bit of inspiration helped the Vikings turn the game around in the fourth quarter when Tarkenton, who's never been in the playoffs before in 13 pro seasons, tossed scoring passes of 28 and six yards to Gilliam.

Cowboys 27, Rams 16
Dallas forced turnovers on Los Angeles' first two offensive plays and cashed in for a pair of touchdowns en route to a 17-0 lead. Then the Rams rushed back, slashing away all but one point of the margin.

But rookie Drew Pearson, who had caught a four-yard TD pass earlier, grabbed an 83-yarder from Roger Staubach to finish off LA.

Raiders 33, Steelers 14
Blanda kicked field goals from 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, putting points on the scoreboard everytime the Raiders got him in range and insuring that there would be no opportunity for the kind of last-second heroics the Steelers used to eliminate Oakland from the playoffs a year ago.

Dolphins 34, Bengals 16
Cincinnati frightened Miami, scoring

13 points on two Horst Muhlmann field goals and an interception which safety Neal Craig returned for a TD, in the final 3½ minutes of the first half. That cut a comfortable 18-point Dolphin lead down to a less-awesome five points.

UCLA overwhelms Bonnies, 111-59

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes UCLA's basketball success startles even Bruin Coach John Wooden.

"I thought St. Bonaventure would be stronger than it was," said Wooden after the top-ranked Bruins captured their 81st straight victory by blasting the Bonnies 111-59 Saturday night.

"Perhaps," surmised Wooden, "they were awed by our strength."

The Bruins provided reason for awe, exploding for 20-2 and 13-3 scoring bursts in the first half, when they ran up a 63-20 lead.

In other games, second-ranked Maryland tripped Santa Clara 53-32; No. 7 Indiana survived a second-half scare to beat 15th-rated South Carolina 84-71; No. 8 Louisville defeated Bradley 74-65; No. 9 Providence trimmed DePaul 93-75 and No. 10 Alabama Alabama walked over Columbia 70-43.

Long Beach State, ranked 11th, walloped Indiana State 74-45; No. 12 Memphis State crushed Samford 101-69; No. 14 Arizona stopped Texas Tech 86-64; No. 16 Southern California halted Ohio U. 80-68; Vanderbilt, rated 17th, beat Kansas 83-72; No. 18 Syracuse upended Boston College 110-88 and in the only other loss among Top 20 teams, No. 19 Jacksonville was upset by St. John's, N.Y. 68-60.

Maryland chipped away at the Santa Clara defense to claim the championship of the Cable Car Classic in Oakland. John Lucas scored 23 points to win most valuable player honors in the tourney.

In a consolation game of the same tournament, San Francisco, a preseason ranked team, snapped a five-game losing streak by beating St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-63.

The 15th-ranked Gamecocks came back to within three points of Indiana in the second half after trailing by 14. "It looked like last year all over again," said Indiana Coach Bob Knight, referring to a game where the Hoosiers frittered away a 16-point lead to South Carolina in the second half.

Louisville outscored Bradley 20-6

So, the defending world champions did just that. They shut out Cincinnati in the second half and got a second TD pass from quarterback Bob Griese and a pair of long range field goals of 46 and 50 yards by Garo Yepremian to finish off the Bengals.

early in the first half and then held on for its sixth straight victory. Bill Butler scored 19 points for Louisville, which was bothered by a fullcourt press in the second half which cut its lead to three points.

Providence duo Kevin Stacom and Marvin Barnes took care of DePaul. Stacom scored 38 points, while Barnes had 16 points and 17 rebounds.

Alabama, upset Friday night by St. John's in the opening round of the Connecticut Classic, came back to punish Columbia with Ray Odums scoring 15 points.

Meanwhile, St. John's continued to be a giantkiller, beating Jacksonville behind the shooting of Frank Alagia who scored 19 points and was named the Classic's most valuable player.

Long Beach State forced Indiana State into 23 turnovers and 26 per cent shooting from the floor, as Long Beach got 14-point performances from Leonard Gray, Clifton Pondexter and Glenn McDonald.

John Washington, starting for the first time because of senior Wes Westfall's illness, scored 17 points and grabbed 24 rebounds for Memphis State; Coniel Norman scored 25 points to pace Arizona over Texas Tech; Southern California ran off 12 straight points in 2:23 of the first half to spurt ahead of Ohio University; Lee Fowler and Terry Compton combined for 37 points to lead Vanderbilt over Kansas and Dennis DuVal collected 30 points for Syracuse which beat Boston College, for its 36th straight home triumph.

New Mexico State captured its own Roadrunner Invitational tourney, beating Oklahoma State 85-56; the host also triumphed in the Oral Roberts Classic, as Oral Roberts defeated Murray State 86-83 and Dayton beat California 66-62 to capture its Dayton Invitational.

Larry Fogle, the nation's leading major college scorer with a 36-point average, tallied 43 points in Canisius' 127-88 victory over Scranton U.

Flyers win in Dayton Invitational

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stung by a one-point championship loss last year to Alabama, the University of Dayton hung on this year and won over the University of California-Berkeley 66-62 Saturday night in the Dayton Invitational.

Dayton was led by co-captains Donald Smith and Mike Sylvester, both of whom drew praise from California Coach Dick Edwards.

"Sylvester was tough, really tough," Edwards said. "He hurt us inside and we put him at the foul line too much. It's hard to keep the ball away from him."

"And not too many people can shut out Don Smith," Edwards said.

Dayton Coach Don Donohoe said the championship "should give the team confidence."

Smith scored Dayton's last two points with 1:13 remaining after being fouled by Rickie Hawthorne, opening a seven-point lead—the widest margin of the game.

But Hawthorne bounded back, sinking a hook shot with 39 seconds left to narrow the gap to four points.

Dayton hung on to win the championship, however.

In the consolation game, forward Larry Haralson and guard Ron Caldwell led Drake to a 66-60 victory over Georgia. The two players, each scoring 18 points, brought Drake behind in the first half and led them to a 39-14 halftime lead.

"This tournament has been good for us in the sense that we'll correct mistakes," said Georgia Coach John Guthrie. "You come up to something like this to prepare yourself for a conference race."

Ohio State came from behind to take third place in the Kentucky Invitational tournament with an 85-80 victory over Dartmouth. The Buckeyes trailed by 11 points in the second half, but tied the score at 77-77 with 3:59 remaining and went on to win.

Dartmouth took control of the game midway through the first half, holding a 47-40 lead at halftime. But Buckeye Larry Bolden led Ohio State's comeback, hitting 13 points early in the second half. Bolden was high scorer

Tom Weiskopf named year's male golfer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio, has been named male golfer of the year by the Golf Writers of America.

Weiskopf, who won the British Open last summer and won $243,155 in 1973, won the title by a six-vote margin over fellow Columbus star Jack Nicklaus.

Kathy Whitworth outpooled Judy Rankin for the women's title, while Gay Brewer and Patty Berg were named recipients of the Ben Hogan award for comebacks from physical ailments.

Big Ten basketball teams spread across continent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Ten basketball teams will spread throughout the continent and even into Hawaii this week for a series of holiday tournaments before finally settling down to conference openers Jan. 5.

They'll take with them a 43-23 record against interstate rivals but the going figures to be a lot tougher on the tournament trail which will feature strong opposition.

Seven teams will engage in tournament play including Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Michigan, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Minnesota.

Iowa, Northwestern and Ohio State will not participate in tournaments this week although Northwestern and Ohio State played in tournaments last week.

Michigan also was involved in a tournament last week and the Wolverines captured their own tourney title with a 70-66 victory over Bowling Green in the championship game.

Ohio State took third place in the Kentucky Invitational by defeating Dartmouth 85-80 and Northwestern fell to Texas A&M 86-84 in the Marshall Tournament. The Wildcats lost both

Rose Bowl practice sessions different

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Woody Hayes and John McKay are taking entirely different practice approaches to the Rose Bowl game.

Hayes, the tough disciplinarian who coaches Ohio State, is drilling his Big Ten co-champions hard daily at Citrus Junior College.

The casual McKay, coach of Southern California, doesn't have another practice scheduled until Wednesday for his Pacific-8 champs.

The fourth-ranked Buckeyes (9-0-1), and the No. 7 Trojans, (9-1-1) are rematched in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Southern California whipped Ohio 42-17, last New Year's.

"I'm afraid we're soft," said Hayes, trying to snap a personal two-game losing streak and the Big Ten four-game winless spell in the Rose Bowl.

Hunter safety course offered

A special Hunter Safety Course will be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish & Game Association and held at their lodge. This community service event will take place on Sunday, December 30, from 1:30 - 4:00 P.M.

Movies and discussions on the subjects of safe gun handling in the home, on the range, and in the field will be highlighted. Jerry Creameans, local game protector, will be the principal instructor. He will be assisted by experienced personnel of the sponsoring organization.

Interested persons of all ages are welcomed to participate. It is known that a substantial number of younger people will receive their first guns as Christmas gifts. Therefore, it is thought that the choice of December 30 as the date for the course will provide a timely opportunity for these youngsters to get off on the right foot by learning proper, responsible handling of their new hunting or target guns.

In addition to the indoor instructional phase of the course, some carefully supervised shotgun and rifle shooting will be conducted to help familiarize participants with their firearms and to give them a chance to practice safe gun handling under the watchful eye of competent instructors.

Participants will be awarded colorful Hunter Safety Course shoulder patches and certificates. The course and refreshments will be free of charge.

Miami of Ohio whips Gators, 16-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Miami, the Oxford, Ohio, school which calls itself the "cradle of coaches," has sent four former coaches on to major college football powerhouses. The present head man, Bill Mallory, wants to take the Mid-American Conference up with him.

"Florida played a major power tonight," Mallory said Saturday after his 15th ranked and undefeated team overpowered the Gators, 16-7, in the frost-bitten Tangerine Bowl.

"People should give the Mid-American Conference champion a little more consideration in the bowls," he said. "Our champion is capable of playing some of the best instead of them always having to pull in someone who is 6-4."

Florida finished the regular season with a 7-4 record, tied for fifth in the Southeastern Conference. But it won the last five games and was ranked No. 1 on defense in the SEC.

The victory gave Miami an 11-0 record and its first undefeated season since 1955, when the Redmen were coached by Ara Parseghian, now at Notre Dame.

Miami also has been coached by Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Pont of Northwestern.

The bowl game, played in mid-20 temperatures, drew 37,234.

Miami, No. 1 on defense in the nation, overwhelmed Florida with an old-fashioned power running formation and the type of hard-nosed, opportunistic defense that the SEC is famed for.

The Gators didn't get beyond mid-

1968 and Southern California triumphed in the final game.

McKay is coaching on his seventh Rose Bowl and Hayes in his sixth, ranking them one-two for most coaching appearances in the Pasadena classic. McKay is 4-2 and Hayes 3-2.

While Hayes likes his squad to mix it up, McKay takes the opposite approach in the final practices.

"We will not scrimmage," McKay said. "We don't want anyone getting hurt. We'll just try to get everyone in the best mental and physical shape possible."

Cavaliers top Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dwight Davis relishes a good personal performance, but he would prefer some new faces on the opposing team.

"I enjoy doing well, but I'm getting tired of playing against these guys," Davis said after he scored a game-high 25 points and paced the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 99-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Sunday night.

"We've played against them six times already, and that's a lot of times to play the same team."

Cleveland broke away from a 77-77 tie with nine minutes remaining, hit eight points in three minutes and stayed in command the rest of the way.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky nipped San Diego 123-120.

Tommy Davis grabs AL batting crown

BOSTON (AP) — With an average of .293, Baltimore's Tommy Davis has captured the individual crown and the Orioles, also averaging .293, took the team batting championship in the first year of the designated hitter in the American League.

Davis, formerly batting champion of the National League, had 156 hits in 432 times at bat as a designated hitter, according to official figures released by the league Saturday. Davis had 13 hits in another playing capacity and finished tied with Milwaukee's George Scott at .306 in the over-all batting race.

field in the first half. They scored the only time Miami gave them good field position, in the final three minutes.

Miami ground out 239 yards rushing with fullback Chuck Varner, named the game's outstanding back, picking up 157 on 28 rushes and getting his team's only touchdown on a three-yard burst.

The Redskins used the old-fashioned T-formation to get the ball to Varner more often and give power blocking to either side.

Florida Coach Doug Dickey said the formation surprised his team and kept it off balance.

"They made enough yardage to win and we made enough mistakes to lose," he also said.

Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

It's a bright, sunny day here at your Fayette County Airport, with the sun reflecting on the ice and snow covering the ground and runway. It's very pretty, but it makes the take-offs and landings a little hazardous.

Larry and Gloria Loyd flew to Louisville, Ky., to visit Larry's father who is in the hospital recovering from a serious operation. Larry's dad won the "oldest pilot" trophy back in June at our annual fly-in. We became acquainted with him, then, and were very sorry to hear of his illness.

"Tex" Guerra flew our Cherokee to Texas, where he is visiting old friends and his family. He left this past Monday, and we're hoping the weather holds for his return this weekend. Otherwise, Tex might miss joining his wife and children in Sabina for Christmas.

We're pleased to announce that Jack Sanders received his private pilot's certificate. Jack claims he wasn't nervous, but we think otherwise. He had his alarm set at 6 a.m. on the day of his flight test, but was up at 5 a.m. Also, he took his shower with his glasses on, which we thought was a little strange! Anyway, he was a mighty happy man when the whole thing was over, and he had that important piece of paper designating him a private pilot.

NEW YORK (AP) — James S. Kemper Jr. got up to talk before a fraternity group last fall with no notes. As he recalls, it was not until he heard his own voice that he was sure what the subject would be.

The topic, a new one for Kemper, president of the $1.5-billion Kemper Insurance Group, was morality in business. He has since refined his ideas, particularly in a speech at the University of Southern California.

The core of his thesis is this: We must run the crooks out of the business establishment. Those who produce unsafe or shoddy merchandise, who advertise falsely, who give political payoffs must go.

"It is the crooked or unethical businessman who usually produces the restrictions that affect us all," Kemper states. Such a person, he feels, does more harm from within than any critic could do from without.

"The public perception today," Kemper said a few days ago, "is that there is no strong moral leadership from our institutions." And so, he believes "this is the biggest opportunity in a century for business to assume moral leadership."

To begin with, he would have the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Chamber of Commerce drive out of their organizations those members who fail to live up to ethical standards.

"Public law provides punishment for corporate crooks, but there is a gray area in which unethical conduct may not be criminal conduct, and in that area we must police ourselves," he insists.

As Kemper sees it, "There should be specific enforceable sanctions within trade associations so the business community can publicly ostracise and expel companies which fail to live up to acceptable standards of performance and morality."

How to make your Christmas jingles easier and cheaper.

A lot of people will be jingling our bell this Christmas.

So we'll all be pretty busy. Making sure your jingle doesn't get jangled.

Especially your long distance jingles.

Just remember a couple of things. Long Distance calls made the days before Christmas, and even the day after, have the best chance of getting through.

On Christmas Eve, the best time to call is between 5 and 6 P.M.

And for wishing Merry Christmas, Christmas Day, avoid the busy time period by calling before

10 A.M., or between noon and 3 P.M.

Most important, though.

Whenever you make a long distance holiday call, dial it yourself.* Any long distance call, day or night, is cheaper when you dial direct without operator assistance. That way you'll save.

So have a Merry Christmas. And when it comes to wishing one, just jingle our bell.

Use your phone for all it's worth.

*Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number.

Dear Citizens of the U.S.

I wrote this letter to tell you how Saving Bonds can help you. A Savings Bond will replace your money if something happens to it. Why do you think people buy Bonds? To save more money. They pay back 5-1/2% for interest. Don't you think it's worth it? I do. Why don't you get a Savings Bond. It's the safest way to save.

Chris Braun

If your U.S. Savings Bonds are lost, stolen, or destroyed, it doesn't matter. Because all you have to do is report the loss, and you'll be issued a new one. It's another one of the reasons why you can't beat Bonds when it comes to safe, sure saving.

Take stock in America.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

New U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 3 years, 10 months, 10 days. The first year, Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Queen and family go for economy

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's family piled into a minibus that gets 30 miles per gallon rather than a Rolls-Royce automobile for a half-mile drive to Sunday chapel.

Prince Philip drove as the queen and other members of the royal family went from Windsor Castle to the royal lodge in Windsor Great Park in the 11-seat minibus.

"It's convenient for the family to pile into a minibus for the short trip, and it saves valuable fuel," a castle spokesman said.

Heavy volume of long distance calls expected

Long distance calling over the Christmas holiday, always at a high level, is expected to be even greater this year because of the energy crisis, according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for Ohio Bell in Washington C.H.

With many families unable to get together for the holiday, Ohio Bell shares the expectation of AT&T that the volume of long distance calls will increase by as much as 11 per cent over last Christmas.

In 1972, figures show that slightly more than a million direct distance dialed calls were attempted by Ohio Bell customers throughout the state on Christmas day. This year, the volume may well be around 1,149,000. These are described as "attempted" calls because many resulted in busy signals or the other party was not home and did not answer. About half the calls are actually completed.

Persons who plan such calls this Christmas are urged to get the number in advance, if they need to call the long distance directory assistance operator to get the number. This will eliminate these directory assistance calls on Christmas day and reduce the chances of getting a busy signal when trying to get family and friends on the actual call.

AT&T is adding 2,500 circuits for the extended Christmas weekend. Past records at Ohio Bell indicate that the best time to place long distance calls are Christmas Eve between 5 and 6 p.m., or after 11 p.m.; and on Christmas Day before 10 a.m. or between noon and 3 p.m.

South Solon wins fight for lights at rail crossing

SOUTH SOLON — A long struggle by residents of South Solon to obtain flashing lights at a railroad crossing has ended following action by the Madison County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioners have approved payment of up to 95 per cent of the cost to have the warning lights installed at the DT&I crossing on Ohio 323.

The village renewed efforts to obtain the lights a year ago after the principal of Strokes Elementary School was killed Dec. 12 at the crossing.

During the past year, village officials have met with various state, national and county officials in an attempt to explain the need for the crossing lights.

Gary Saunders, a village councilman, credited Madison County Engineer Neil Babb for convincing the commissioners there is a need for the lights and that the county should help the village meet the costs.

Saunders said the village could have come up with no more than $3,000 to pay for the warning lights. The commissioners allocated funds from the county's $5 permissive license tax for the project.

Christmas at Jasper School

MILLEDGEVILLE — Six classes combined their talents for the annual Christmas program at Jasper Elementary School.

Mrs. Lee Marshall, music instructor, along with the kindergarten, first, second, third, sixth and special education classes presented a program of traditional Christmas songs and stories.

Prior to the program, PTO president Marion Stockwell requested a special vote to be held concerning a donation of $25 for the support of the proposed Miami Trace junior high school bond issue.

At the end of the program Santa Claus distributed treats to all the children.

Garbage gas lights tree

PALOS VERDES, Calif. (AP) — A lighted Christmas tree stands atop a Southern California garbage dump as a hint of things to come.

Gas formed by the decaying rubbish runs a generator which furnishes electricity for the tree's lights.

Next Christmas that same garbage may be running heaters and ovens in 2,500 nearby homes.

Beyond that? Joe Edberg, the man who harnessed the energy, says the 140-acre dump here could supply gas for 25,000 residences — perhaps for as long as 30 or 40 years. Other dumps could provide similar power, he adds.

As organic matter breaks down, it releases gases — including methane — and carbon dioxide.

Kissinger sees peace progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has held several conversations with Henry A. Kissinger on the Mideast peace talks and officials describe the secretary of state as optimistic of progress.

Nixon, at Camp David, Md., talked several times Sunday by telephone with Kissinger on the Arab-Israeli talks in Geneva.

A high U.S. official described Kissinger as reasonably confident that Egypt and Israel will reach an agreement next month on a separation of their armies near the Suez Canal.

However, there may be problems and

Kissinger could return to Geneva in January, the official said.

The secretary arrived back in Washington Saturday night after a 15-day, 13-nation journey through Western Europe and the Middle East.

Kissinger returned with a head cold and Nixon told him to "get some rest," a spokesman said. Nixon planned to meet personally with Kissinger this afternoon at the White House, the spokesman said.

During his weekend at his Maryland retreat, Nixon also examined more than 50 pieces of legislation approved by Congress in the closing days of its session.

The high U.S. official described Kissinger as reasonably confident that after the Dec. 31 Israeli elections there will be progress on disengagement on the Suez front.

Kissinger expects the negotiations then to move on to reopening the canal to Israeli shipping and the ships of all nations carrying goods to and from the Jewish state.

Kissinger told newsmen that only a United Nations representative, probably Maj. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo of Finland, will attend the military disengagement talks between Israel and Egypt.

The Soviet Union had exerted pressure to have Russian and American representatives at the negotiations.

Oil price zooms as Persian Gulf nations confer

LONDON (AP) — The economies of Western Europe and Japan are in for more hard blows as a result of another big increase in the price of oil by the Persian Gulf governments.

And government sources in Caracas said Venezuela, which supplies more than 10 per cent of the oil processed in the United States, will raise the tax reference price on its crude Jan. 1.

The six Persian Gulf producers — Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Qatar — announced Sunday after a two-day meeting in Tehran that effective Jan. 1 they would increase the taxes and royalties they collect on the oil produced from their fields from $3.06 a barrel to $7, an increase of 128 per cent.

They did this by increasing the "posted" price of crude oil from $5.11 a barrel to $11.651. The posted price is an artificial price set by the producing companies as the basis for calculation of the taxes and royalties paid them by the Western companies that produce or market their oil.

The price of $5.11 was set in October. The posted price last January was only $2.59 a barrel.

Venezuelan sources did not disclose what increase could be expected in the tax reference price, which is used for calculating taxes paid by foreign oil companies.

The newspaper El Nacional predicted, however, that it would go from the current average of $7.74 a barrel to $10 a barrel. It was $3.11 a barrel last January. Most other foreign suppliers to the United States are expected to do likewise.

Fuel pinch, terrorism mar Yuletide

World events dim celebrations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians today prepared to celebrate Christmas as best they can despite shortages of gasoline, heating oil and electricity, an uncertain economic outlook and the threat of terrorist attacks in some areas.

In Bethlehem, the little town where Christmas began with the birth of Jesus some 2,000 years ago, merchants prepared for the annual influx of pilgrims for midnight mass in the Church of the Nativity.

But the general prediction was for fewer than last year's poor turnout of 5,000 because of the October war and the Palestinian terrorist attack in Rome and Athens last week.

"This is the worst Christmas in years," said one burly souvenir shop

owner. "We sometimes get more tourists in midsummer."

From Tokyo to Paris and Berlin shoppers scurried to complete their last minute shopping with stores generally reporting increased sales despite the past year's inflation. Some store managers in Europe and the United States noted, however, that expensive items were not selling as well as usual.

For Americans and most Europeans it was a dimmer holiday because of the oil shortage. The Christmas tree at Rockefeller Center in New York had fewer lights this year and the giant tree in front of the city hall in Copenhagen had no lights.

The fuel shortage also kept a lot of Americans home this year as most gas stations were closed Sunday and planned to shut Christmas Day.

In Europe, several governments suspended the Sunday driving ban. Motorists in Italy, France and West Germany took to the highways in record numbers and Alpine ski resorts reported heavy bookings. Many persons in West Berlin prepared presents for relatives they will visit for the second Christmas in a row in East Berlin.

Pope Paul VI was breaking tradition by celebrating Christmas Eve midnight mass before thousands in St. Peter's Basilica. For the past 26 years the papal Christmas Eve mass was held in the Sistine Chapel for diplomats accredited to the Holy See.

United Nations peacekeeping troops along the Suez cease-fire line will be eating traditional roast turkey and holiday pudding, but Lt. John Byrne from Ireland commented:

"It's hard to feel the holiday spirit out here, wedged between two armies. It would be nice to see both sides come out of their positions and shake hands on Christmas ... but that could never happen here. The Jews and the Arabs don't believe in Christmas. It's out of place here."

Energy shortages dimmed the holiday lights in Japan and toys were more costly. Stores were jammed, but merchants estimated an increase in sales of only about 20 per cent over Christmas 1972, due largely to price increases.

In America the tradition of helping those less fortunate at Christmas time appeared not to have died away this year, although some charities reported reduced contributions and higher prices.

Billy Graham says Nixon made errors

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham says President Nixon has made serious errors in judgment and kept himself isolated in the White House.

The North Carolina evangelist, a long-time friend of Nixon, said the President should admit having made mistakes with regard to Watergate and other matters.

"Until there is more proof to the contrary I have confidence in the President's integrity," Graham said. "But some of his judgments have been wrong and I just don't agree with them."

"I think many of his judgments have been very poor," the Baptist preacher added in an interview in Christianity Today, an evangelical weekly.

White House officials said there would be no immediate comment on Graham's statements.

Graham added that everyone "needs some friends around him who will just say, 'You are wrong!'"

BABE IN TOYLAND — Could there be a finer Christmas present than this 7 pound, 10 ounce boy whose birthday will almost coincide with a Miracle of Miracles in a Bethlehem manger nearly 2,000 years ago? It is a season long to be remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Randy Kelley, 230 Henkle St., parents of this holiday newcomer, shown in the arms of an attendant behind the glass window of the gaily decorated Memorial Hospital nursery.

Traditional Yule costs $12,402

By RICK BROWNE
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Want to buy your true love a partridge in a pear tree and the accompanying French hens, leaping lords and maids amilking for the "Twelve Days of Christmas?" Be prepared to pay at least $12,402. The Christmas gift list that some gallant Englishman prepared for his lady love back in the 1700s has been hit by inflation.

However, an extensive look-but-don't-buy shopping expedition here proved that you still can purchase the 12 gifts, although some are a little hard to find.

The Twelve Days of Christmas found: —A partridge in a pear tree. The partridge was the hardest gift to find, the pear tree one of the easiest.

The partridge was located through a San Francisco poultry dealer at the Quail Farm in Echo Springs, Ark. The owner said her smallest previous order to the West Coast was for 1,000 birds but as it was a special gift she agreed to supply one in a cage by air freight for $31.

Pear trees are out of season in December, but the San Rafael, Calif.,

Nursery said it probably could find one for $5.95.

—Two turtle doves.

The Tropical Isle Pet Shop in San Francisco will sell two white ones for $19.95.

—Three French hens.

A French hen was just a common hen in England. A common hen at the American Poultry Co. here costs $4.50 — $13.50 for three.

—Four Calley birds.

Calley birds are blackbirds, though today's song often says calling birds. Dairy farmer Martin Larsen of Napa, Calif., said he'd catch them with a net for $30.

—Five golden rings.

Tiffany's of San Francisco sells 18 karat gold rings at $150 apiece — $750 for five.

—Six geese a-laying.

Lewis Dennis Jr. of Riverbank, Calif., sells geese for about $75 a pair — but this gift would require all females. Nonetheless, he put the total at $225.

—Seven swans a-swimming.

Dennis also had swans. White Mutes at $350 apiece or Australian Black Swans at $200. Cost of seven Aussie blacks: $1,400.

—Eight maids a-milking.

The San Francisco Bay area has a dearth of milkmaids but Glen Parkinson of Oak Glen Farms in Sonoma, Calif., said a portable milking machine costing $400 will service eight cows. The cows would cost $700 apiece excluding fodder. Total cost: $5,600 for the milkers and $400 for the milkee.

—Nine pipers piping.

The Prince Charles Pipe Band in San Rafael has more than 60 pipers at its disposal who would play for $50 apiece. Nine pipers cost $450.

—Ten ladies dancing.

The LaVonne Talent and Modeling Agency of San Francisco will provide 10 young ladies in long dresses for eight hours of dancing for $100 apiece. Total cost: $1,000.

—Eleven lords a-leaping.

America is a lordless society but LaVonne said it would be happy to provide actors wearing powdered wigs, waistcoats and breeches for $125 apiece. LaVonne wanted assurances, however, that the lords would have some breaks and wouldn't have to leap for the full eight hours. Total cost for leapers: $1,375.

—Twelve fiddlers fiddling.

Musicians Union Local 6 said 12 men fiddling for four hours would run $648. Anything over four hours is overtime at $113.40 an hour. Total cost of—Twelve fiddlers fiddling.

Musicians Union Local 6 said 12 men fiddling for four hours would run $648. Anything over four hours is overtime at $113.40 an hour. Total cost of fiddlers for eight full hours: $1,101.60.

Total cost for the 12-day gift giving spree: $12,267.55. But remember, that doesn't include state or federal taxes. Or mileage for the actors and musicians.

—No paper Tuesday

The Record-Herald follows an annual custom in not publishing an edition on Christmas Day in order that employees may spend the holiday with families and friends. Comics and other features normally appearing in Tuesday's paper will be found on inside pages today.

Weather

Cloudy and warmer through Tuesday with light rain likely. Low Monday night in the middle to upper 30s. Mostly cloudy and warmer with chance of showers Tuesday. High Tuesday in the upper 40s and lower 50s. Probability of precipitation 70 per cent Monday night and 40 per cent Tuesday.

Congress ends year in stronger position

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first session of the 93rd Congress ended as it began with Congress and President Nixon in a power struggle — but with a vast difference in their positions.

The year that began with Nixon dominating Congress through vetoes, impoundment of funds and the curtailment of programs, ended with him the subject of the first presidential impeachment investigation in a century.

In January the President threatened to veto any spending bills exceeding his budget. But by December his influence on Capitol Hill had declined to where he signed a Health-Education-Welfare appropriations bill nearly $1 billion over his budget and released $1.1 billion he had impounded.

In between, Congress forced Nixon to end all U.S. military action in Indochina and wrote into law over his veto a bill limiting a president's power to commit U.S. troops abroad without congressional approval.

House Speaker Carl Albert, looking back over the session, said it was characterized "by a strong spirit of renewal and reassertion of the authority of the Congress."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Senate Majority Leader, called Congress "the rock of the nation at a time when the executive branch has been seized in a whirlwind of resignations, disclosures, denials, dismissals and indictments."

If there was one event that marks the dividing line in the shifting fortunes of Congress and the President it would be the Senate Watergate investigation, which began May 17.

By the time its 37 days of televised hearings ended in August the midnight burglary of the Democratic National Committee's headquarters had grown into a seemingly endless scandal that is still unfolding. Nixon was on the defensive and a confident Congress was moving to reclaim lost powers.

Nixon accused Congress of neglecting the nation's business through a preoccupation with Watergate, and it is true that few of his legislative recommendations were passed in the form he proposed.

But the Democratic leaders of Congress could point to a significant amount of legislation that did pass — in sheer quantity more than in the first session of any other Congress in years.

After eight years of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, Congress cut off money on Aug. 15 for U.S. military activity in Indochina.

The war powers bill imposed a 60-day limit on the power of a president to send

U.S. troops into action overseas without congressional approval.

Congress, over the administration's objections, revised the federal farm program, setting target prices for major crops and providing for direct payments to farmers only when market prices drop below the target. High farm prices this year have greatly reduced crop subsidy payments.

With Nixon's help, Congress cut into the federal highway trust fund for the first time to allow some of the money to be used for mass transit projects in urban areas.

It provided an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, returned limited self-government to the District of Columbia, provided $2 billion in grants and loan guarantees to keep bankrupt Eastern railroads operating.

The News In Brief

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police are holding four persons following the recovery of two stolen Rembrandts and "nearly all" of the $100,000 ransom paid for one of the paintings.

Lt. Col. John McLaughlin, chief of detectives, indicated charges would be filed today against some of those questioned in the case.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Fire swept through an apartment building here early today, killing at least three persons, authorities said.

Firemen said one other person may have been trapped inside the two-story brick structure. One person was burned critically and a sixth resident also was hospitalized, they said.

LENNON, Mich. (AP) — Eight persons died in a predawn fire at a trailer park here today, the Genesee County Sheriff's Department reported.

The department had said earlier that nine persons were killed in the blaze at the Woodland Mobile Trailer Park.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll says 54 per cent of those surveyed sympathize with the Israelis in the current Middle East troubles, up seven per cent from an early October poll.

The polling organization also said only eight per cent of the 1,514 adults questioned Dec. 7-10 indicated their sympathies lay with the Arabs.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gasoline stations in Ohio were expected to remain open during the extended Christmas holiday, a survey by the American Automobile Association in Ohio and The Associated Press showed.

The spot survey found 85 per cent of the stations would be open today with a greatly reduced number of operating Christmas day.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts photographed a partial eclipse of the sun today and prepared some surprise Christmas Eve festivities in their orbital home.

Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson were silent about their Christmas plans. They said only that they would beam a television show to Mission Control in the evening.

Christmastime proves special for returned Vietnam POW

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — For Air Force Col. Dwight Sullivan this Christmas is a very special one, his first at home since he was freed from a North Vietnamese prison camp after 6½ years.

"I always felt when I was over there, that my first Christmas at home would be the best Christmas ever. And it's turning out that way," said Sullivan, who was released early this year.

Sullivan and his three teenaged sons will spend the holiday at the home of his parents here. Nothing special is planned in the way of celebration, but the former POW admitted:

"Of course, I've gone a little overboard on buying gifts for this year. I guess I'm making up for those six Christmases I missed."

Sullivan recalled in an interview Sunday that most Christmases in captivity were not observed because POWs lived in small groups and were watched closely.

But in 1971 they moved to new quarters, one large room in the camp that became known as the Hanoi Hilton.

"We got a Christmas program together, had a choir, and (read) the Christmas story out of the Bible. We sang carols relating to the Christmas story," he said.

"One man who could read music used a bamboo pen with ink made of brick dust, and he'd write the notes for our religious carols on toilet paper."

Others "used an old white mosquito net, draped it around, and made it look like a half Christmas tree against the wall," he said.

Kazor blades were used to cut small stars out of stolen tinfoil to trim the tree. Christmas cards made from scrap paper and gifts fashioned from bread dough were exchanged.

"But for the other Christmases — I just didn't do anything," he said.

Sullivan said the POWs would not ask for decorative materials or assistance in observing Christmas because they feared their captors would make propaganda out of it.

Deaths, Funerals

WILBUR O. DAVIS

Wilbur Davis dies at 65

Wilbur O. Davis, program director for the Fayette County Community Action Commission since 1966, died at 8:55 a.m. Sunday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient five days. He had been in failing health six months.

Mr. Davis, 65, who lived at 630 Sycamore St., was born in Brown County but had been a resident of Fayette County since 1941. He had been employed by Braddock Motor Freight for 25 years before becoming associated with the CAC unit and was active in the South Side Church of Christ, was a director of the Fish and Game Association and a member of the National Rifle Association.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gwendolyn C. Wilson; two sons, Roger G. of 630 Sycamore St., and Ronald W., 1661 Northridge Rd., Columbus; five grandchildren.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, with Rev. Charles Richmond, pastor of the South Side Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Ash Ridge Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 until 9 p.m. Christmas Day.

Mrs. Lena H. Young

JEFFERSONVILLE — Mrs. Lena Householder Young, 73, widow of Roy Young, of Jeffersonville, died at 7:10 a.m. Monday in the Provincial House Nursing Home, Cass City, Mich.

Mrs. Young, who had lived in Jeffersonville the past 18 years, was a member of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church and the Pythian Sisters. Her husband died in 1967.

She is survived by a son, David S. Taylor, Troy, Mich.; a brother, Earl C. Householder, Harrison, Mich., and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Ora C. Lugenbeel

MOUNT STERLING — Mrs. Ora C. Lugenbeel, 81, Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, died Monday morning in Madison County Hospital, London.

Mrs. Lugenbeel, a member of the Mount Sterling United Methodist Church, is survived by two sons, Kenneth, Mount Sterling, and Lewis, London; a daughter, Mrs. Armada Bailo, Mount Sterling; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the Porter Funeral Home with the Rev. Ralph Tucker, pastor of the South Charleston United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

MRS. RUTH HAINES — Services for Mrs. Ruth S. Haines, 81, of 817 Clinton Ave., who died Thursday, were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Cloyce Copley officiating.

Pallbearers for the burial in Bush Cemetery were Dick Waters Sr., Delbert Crouse, William, Robert E. and Ralph Wilson, Charles O. Moore, Ernest E. Watling and Wayne M. McConkey.

Suspects seized here being held in Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE — The young trio apprehended on S. Fayette Street Saturday morning in connection with an attempted armed robbery in Chillicothe have been turned over to officers of the Chillicothe Police Department, by whom they are being charged.

Arrested by Police Specialists Larry Walker and William Cales and Patrolman Larry Mongold of the Washington C.H. Police Department and Patrolman Larry Hopkins of the Ohio Highway Patrolless than an hour after the attempted robbery in Chillicothe, the three suspects were released to Chillicothe official later Saturday morning.

John Craig, 18, Fort Wayne, Ind., and two 17-year-old Dayton-area high school students are being charged with assault with the intent to rob by the Chillicothe police. They will be held in jail until they appear in court Wednesday.

The youths reportedly entered the Rieder Pharmacy in Chillicothe shortly before 8 a.m. Saturday and informed Leo Rieder, the owner, that "This is a stickup!" Rieder turned and ran out the back door of the store while the would-be robbers gave chase. They were unable to locate Rieder outside and drove off in an automobile bearing Illinois plates.

Pt. Hopkins spotted the car on U.S. 35 just east of Washington C.H. and pursued the suspects while radioing for aid from police here.

Gerald (Tom) Wise

Services for Gerald (Tom) Wise, 64, of 917 Yeoman St., will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here, with the Rev. Eugene Griffith of Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, near Jeffersonville.

Mr. Wise, a retired foundry worker, died at 9:10 p.m. Saturday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient two days. He had been ill several years.

Born in New Petersburg, Highland County, he came here from Jeffersonville in 1969 and was a member of the United Methodist Church in that village.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Forte; two daughters, Mrs. Roger (Libby) Coe, of Jeffersonville, and Mrs. Charles (Patty) Sexton, 1223 Vanderbilt Dr.; four sons, Ralph, 453 Carolyn Rd., Vernon, of Jeffersonville, Loren, of Jamestown, and Charles, 128 McKinley Ave.; 13 grandchildren and a great-grandson.

He also leaves two brothers, James and Robert Wise, of Greenfield, and four sisters, Mrs. Edith Jones, Mrs. Margaret Stroud and Mrs. Virginia Gray, all of Greenfield, and Mrs. Jean Hawk, who lives in Oregon.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday.

Theft, vandalism reports eyed by police, deputies

A Marion man discovered the things he was loading in the truck of his car were being removed by a thief as fast as he was putting them in, and another antenna was broken off a vehicle, city police reported.

The Sheriff's Department reported three cases of stolen money at the Sohio Truck Stop in Jeffersonville.

While Richard L. Haines, of Marion, was loading the trunk of his car, parked beside 434 Gregg St., at 11:30 p.m., Sunday, a thief was unloading it.

Assorted cans of food, two sets of chair cushions, a red beret, 25 unused Christmas cards and an electric hair curler set were listed by police as the stolen items. They were valued at $48.

A car antenna was broken off a car owned by George Hall of 223 E. Circle Ave., between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Friday, while the car was parked at his residence. Value was $8, according to police estimates.

Two employees of the Sohio Truck Stop garage, located at the junction of U.S. 35 and I-71 near Jeffersonville, entrusted their paychecks at 8:30 a.m. Friday, to a fellow employee who said he'd cash them for the men. He did, but never returned with the money.

Sheriff's deputies are still investigating the incident.

A theft of $40 sometime between 12 a.m. and 8 a.m., Friday was reported to Sheriff's deputies by the same truck stop.

Some breaks in the dense clouds covering the state appeared about dawn in the extreme north and northeast, but the state appeared generally to be headed for cloudy skies through Christmas.

For the most part, rain has avoided the state and that which has fallen has been light and scattered.

Morning temperatures were in the upper 20s north to the low or mid 30s south. Highs today were expected to climb to around 40.

A large high pressure area stretching from the Georgian Bay to Virginia is moving east and southeast. But a trough of low pressure moving ahead of it will have more of an effect on our weather for the next day or so.

This trough will move northward today and tonight, preceded by intermittent rain. Lows tonight were to be in the 30s.

Christmas day will be cloudy with a little rain likely and highs in the unseasonable 40s and 50s.

Warm weather Wednesday will be followed by cooler temperatures Thursday and Friday. There will be a chance of showers Wednesday and a possibility of flurries about Friday. Highs Wednesday will be in the upper 40s and low 50s, falling to the upper 30s and low 40s Friday. Lows Wednesday morning in the low 30s will fall off to the 20s by Friday morning.

Congress action

and banned home television blackouts of sold-out sports events.

During the last weeks of the session Congress devoted most of its attention to the swiftly deepening energy crisis. It provided an allocation system for scarce fuels, put the nation on year-round Daylight Saving Time, set a 55 miles-per-hour speed limit on multilane highways and cleared the way for a $4.5 billion pipeline to tap the oil under Alaska's north slope.

However, its major effort, a bill authorizing Nixon to take various actions to deal with the crisis, was abandoned in the final hours of the session.

The House and Senate were unable to compromise their differences over proposals to prevent oil companies from realizing excess profits as a result of the crisis. They'll try again when Congress reconvenes.

A major casualty of the session was a bill increasing the minimum wage from $1.60 an hour to $2 this year and $2.20 next year. Nixon vetoed it and the House failed to override.

Three important bills made it half-way through Congress and will have to be acted on next year — election campaign reform and private pension plan reform, which were passed by the Senate, and a trade bill requested by Nixon, which passed the House.

When Congress returns on Jan. 21, however, the overshadowing issue for both Nixon and Congress will be the impeachment investigation being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

A staff of more than 30 lawyers and a team of investigators from the General Accounting Office have been working for weeks to compile information that will help the committee decide whether Nixon has committed any impeachable offenses. It is expected to give its answer by April.

Fire wrecks B'burg residence

A Bloomingburg residence was completely destroyed by fire, but fortunately, no one was injured in the disaster.

Mrs. John Raypole, of Myers Road, noticed smoke in her house at 10 p.m., Saturday. She entered the dining room and saw the ceiling was engulfed in flames.

She ushered her four children out of the house and across a field to the home of Louis Hill, a neighbor, who owned the Raypole home.

The Bloomingburg Fire Department was called, but the home was completely aflame when they arrived, according to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

The Raypoles had no insurance and lost everything in the blaze, deputies reported.

A hot water heater with a broken shut-off switch was the apparently cause of a fire in the Ethel Henry home at Sabina at 8:50 a.m., Saturday. The broken switch caused the water to boil in the tank.

While the pilot light was being adjusted, a sudden burst of flame started the utility closet on fire.

The Concord-Greene Fire Department was called, but the fire was out by the time they arrived.

Minor fire damage was done to the utility closet and minor smoke damage was done throughout the house.

State summer activities eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Even with the long winter just getting under way, some state officials already are pondering the effects of the energy crisis on the summer life styles of Ohioans.

Director William B. Nye of the Department of Natural Resources expects more use by Ohioans of their own state parks. He notes that residents who normally go out of state for outdoor fun can save gasoline by seeking it here.

There also is a move in the General Assembly to change the thrust of tourism campaigns from out-of-state visitors to Ohioans, asking them to explore the state's abundance of natural, cultural, and historical attractions.

Nye recently announced a reservation system for state campgrounds, similar to one already in effect for lodges. This will save gas that might be used by families driving long distances only to find camp sites filled, he said.

State Sen. Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, chairman of the Legislative Service Commission Study Committee on Tourism and Travel, said he wants a tourism campaign that "will zero in on Ohio's 11 million citizens" whose leisure and vacations will be crimped by the fuel shortage.

Applegate pointed out that Ohio spends only $300,000 a year on the promotion of Ohio tourism anyway, while states such as neighboring Michigan have budget outlays as high as $2 million a year. "Ohio is 43rd of the 50 states in the amount of appropriations for this purpose," he said.

The senator said his committee not only will work to have Ohioans take full advantage of state attractions because of the fuel shortage, but also in an effort to boost the state's economy. The committee will work with the Ohio Travel Council, the Governor's Commission on Tourism, and other public agencies as well as with the private sector, he added.

Other officials say that even if the state escapes home heating and gasoline problems this winter—which is not likely—the summer months will be critical as well.

Presidents of Ohio's electrical industries say, in fact, that they foresee no problems this winter if they are allowed to burn coal. But summer and the use of air conditioners are something else. "Our time of peak demand," cautioned D. Bruce Mansfield, president of the Ohio Edison Co.

Space heater checklist

As the impact of the heating oil shortage grows, space heaters will become more popular than ever to take off the chill. This lends special weight to the Consumer Product Safety Commission's safety checklist for those who use such heaters. A lot of injuries and even deaths could be averted if householders would act on the Commission's advice.

There are two basic dangers: fire and asphyxiation. There also is the threat of severe shock if electrical heaters are carelessly used in bathrooms where they may come into contact with water or plumbing fixtures.

The commission estimates that perhaps 700,000 space heaters burning gas, kerosene or oil are improperly vented and may emit carbon monoxide. In a closed room, this odorless gas can reach fatal concentrations.

As to fire, the perils are evident. The checklist urges a number of precautions: locate heaters away from combustible materials; alert the family to the danger of clothing being set afire on contact with a heater; see that young children are closely supervised when in a room with a space heater; for electric heaters, use heavy duty cord if an extension is necessary, and make sure the heater has an automatic shutoff device activated should it be upset.

These tips amount to common sense, really. The same can be said of the commission's urging that space heaters be serviced annually and installed and repaired by skilled servicemen.

Abiding by these rules is a sound precaution against accident.

Hal Boyle . . . Give health tag for Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — No one can make a fully dressed person feel as naked as Alfred Hodder, executive director of the Medic Alert Foundation.

Mr. Hodder says that anyone with a medical problem should be registered with Medic Alert and should wear its easily recognized necklace or bracelet, listing any confirmed medical ailments or allergies. This would mean that if you should be involved in an automobile accident or be scooped up unconscious off a street, that a doctor or even a passer-by would know immediately that you should not be given penicillin if you are allergic to it, that you have diabetes or a heart disease, that you wear contact lenses or have a pacemaker implanted in your chest.

Medic Alert was founded in 1956 by Dr. Marion C. Collins, its current president, after his daughter almost died from an allergic reaction to tetanus antitoxin. Collins decided then that persons with apparent medical problems should be protected in medical emergencies.

Having covered World War II and conflicts in Korea and Vietnam, I am accustomed to seeing soldiers wearing "dog tags"—small metal plates on a chain around their necks that resemble dog licenses and list name, serial number, and very important in case of wounds, blood type.

That was for combat action. Hodder feels that civilian life can be equally hazardous. At $7 for a lifetime membership, Medic Alert will issue necklace or bracelet, both easily identifiable by the caduceus physician's symbol of winged staff and entwined snakes and the words Medic Alert in red on its front. On the reverse side of the metal tag can be listed up to five lines of medical ailments or allergies, the first one for free and others for 75 cents a line.

The American Medical Association estimates that one out of every five Americans has a hidden medical problem. On this theory, Medic Alert has signed up more than 475,000 American members and has affiliate organizations in 15 other countries.

Medic Alert's largest membership is in California, where its home office is in Turlock. Its second largest group is in Pennsylvania, where it has 11,000 members in Philadelphia alone. Hodder says that registration with Medic Alert guarantees a lifetime assurance that vital medical information has been computerized and is available on a 24-hour basis through the organization's emergency phone service. Among common ailments inscribed on the tabs are diabetes, Addison's disease, emphysema, asthma, multiple sclerosis, heart conditions, epilepsy, hemophilia, and allergies to such drugs as penicillin, sulpha, terramycin, demerol, aspirin, orphine, codeine, barbiturates, novocaine, cortisone, tetanus toxoid, or multivitamin.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Dec. 24, the 358th day of 1973. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1814, the United States and England signed the Treaty of Ghent in Belgium, ending the War of 1812.

On this date:
In 1524, the Portuguese navigator who discovered the sea route to India, Vasco da Gama, died.

In 1650, Edinburgh Castle in Scotland surrendered to the forces of Oliver Cromwell.

In 1865, a secret order called the Ku Klux Klan was organized in Pulaski, Tennessee.

In 1942, the French administrator in North Africa, Admiral Jean Darlan, was assassinated in Algiers during World War II.

In 1943, Franklin Roosevelt announced that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower would command Allied forces in the coming invasion of Europe.

In 1949, there was a new Christmas song hit: "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives approved a request by President Lyndon Johnson for power to use federal credit guarantees to facilitate U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Apollo 8 astronauts orbited the moon and sent back a Christmas Eve prayer for peace.

One year ago: The United States called a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam over Christmas.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

No clothes for Christmas

My recollections of Christmas have a certain jaundiced character. You see, I was, without recognizing it, a victim of the "revolution of rising expectations."

Like the French youngster who is told to put away his shiny motorcycle and get out his bike because gasoline is in short supply and appallingly expensive, I learned in the first seven or eight years of my life to expect toys, a tricycle, roller skates, and the like to turn up under the Christmas tree.

Invariably the things I wanted appeared and I would spend the day, for example, marshaling toy soldiers and conducting elaborate military exercises.

THEN THE world fell in: the Depression hit and my father lost his job. A proud, stubborn man, he refused to go on relief, or even to apply to the Works Progress Administration (W.P.A.) when it was established. So he went to work on commission, selling refrigerators, oil burners, and even at one point collecting coins from refrigerators. (I wonder if anyone remembers those refrigerators that ran only if a daily dime was inserted in the slot?)

We had a brief period of high hopes when he took the civil service examination for fire marshal and got a 97. But that went down the drain because the second man, who scored in the low 90s, was a wounded veteran of World War I and therefore picked up 10 points. Dad, unfortunately under the circumstances, was an unwounded veteran with only five-point bonus. He lost by one or two points, so it was back to commission sales.

The impact of this came home to me

only gradually until Christmas, 1932. I recall the year because, to add to our afflictions, a local bank where Mother had a small savings account folded.

My brother, who was then 5, and I had an arrangement that whoever woke up first on Christmas morning would wake the other and then we would sneak downstairs. This was no mean trick: Dad could have slept through the Second Coming, but Mother had cat's ears. If the hour was too early (we once set forth at 2:30 a.m.), she would roll Dad out, he would come roaring and swinging, and we would scuttle back to bed.

This particular Christmas I was looking forward to electric trains, having assiduously dropped hints for three months. We came down, turned on the lights on the Christmas tree and there I stood . . . stunned . . . NO TRAINS! "Well," I figured, "maybe they didn't have time to set them up."

We went through the stockings, finding the usual: a harmonica, pen and pencil set, some puzzles. Then we turned our attention to the packages. Opening the elaborately wrapped boxes, what did we find? Clothes! There were a few toys, mainly for Bob, my brother, but all I rated was clothes. What a put-down!

Even now I find it difficult to express my feelings of anguish and betrayal, feelings which were intensified at the time by the fact that Bob was happy as a clam at high water with his little trucks and things. He was in my judgement a thoroughgoing fink.

Of course, what I didn't appreciate at the time was that he had been too young to enjoy the relatively lavish Christmas mases of the 1920s: he didn't share my sense of deprivation because he didn't recognize the contrast.

LATER THAT DAY when it became evident that no trains were in the offing, I'm afraid I behaved abominably: crying and accusing my parents of not loving me. Dad stopped that with a fast back-hand slap—oh, was he fast!—and then Mother took me off and sensibly told me that she had planned to get the trains with some of her savings but the bank had gone bust.

Bluntly she informed me that Dad had no regular job and that I should stop behaving like a selfish brat. She added that if I said one more word about trains, she would spank me. I don't know whether the death penalty is a deterrent or not, but a spanking from Mother sure was: Dad struck only in anger; she laid it on methodically. There was no further discussion of trains, though a couple of years later my grandfather did get me some.

From then on I knew what to expect at Christmas: clothes, clothes, and more clothes. Still nursing memories of the good old days, I was perpetually angry although, for obvious reasons, I kept my views to myself. The worst of it all was Bob's totally unsympathetic attitude: for him, Christmas was a time to get clothes.

I have recovered and now open with pleasure whatever my family provides, but the tradition, but the tradition lives: the other day our daughter distinctly mumbled as a box was delivered: "Oh, not clothes for Christmas."

Season's Greetings to you all.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Don't count on cheap Arab oil

The Arab governments, minus a very few recalcitrants such as Libya, which took no part in the Yom Kippur War, are now talking what is for them a soft line: they are letting it be understood that if only Israel will return to its 1967 boundaries and make some restitution to the Palestinians the West can have its full quotas of oil.

No more Schrecklichkeit (to use the very expressive German word for frightfulness) about driving the Israelis into the sea.

The soft line is beginning to get to liberal Americans who have been pro-Israel in the past. They are now talking about guaranteeing a peace that will respect Israel's right to exist and also renew the flow of gasoline into their automobiles tanks.

The Israelis, quite sensibly, point out that they had a big power guarantee way back in 1957, when they withdrew their troops from the Sinai. Egypt's Nasser tested that guarantee 10 years later by blockading Israel's port of Eilat, thus cutting off the Israeli access to the Red Sea. The big Western powers did nothing about it; Israel had no recourse other than to go to war in self-defense.

QUITE APART from the question of what constitutes a dependable territorial guarantee, the hope of restoring the old flow of Arabian oil on a permanent basis is dangerously unrealistic. Why should the Arab countries ever again let their oil move in an unfettered way? Even before the Yom Kippur War the treasures of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya were being glutted with unusable Western currencies; the Arabs had been selling their product for wasting monetary assets.

The combination of small populations (Saudi Arabia, which sits on half the world's oil reserves, has only five million people) and unfruitful desert terrain means that the oil-producing Arab world cannot industrialize beyond a certain point. Lacking home-grown consumers, the rulers of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya are suffering from the complaint of King Midas, who couldn't eat his gold.

They could use the Western money to gamble in the foreign exchange market, but this tended to debase the value of their own reserves of dollars, pounds and whatever. They could buy control of Western corporations, but, in case of trouble, this would make them vulnerable to "nationalizers" in the U.S. and Western Europe.

If Libya and Iraq can seize international oil companies, what would there be to prevent a Western sequestration of Arab funds or property in any moment of crisis? Sauce for the goose is always sauce for the gander. If only to protect their own currencies against inflationary drains into the Arab "sink," the powers of the West must find sources of oil in lands that are able to return their oil earnings by absorbing large quantities of Western machinery and food. Venezuela is one such country; Indonesia is another.

FORTUNATELY, the world energy picture may be much brighter than most people realize. Prof. Ernst Frankel of the M.I.T. Department of Oceanography, in the background paper issued by an organization called American Professors for Peace in the Middle East, points out that if the West moves ahead to exploit Alaskan and offshore discoveries, the total recoverable world reserves will come to an estimated 2,000 billion barrels of oil are considered, the balance shifts even more dramatically against the Arabs. Coal reserves worldwide are equal to 4,000 billion barrels of oil, and 2,000 billion of these are in the U.S. So the Arab control of fossil fuel reserves amounts to a mere 9 per cent of the world's total.

Says Prof. Frankel, even if Arab oil is completely withheld from the free nations, the U.S., Canada, South America etc. could supply the free world with petroleum and "syncrude" from coal and shale reserves for over 300 years at an extrapolated rate of consumption.

Since the currency realities must be recognized by the Arabs no matter what the outcome of the war against Israel, Prof. Frankel urges the industrial nations to form a buyers' cartel to counter the Arabs' sellers' cartel. There is plenty of room to bargain without imposing a sacrifice on Israel that would only lead to further Arab blackmail.

Dear Abby:

Any bit part would help Star Struck's ego

DEAR ABBY: You seem to have all the answers so maybe you can help me. I want to get into show business. I know I don't have the talent to be a big star, but I'd be satisfied with bit parts as long as it's show business. How do I get started?

I'd gladly be an errand boy, or park cars, or run an elevator in a television or movie studio.

I'd do anything just to be where the action is. I don't have any contacts, but I've had this hangup about Hollywood ever since I can remember. I'm 18 now, and want to do something about it.

I live in New Jersey, but I'd be willing to move to California.

STAR STRUCK
DEAR STRUCK: An 18-year-old with no talent, no contacts, no experience, and no special training shouldn't head West without a round-trip ticket and enough bread to keep him going for six months. But if you decide to go to Hollywood, buy yourself a Sunday Los Angeles Times. It has an enormous want ad section, and it's thick enough to use as a mattress, if necessary.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I'm a monster, but here goes. I am a 24-year-old woman with a 5-year-old son from my first husband, and a 1-year-old son from George, to whom I've been happily married to for two years.

George legally adopted my older son (Junior), but now he wants me to give the boy back to his real father, who is also remarried, and who would dearly love to legally adopt this boy. (So would his new wife.)

My husband says he can't help favoring the younger boy (his own) and I fully understand, because the older one is the living image of his real father. Junior has expressed a desire to live with his real father, and he cries when he has to come home to us after spending the weekend there.

I confess, I also favor the youngest boy, and I honestly cannot give him the love he needs.

My problem is what will people say about a mother who gives her own child away? I know he'd be better off with his natural father, but I'm afraid if I let him go, I'll feel guilty. Can you help me?

TORN IN TEXAS
DEAR TORN: Under the circumstances, Junior would be better off with his natural father, who wants him. You don't and neither does your present husband. The boy wants to go. So let him, and don't feel guilty. You'd be doing the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who really gets my goat. Sometimes when I've been on the phone for a long time she will call and shout in a very angry tone: "I have been trying to get you for an hour—who in the devil have you been yacking with for so long?" And like a fool, I apologetically tell her.

Or if I come home after having been gone all day, she'll phone and bark: "I've been trying to reach you all day—where the heck were you?" Not knowing what else to say, I tell her.

I don't think I have to account to her about where I've been or to whom I've been talking to. Other than coming right out and telling her it's none of her business, can you suggest a more subtle way of telling her off?

ANNOYED IN DENVER
DEAR ANNOYED: Say: "If anybody asks you . . . just tell 'em you don't know." She'll get the message.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Have a beautiful Christmas Eve. Call up an enemy and bury the hatchet.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Dec. 24, the 358th day of 1973. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1814, the United States and England signed the Treaty of Ghent in Belgium, ending the War of 1812.

On this date:
In 1524, the Portuguese navigator who discovered the sea route to India, Vasco da Gama, died.

In 1650, Edinburgh Castle in Scotland surrendered to the forces of Oliver Cromwell.

In 1865, a secret order called the Ku Klux Klan was organized in Pulaski, Tennessee.

In 1942, the French administrator in North Africa, Admiral Jean Darlan, was assassinated in Algiers during World War II.

In 1943, Franklin Roosevelt announced that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower would command Allied forces in the coming invasion of Europe.

In 1949, there was a new Christmas song hit: "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives approved a request by President Lyndon Johnson for power to use federal credit guarantees to facilitate U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Apollo 8 astronauts orbited the moon and sent back a Christmas Eve prayer for peace.

One year ago: The United States called a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam over Christmas.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, DEC. 25

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Keep enlarging your sphere of contacts — particularly among those who share your interests and contribute to your personality development.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Make this day as tranquil and peaceful as you would like it to be. You will probably find greater pleasure in familiar surroundings than in out-of-the-way places.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Talking things over with friends or family members could have far-reaching but favorable consequences. Explore all ideas.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Not only should the day live up to your expectations, but it may even surpass them. Afternoon and evening hours will be distinctly social.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
If travel is necessary, take more than the usual precautions to make it safe. There could be some delays or interruptions along the way.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A day when you can sit back and rest on your laurels — with warm satisfaction. Hours after noon splendid for social interests.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
It would be wise to keep plans flexible now. Certain changes of circumstance may call for sudden improvisation.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Certain trends, a desired development or something equally stimulating should start your day off happily — and keep it so.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Whether you have elected to travel or remain at home, you seem assured of heartwarming displays of affection, interesting communications and splendid cooperation.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Whatever is planned should include those who look up to you for affection and guidance. Thus you will give EVERYONE a lift.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Chance could very well step in and unexpectedly hand you, on the proverbial silver platter, what all your striving couldn't attain: A fine day!

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Your feelings now are far more reliable than advice from so-called experts. Never underestimate your truly extraordinary intuition.

with occasional spurts of suspicion and jealousy, a Capricornian tendency. You are extremely versatile; could become a successful writer, artist, editor, musician; would be exceptionally capable in the advertising and promotional fields.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 26

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
You may not find it exactly easy to get back in stride now, but when you spot an unusual opportunity for making gains, you'll revive quickly.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Someone may try to place a burdensome imposition on you. Reject what you consider unfair, but graciously offer alternatives for handling.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Certain situations may disturb during the a.m. — especially since you can't seem to put your finger on the cause. Try to get a little privacy and THINK! The answer will come — seemingly "out of the blue."

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Mild influences indicate a so-so day unless you do something about it. But, in your search for more stimulating activities, don't go off on wild tangents.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
If you hear certain news or receive some mail that's not too pleasing, you may feel likely to explode. But DON'T vent your ill-humor on associates.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A day calling for the utmost discretion. Taking issue with associates — even if you KNOW you are right — could have a bitter ending.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
An ideal day in which to gather in the fruits of past endeavors. Reward may come in the form of a promotion — with expanded prestige.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Take the necessary measures to protect certain economic interests which may have been threatened. You can do it, but you'll need a cool, level head.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Now's the time to make the effort toward the attainment of a major goal. You have plenty of stellar support to back you.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Your outlook similar to that of Sagittarius. If you are bursting with self-confidence, as you should be, this is the day for gaining cooperation in putting over a pet project.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Several chances to do better than usual. Take advantage of all worthwhile opportunities. A good period in which to try out new ideas and methods.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Aspects now increase your desire for further recognition and prestige. Both can be attained by using a new approach. Don't stymie yourself by sticking to the traditional.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with personal magnetism, a fine mind and boundless ambition. Capricornians are renowned, also, for their versatility and for their accomplishments in scholarly and artistic endeavors. You have a keen conception of money values and are generally willing to plod until you have accumulated a competency. Your integrity is outstanding, as is your practicality and meticulousness in handling details — even though you dislike them. Fields in which you could carve a successful career: science, music, writing, education, statesmanship and architecture. Traits to curb: secretiveness, envy, jealousy.

Speaking of Your Health...

Sleeping Pills: The Dangers

Whenever I finally find a sleeping pill that helps to give me a good night's sleep it is soon taken off the market because it is dangerous.

What's left for us insomniacs?
Mr. H.F., Tex.

Dear Mr. F.:

The drugs, or sleeping pills, are not "taken off the market." Rather are they classed as "dangerous" to those who take them in excess. Unfortunately, many valuable drugs are abused by those who take them in large quantities.

The reasons for which they were designed are fundamentally valid and serve to provide a good night's sleep. It is the overuse, abuse and addiction of these drugs that make it necessary to impose the sanctions you refer to. Hazardous drugs are therefore prescribed in small quantities by physicians in order to avoid the dangers of overuse.

My uncle has plastic anemia. Could this come from his work in a factory that makes plastic products?
Miss T.N., Va.

Dear Miss N.:

The condition you refer to is known as aplastic anemia. There is absolutely no relationship between this condition and exposure to modern synthetic plastic.

Aplastic anemia is a special type of blood disorder which can be diagnosed only by microscopic studies of the blood. In this condition, the red blood cells are affected, while the white blood cells are normal.

The cause of this complex type of anemia may be exposure to chemical agents like arsenic and benzene. Other chemicals can produce aplastic anemia after long periods of exposure.

Any factory workers who inhale fumes or come in contact with questionable chemicals are usually given protective devices.

Some cases of aplastic anemia occur in infants and young children because of a genetic disorder.

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass Pass Dble Pass

Opening lead — nine of diamonds.
This deal occurred in the European championship in the match between Norway and Italy. East-West were Franco and Giovine, representing Italy. They were playing the Marmic system and Franco's two club bid showed a three-suited hand with 5-4-4-0 or 4-4-4-1 distribution.

The Norwegian South thought he might be able to cramp the opponents' bidding before they could find their suit, so he bid three clubs.

Giovine, who does not speak English well, asked for a review of the bidding and, upon being assured (in Italian) that South had actually bid three clubs, licked his chops and doubled (in English).

With four likely trump tricks and a partner who had opened the bidding, Giovine was highly confident of his double. He led the nine of diamonds.

Declarer won in dummy and returned the king of spades. Franco took the ace and played the king of hearts, which South ruffed. After cashing the queen of spades, declarer trumped a spade in dummy, ruffed a heart and played a diamond to the ace.

By now seven tricks had been played and South had won six of them. He still had the A-Q-J of trumps, as well as a spade and two diamonds. West's remaining six cards were all trumps.

Declarer now led a heart from dummy and discarded a diamond. West was forced to ruff and return a trump. South won it with the jack and exited with the jack of diamonds. Again West had to ruff and lead a trump, so South made three clubs doubled.

Apparently West's double was unwise, but nonetheless it would be hard to find any red-blooded bridge player who wouldn't double three clubs with the West hand — in any language.

Ruffles flourish for the toddler set

Christmas belles

OLD-FASHIONED charm in a new version of the ever-popular pinafore. Embroidered and applied with birds-and-flower motif, it is worn over a bright red short dress.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHO SAYS Christmas is for children? It's really for adults, that wonderful time of year when they can recapture through their own offspring the magic of past holiday seasons when they were young.

Christmas is for everyone, especially for doting grandmothers and fond mothers. It offers them a delightful excuse for dressing up their own live dolls in festive finery, and they love doing it.

Every holiday it seems that designers have outdone themselves in creating fashions for the younger set. This year is no exception. Fashions for little girls are frilly and fuzzy with ruffles and flourishes. You'll find it hard to resist them when you shop.

Nannette, a house that leads the way in toddler fashions, offers a number of long gowns in its holiday collection. They're ankle-length so they show off new party shoes and lace-edged socks.

Those who prefer short dresses — they show off dimpled knees and plump little legs — needn't worry. Short styles are plentiful in the Nannette collection. Among the most beguiling are pinafore dresses that have old-fashioned charm. The one pictured here is crisp snow white over a lace-edged red dress.

Nannette's Christmas collection may look frilly and fragile but all the fashions are super practical, designed for machine wash-and-wear easy care.

Spring wedding is planned

MISS JANE L. MILLER

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Miller, Rt. 2, have announced the engagement of their daughter Jana Lucille, to Larry Dean Self, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Self Jr., 622 E. Elm St.

The bride-elect, a 1973 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed at Clark's Cardinal Store in Washington C.H.

Her fiancé, a 1973 Washington Senior High School graduate, is employed at Kroger's.

An open church wedding is being planned for March 8 in Grace United Methodist Church.

Class has get-together

The Good Fellowship Class of the First Christian Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thornhill for their Christmas meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garringer were co-hosts. The business meeting was conducted by the President Kenneth Blair, and reports were given. Devotions were given by Paul Thornhill. He used for his theme "Tradition of Christmas."

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Christmas cookies They're a holiday tradition

HERE'S a bar cookie that takes the cake. Easy to make, Fyrstekake has cardamom and almond filling under its crisscross pastry.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

YOU KNOW Christmas is right around the corner when the house is filled with the wonderfully spicy aroma of cookies in the making and baking. It's a holiday tradition in many homes, one children love, and one they'll remember all their lives.

With all the hustle-bustle of Christmas, cookie-making sometimes gets left until the last minute, and then it's done in a rush that spoils the fun. So don't wait, this weekend roll out your dough and start baking. It's the best way I know to get into that merry frame of mind that's called Christmas Spirit.

Every country has its Christmas cookie tradition. The Germans like spiced cookies with figures pressed into them. They are called:

SPRINGERLE
(Molded Anise Cookies)

- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Sugar or all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons anise seed

In a large mixing bowl, beat eggs until light; gradually beat in sugar until mixture is very pale and thick. Stir in lemon peel and vanilla. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to egg mixture, blending well (dough should be smooth but not sticky). Chill for 1 hour.

Sprinkle pastry board lightly with sugar or flour. Roll dough 1/2-inch thick. Make design with springerle roller or molds. Cut into squares.

Place cookies on buttered cookie sheets which have been sprinkled generously with anise seed. Set cookies aside for at least 24 hours. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until edges are pale gold. Do not brown. Cool on wire racks. Store in an air-tight container at least 10 days before eating. These cookies may be stored for several months.

Makes about 4 dozen.
Honey, an ingredient that's naturally good, lends its sweet taste to another German holiday favorite:

LEBKUCHEN
(Honey Bars)

- 1 & one-third cups honey
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 package (2 1/2 ounces) slivered, blanched almonds
- 1/4 cup finely chopped citron
- 1/4 cup grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon apple pie spice

In a large saucepan, combine honey and sugar; heat slightly. Add butter; stir until melted. Sift 2 cups of the flour with baking powder and baking soda. Add to honey mixture, blending well (dough will be semi-liquid). Blend in almonds, citron, lemon peel and apple pie spice. Add remaining 1 1/2 cups flour; mix well (dough will be sticky to the touch).

Wet the back side of a metal spoon with cold water and use to spread dough evenly in four buttered 8 x 8-inch square pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Immediately remove from pans and cut into squares. Store in tightly covered container at least 1 week before using. They soften during storage. These bars may be kept for several weeks.

GERMAN Christmas cookies: Springerle with designs pressed into them and Lebkuchen, spiced honey bars.

Makes 4 (8-inch) square cakes.

There's cardamom-almond filling under the pastry that crisscrosses these delectable bar cookies:

FYRSTKEAKE

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons milk

Cardamom-Almond filling

Sift together into a mixing bowl, flour, baking powder and sugar. Add butter and cut it into crumb consistency. Beat egg yolk with milk and add. Mix well.

Press two-thirds of the dough 1/4-inch thick into the bottom of a 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Spread surface with Cardamom-Almond Filling (the recipe follows). Roll remaining dough 1/4-inch wide with a pastry cutter. Place in a crisscross fashion over the filling. Bake in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Cool and cut into bars. Serve as a bar cookie. Makes 54 (1 by 2-inch) bars.

CARDAMOM-ALMOND FILLING

- 1 1/4 cups unblanched almonds
- 1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 egg white
- 6 tablespoons water

Put almonds through the food chopper using the fine blade (or use blender). Add sugar with spices, egg white and water. Blend thoroughly.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That landmark TV film "My Sweet Charlie" is returning to the air Christmas Eve.
"My Sweet Charlie," first seen on NBC Jan. 20, 1970, marked one of those rare turning points in television. A movie made especially for TV had for the first time achieved prestige and acclaim.

The film itself did not win the Emmy that year as outstanding dramatic program, losing out to the special, "A Storm in Summer." But Emmys did go to Patty Duke as best actress, to Richard Levinson and William Link for their teleplay and to Edward M. Abrams for best film editing.

Until "My Sweet Charlie," the TV movie, still a newcomer on the scene, had been slick and generally competent, but there was little luster attached to it.

Another NBC movie, "Silent Night, Lonely Night," which ran a month earlier, helped clear the way but did not receive the acclaim of "Charlie."

After that, TV movies became more prestigious and supplanted taped drama as the major dramatic vehicle of television. Such movies include "Brian's Song," "That Certain Summer," "A War of Children," "The Marcus-Nelson Murders," "Go Ask Alice," "The Affair," "Sunshine" and "Blood Sport."

TV movies also are presented under other names, such as specials, but remain essentially movies for television. Such specials include "The Snow Goose," "Jane Eyre" and Sunday night's memorable "The Glass Menagerie."

"My Sweet Charlie," which stars Miss Duke and Al Freeman Jr., is about a pregnant young Southern girl who hides out in a house along the Texas coast. There she meets a black New York lawyer fleeing from the police. Their antagonism toward each other gradually grows into respect.

Levinson and Link wrote the screenplay from the novel by David Westheimer. Lamont Johnson directed.

The TV movie had begun to show signs of lagging this year. CBS cut back its Tuesday night series of original movies—the platform for last year's Emmy winner, "A War of Children"—and introduced two rotating series, "Hawkins" and "Shaft." And NBC, which had pioneered the TV movie, had neglected it in recent years. It was ABC which honed it to a fine edge with its two nights of Movies of the Week.

At midseason, however, NBC is re-entering the field with a new Wednesday night series of originals and theatrical films. Prominent among the originals is "The Execution of Private Slovik," which Levinson and Link wrote from the book by William Bradford Huie. It chronicles the execution of the only soldier for desertion in World War II.

Poor nations hurt by energy crunch

UNITED NATIONS, New York (AP) — Although industrialized nations are being hit hard by the energy crisis, a United Nations report says developing countries are feeling the fuel crunch even more.

Millions of poor villagers in India, for example, have so little fuel that they are having to choose between cooking their food and heating their homes, according to the U.N. report.

Some 80 countries, many of them poorer than India, have weak financial structures, the document adds, and have staked their hopes for a better future on imported oil and fertilizers.

As the oil shortage becomes more acute and prices skyrocket, these nations are without so-called safety valves that are available to the United States, Japan and the Western European nation, the report claims.

The safety valves may be in financial reserves to cover the inflated oil prices, in coal deposits that can be reactivated to take the pressure off of oil imports, or in technology to speed the development of nuclear, geothermal or solar energy.

The U.N. document says soaring oil prices have severely affected prices in these poorer nations.

In Poona, 75 miles from Bombay, motor scooter prices have jumped from 7,000 to 9,000 rupees as "dealers speculated that the middle class, which had laboriously worked its way up to sedans, would now scurry back to scooters," the report said. One dollar equals about 7 rupees.

And kerosene prices in India have jumped to 55 cents a gallon, about a full day's wages in villages where poor laborers make as little as three to four rupees a day.

"Hardest hit were the poorer classes — the users of bottled cooking gas, mostly in cities, and of kerosene, which supplies such light and heat as the villagers can afford," the report says.

"Millions of people suddenly had to decide whether they wanted food or light and heat. At the new prices they might not be able to afford both." The report says the prices of charcoal and firewood also climbed.

Alfalfa juice is projected as being able to boost the protein content of breads, pastries, pastas, soups, stews, gravies, milk substitutes, ground meats and other processed foods.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The recent arrival of photo annuals, magazines and books might offer suggestions for last-minute Christmas giftgiving for camera fans.

The U.S. Camera — Camera 35 Annual unifies its 1973 round-up of portfolios with the theme of "Personal Pictures" (American Express Publishers, New York, $1.50). As editor Jim Hughes points out, a camera and the photographs it takes often reveal as much about the person behind the lens as the subject in front of it.

Some photographers do it unconsciously. viewing the world around them with personal, preceptive vision that mirrors their outlook and identifies their output. Others actually turn the camera on themselves to record their lifestyles. And there are a few who try to go further, seeking to picture their inner thoughts, emotions and moods.

Camera 35 Annual shows each of these types of personal pictures among examples from 14 photographers but it stars actress Gina Lollobrigida on the cover and with 16 pages of her photos.

Other include a remarkable family album by Catherine Noren which spans a century of picture taking through four generations; a revealing look at primitive people by Canadian traveler Richard Iden; and color portfolios which focus on Nature's beauty in Okefenokee Swamp by Andrew Unangst and on people in Central Park by Pearl Korn.

Gina Lollobrigida's pictures of her native Italy were a delightful surprise which showed she has a passion for taking pictures as well as a keen eye, an alert trigger finger and competent mastery of her equipment. She also had a tremendous handicap — public recognition.

To overcome it, she had to resort to complete disguises in order to shoot in anonymity. About 200 of her pictures, from thousands taken in the past couple of years, have been selected for Gina's newly published book, "Italia Mia" (Amphoto, Garden City, N.Y., $14.95).

"Personal Pictures," like any human activity, can go too far at times and get too personal. The result was that I, the viewer, felt like an intruder or a Peeping Tom in a couple of instances. It was an uncomfortable feeling. What it revealed of the photographer would be normally an invasion of privacy. But we find, in all media and all levels of conduct — public and private — these are not "normal" times.

SOME MONTHS AGO a new photo magazine, with a French connection and an American base, made a test appearance in the U.S. Public reaction was favorable and now we have "Photo World" on newsstands around the country on a regular basis, starting with the December 1973 issue (Downe Publishers, New York $1). Its spicy French flavor comes from its sire, PHOTO magazine, a Paris publication. Other ingredients are strictly American but the overall emphasis is on what talented photographers produce — photographs.

Basic books designed to illuminate the subject of photography, to unravel some of its complexities and explain techniques, are always welcome. Here's a new one that seems to do the job well: "Photography Is . . ." by Wyatt Brummitt (Amphoto Publishers, Garden City, N.Y., $9.95).

The fundamentals are explained and illustrated and if the text is well digested and put to practical use, it should accomplish the author's objective: ". . . to help the reader attain better, more eloquent, more individual and more useful pictures."

FOR A GOOD photo book for youngsters, I recommend "Tinker and the Medicine Men — The Story of a Navajo Boy" by Bernard Wolf (Random House, New York, $4.95). It is a picture story with dramatic photos and a warm, enlightening text which describes the life of a 6-year-old Indian boy.

This is Wolf's fourth book for America's youngsters which depicts the everyday life of a child of another land or culture simply and sympathetically. He previously went to Ecuador for the picture story of "The Little Weaver of Agato," to the Azores to photograph "Daniel and the Whale Hunters;" and to the West Indies for "The Jamaica Boy."

In each case, he lived with the native families he photographed, gained their confidence and respect and told their stories with sensitive dignity.

FINALLY, in this grim world beset with violence, there's a camera and a voice which cries loudly, "Is Anyone

ALL EYES are on the passing girl and none on the photographer who happens to be Italy's famous actress, Gina Lollobrigida—but that's because she was disguised in baggy clothes and floppy wig. This eye-catching slice of Italian life is one of a portfolio of pictures by Lollobrigida which appears in the current U.S. Camera—Camera 35 Annual.

Taking Any Notice?" The voice and camera belong to Donald McCullin, British photojournalist, and the query gets an unusual presentation in a beautifully printed book published by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

McCullin's assignments — mostly self-imposed — have taken him to the world's trouble spots in Biafra, Cyprus, the Congo, India, Bangladesh, Northern Ireland, Vietnam, Cambodia and America. His photos of man's inhumanity to man are powerful but artistic images that ask that relentless title question.

There is no text in the usual sense. Instead, the photographer's succinct comments are noted in isolated phrases or words that illuminate the photos. At the same time, appropriate comments by Russian novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn are excerpted from his Nobel Prize speech and appear with the pictures too.

The books' conception and design is unique and the title deserved a universal and affirmative answer.

Real estate chief hurt in blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the Ohio Real Estate Commission remained in serious condition today following a fire in his suburban Sycamore Township home Sunday that killed his wife and injured a son.

Montgomery volunteer firemen said the body of Mrs. Florence Tranter, 57, was draped out a second floor window when they arrived. She apparently had pushed out the window from the den where the fire began, firemen said.

John L. Tranter, 58, was in Cincinnati General Hospital with burns over 60 per cent of his body, the Hamilton County sheriff's department said.

Tobacco sales

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky farmers received a total of $228,392,318.24 on burley tobacco markets prior to the Christmas sales recess, the State Department of Agriculture said Sunday.

The price averaged $93.72 on sales totaling about 243,653,104 pounds during the four-week period before the holiday sales recess started last Thursday.

Exchange students tell of Christmas in their homelands

By MARK THELLMANN

In South Africa, if you refer to the cherry, fat man in the red suit with the long white hair and beard as Santa Claus on St. Nicholas, you probably will get blank looks, for he is known as "Father Christmas."

In Spain and Bolivia, you have to wait nine days longer to exchange gifts. This is done on "Three Wise Men" day which is celebrated Jan. 6.

Although customs this time of year are different the world over, the underlying theme of thankfulness and giving is found everywhere.

SHEILA GORDON, the dark-haired, dark-eyed, 18-year-old foreign exchange student from Pietermaritzburg, South Africa is attending Miami Trace High School and living with the Will Braun family, Hess Rd., during her nine-month stay in Fayette County. She explained how Christmas is celebrated in her native country.

"Since I am of British descent, my family celebrates Christmas the same way Americans do, but what makes it different in South Africa is the way the Zulus, who work on my father's farm, celebrate it."

"The Zulu tribes come to our door on Christmas and ask for a 'Christmas box' which is a present prepared for them. In return for the gift, which is usually clothing for the children or food, they do a dance."

Sheila, who can speak fluent Zulu, said the Zulus are a contented, happy people.

"Everyday is Christmas to them and they are fun to be around. After the dance and the giftgiving, they have the rest of the day off so they return to their homes and proceed to get 'smashed,' as Sheila put it.

"The Zulus drink quite a bit, but it never interferes with their work or anything; it's their life-style," Sheila commented.

Sheila added that people show up on your doorstep asking for Christmas boxes whom you can't remember ever seeing before.

"Even if someone held a door for you once, they appear Christmas morning, remind you of their good deed and ask for their gift. If you don't give them one, they follow you around all day, so you have to be prepared with plenty of presents," she explained laughingly.

FERNANDO MARTIN from Talavera, Spain, is another American Field Service (AFS) exchange student like Sheila. He and Walter Ayub from La Paz, Bolivia, who is sponsored by Rotary International, attend Washington Senior High School.

They both come from Spanish-speaking countries whose Christmas customs are very similar, and they both are perfecting their English with great haste.

Fernando, a slender, dark-haired, dark-eyed 17-year-old, who is staying with the Rev. Gerald Wheat family, 220 N. Hinde St., says that although through television and books he knows what Santa Claus stands for, Santa is not included in a Spanish Christmas.

"In mid-December, the streets are decorated with lights and we exchange Christmas cards through the mail as you do here, Fernando explained. "On Christmas Eve, my people get together over a turkey dinner. We have no Thanksgiving; that is unique in your country due to its history, so turkey is traditional for us only at Christmas."

Fernando commented the most exchanged gift in Spain is candy and brought out a piece his parents had recently sent him.

It was bar-shaped, 4" by 6" beige-colored, and filled with nuts, not chocolate. He cautioned that one can eat only a little at a time due to its sweetness. Otherwise, you will get sick.

He went on to explain that after the dinner celebration, during which everyone is allowed to drink and smoke regardless of age, the younger boys get together to go singing in the streets.

"The 8, 9, and 10-year-olds make very simple instruments, like pop bottles beaten with spoons, and go door-to-door singing and playing. In return, they are given coins by the people," Fernando said.

"When they return, everyone gets together for more singing and celebrating. Since most of the people in Spain live in apartment complexes, instead of houses as you do in America, it is easy for everyone to join in on the fun which continues long after midnight," Fernando added.

"Another big meal is served in the afternoon on Christmas Day," Fernando said, "and then since most of Spain is Catholic, we all attend Mass afterwards. We leave the mass, singing in the streets and then present a gift to our parents for which the children have saved their money. This is the only giftgiving."

Fernando continued: "The children get their gifts on 'Three Wise Men' day which is celebrated Jan. 6. There is a big parade in the streets the day before and that night we leave our shoes out in order to find our gifts in them, or next to them, the following morning."

Fernando next talked about celebrating New Year's Day.

"Everyone attends a big dance and dresses fancy on Dec. 31 and then at the stroke of midnight it is traditional to eat 12 grapes, one on every stroke; you have to go fast. Then we all hug and kiss and drink champagne."

Another contrast has to do with the Christmas pine tree.

"Only recently has this custom come to Spain, he said. "Before, we made models of the Nativity scene which were displayed on a table or the floor, depending on size. Some of them were quite intricate. We were influenced by the Christmas tree idea through television which is only 10 years old in Spain."

"Another thing I have thought of," Fernando added, "is the idea of the children's letter to Santa Claus telling him what is wanted. Since we have no Santa Claus, the children in Spain write to the Three Wise Men."

WALTER AYUB, the dark-haired, dark-eyed and dark-complexioned exchange student from La Paz, Bolivia, who is sponsored by Rotary, resides with the Dr. George Pommert family, 203 River Rd.

Walter explained that his Bolivian Christmas is much like Fernando's Spanish Christmas, except for a few things.

"Christmas trees in the homes are not yet popular. We still have replicas of the Nativity scene as our decoration and the presents are found placed around these on Christmas morning."

Walter related a custom in which the children are awakened at midnight Christmas Eve to place their shoes outside. When questioned why, he smiled sheepishly and admitted he really doesn't know.

"I can't see what purpose it serves, now that we are talking about it. We bring in the shoes the next morning and nothing is ever in them. I'll have to ask about it when I return," he said smiling.

Walter explained the relatives got together over a big dinner on Christmas Day and have a big celebration.

"Like in Spain, everyone drinks and smokes and enjoys themselves," he said.

Walter continued, "More presents are given on New Year's Day. They mostly consist of clothes given to the children by their parents. We get together and celebrate some more, but we don't eat grapes at the stroke of midnight. I've never heard of that," he said, looking confused. "Are you sure Fernando wasn't kidding you?"

AFTER TALKING about Christmas in their native lands, all three foreign exchange students had more to say concerning their first visit to America.

Sheila Gordon said she left her father's broiler and vegetable farm - a "broiler" is a type of chicken, usually sold to the Indians in South Africa who are forbidden to eat beef because of religious convictions - and spent 22 hours in the air before she got to America.

"It all started when the AFS representative came to my private school of 1,000 girls and told us about the exchange program. I applied and after much paperwork and interviewing, was selected."

There were many things I expected to experience in America which were different from South Africa. I knew the seasons were reversed and this would be a cooler climate. There is no central heating in my country because the coldest it ever gets in winter is 40 degrees; usually it is 60 degrees in winter. I don't mind the cold and I like the snow," she said.

Sheila stated that wood houses seemed strange to her.

"The houses here are very pretty. In South Africa, the houses are either made of brick or mud and sticks. The freedom here is a new thing too. We are not as politically active in my country because of the strong censorship of the newspapers and radio and there is no TV."

Concerning her education in a private school, Sheila said, "Although I am taking sociology, psychology, government, typing, world and drama literature, speech, English composition and band at Miami Trace, I feel it is still easier than my school."

"In South Africa, you attend school for 12 years," she continued, "but all testing is essay. I finished high school at age 17 and went to the university for six months before coming here. After my stay in America is over, I plan to go to the University of Natal and earn a B.A. degree in language, majoring in Zulu and French. I then plan on teaching Zulu to Europeans and English and French to the Zulus."

Sheila has an older brother and sister in her family and her father worked in a gold mine before turning to farming.

FERNANDO MARTIN left a younger brother and sister, his mother and his father who works for the railroad in Spain, when he came to America. He said he enjoyed his trip over which gave him an opportunity to explore Paris, France by bus, during a stop-over.

"I enjoyed Paris very much. It's very pretty because they have a wet climate which makes everything lush and green," Fernando commented.

Fernando also said he thinks school is easier in America.

"In Spain, you attend elementary school until you turn 14. Then you have a choice of working, finding a vocational school to go to or continuing for two more years. If you decide to go to college, you go another year for preparation. Upon passing all your exams, you enter college and study for your degree four or five years."

He continued: "In Spain, those planning on college must attend the college in their district. If you wish to attend another you must request permission from the college in mind."

Fernando, who is doing well with the English he manages to speak very quickly, admitted although he learned English in school in Spain, the real education of the language started when he set foot in America.

"At first, I couldn't understand anything and I had the constant delusion that people were talking about me. I'm doing much better now and have gained a lot of confidence. In fact, this whole experience has changed my personality and life. I am much more independent and willing to do things and go places alone. I never did that before."

Fernando admitted he missed the parks in Spain.

"There are parks in Washington C.H., but no one used them. People are always walking in the parks in Spain and they used as places to meet and talk and relax."

"I have also noticed the streets and sidewalks here are used to get places, whereas in Spain, they are used for walking and window shopping. The streets are much narrower and the sidewalks, wider, and the people walk for the sake of walking, like they do in the parks."

Fernando admitted he didn't like American food at first because it tasted bland.

"Spanish food is hot and spicy and we eat on different schedule. We'll have a biscuit or toast in the morning and a small sandwich around 11 a.m. Our lunch, consisting of three courses: soup, main dish and dessert, comes around 2:30 p.m. At 6 p.m., we have another small sandwich and this is followed by another three-course dinner around 9 p.m. Afterwards, we watch television and then go to bed around midnight."

Fernando went on about television: "We have one, sometimes two state-controlled stations in Spain. Our shows are mostly American with dubbed-in Spanish and are broadcast only in black and white. I find the voice-match for the dubbing remarkable since I have watched American TV. I have seen 'Medical Center', 'Cannon', 'The Lucy Show', 'Marcus Welby', 'Bewitched', all of them in Spain and the real English voices are almost the same as the dubbed Spanish ones."

WALTER AYUB left two brothers, his father, who runs an import store, and a cousin who lives with him in Bolivia, when he came to America. He admitted being very homesick at first, but well adjusted and content now.

"English has been my main barrier in America because I arrived with only a two-week crash course in this difficult language behind me. That was very minimal preparation!" Walter exclaimed.

Walter said outside of his difficulty with English, school here is not that hard.

"In Bolivia, grades are through 6 is primary school; 7 through 12 is secondary school. After this is completed, you choose to go to work or to go to college for four or five years to earn a degree."

He admitted unhappily that after secondary school or college, there is

Energy pinch adds to tragedy

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Before the energy shortage, Charles Huffstutler, 38, made $2.80 an hour as a shipper for an Ohio plastics processing company.

Now Huffstutler is out of work, a victim of the crisis in energy.

When General Motors cut back large car production, another casualty of the fuel shortage, Meridian lost its biggest customers. The Byesville factory made plastic parts for big GM cars.

That was merely the straw that threatens to break the camel's back. Even if General Motors still were buying, Meridian would have trouble finding raw materials. The raw material for plastics comes from oil. Processors say available material, already in short supply, is being shipped overseas for higher prices.

"The material shortage is what's hitting us," said Huffstutler.

"They put on the bulletin board that if the government doesn't do something about shipping all the raw material overseas, that they're going to have to shut the factory down completely in February, that they'll run out of stock of what material they have on hand."

But, Huffstutler's mind wasn't on his job. His wife had been hospitalized a week after he was laid off. He began living in a hallway of Guernsey Memorial Hospital in Cambridge.

Standing outside the door of his wife's room, Huffstutler talked of his job in mandatory enlistment in the army for four months and everyone does this without exception.

Walter agreed with Fernando about the parks and walking and added that on New Year's Day everyone meets in the park.

He mentioned TV is only three years old in Bolivia and movie houses were heavily patronized.

"On Sunday afternoon, everyone goes to the movies," he said.

When asked what he likes best about America, he smiled and answered, "The girls! They are so much prettier and taller and appear so much older."

slow, worried tones, lacking the intense quality of bitterness.

"I'm concerned about my wife, not my job," he said. He shrugged. "You can't hold a grudge against a factory when it's not their fault," he said. "All you can blame is the government, and you don't know who to blame in that."

He moved his heavy body restlessly, one ear tuned to the door. "I don't think there is a shortage. During this Vietnam War they used billions of gallons a month, and there never was a shortage."

"And here it is, the war's over, and they're not using that, and yet here comes up a shortage all the sudden."

"I could understand it slowly, but not all at once, that much shortage," he said. "I think they just want to get the gasoline and everything up higher."

Adding to Huffstutler's worry in his conviction that a depression is coming.

"My dad always said that a depression was going to come eventually, no ifs, ands or buts about it," he said. "The way I look at it, it probably is."

Still, he looked at the prospect with a certain amount of optimism. At the time Huffstutler talked he and his wife lived with his parents on a farm near Lore City, Ohio, a dozen miles to the east of his former job.

Huffstutler's father is retired. His wife's hospitalization was covered by insurance, he said, and the couple's expenses weren't high.

"It's not so hard on me as it would be for people that's got children," said Huffstutler. "We don't have children."

Huffstutler said he came to Ohio because of his wife. He used to live in

Soybean growers plan to promote 'checkoff' plan

A group of soybean growers from Clinton, Fayette and Greene counties plan to promote the half cent per bushel checkoff referendum, which will be voted on at the Fayette County Agriculture Extension office Jan. 8-9-10.

John Gruber, Fayette County Extension Agent, presented facts about soybeans at a meeting held last week at the Wilmington Elks Lodge stating that more than 150,000 acres of soybeans were raised in the three counties in 1973. In 1973, 55 per cent of the production was exported. "It is therefore essential to promote the sale of soybeans overseas since there are seven other products in competition for the world protein market and nine other products competing for oil sales," Gruber said.

John Miller, field representative for the American Soybean Association, stated that 11 other states already have estimated there will be a 200 million bushel carryover of soybeans, Miller pointed out.

IN THE PAST more than 100 million bushel carryover has resulted in depressed prices, Miller said. With a shortage of nitrogen fertilizers, more farmers could substitute soybeans for corn in their farming operation next year, resulting in a still larger supply.

Norman Schiering, Ohio Soybean Statewide Temporary Committee member from Fayette County, said the 18-man committee has spent many hours establishing the recommended soybean checkoff.

Farmers at the annual meetings in Clinton, Fayette and Greene counties approved resolutions favoring the soybean checkoff. Representatives from Fayette County encouraging a vote were Robert Taylor, Richard Davidson, Richard Carson, Wayne Hidy and Schiering. Also attending were Ed Fladt, John Crain, Walter Garman and Gruber.

southern California, he said, but his wife became frightened of earthquakes.

"When the earthquake hit (in 1971), she went in a fit, and, boy, I thought she was going to go out of her mind," he said. "So, I told her to pack her clothes."

Huffstutler said he was ready to quit the pastic industry. When his wife recovered, he said, they were going to move to her parents' home in Iowa.

"I'm just hanging around here until she gets well," he said.

Two days later Mrs. Huffstutler died.

Decanters cut back

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Liquor Control Director Richard Guggenheim has managed to bottle up his enthusiasm for decorative decanters lining the shelves of state liquor stores this time of year.

Guggenheim says he has spent three years trying to sell an inherited stock of 67,411 ceramic decanters.

After 35 months of determined effort, including selling at below cost such items as a California quail, a San Francisco cable car and a Winston Churchill commemorative, only 467 remain.

The new policy is to permit distillers to provide special decanters, but only if they can be returned if they don't sell, Guggenheim said.

"We buy very few of these things now, and we put them in specially for Christmas on a limited basis," he said.

Super Bowl prospects dwindle down to four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League Super Bowl countdown is at four and holding. Minnesota and Dallas are still alive in the National Conference and Oakland and Miami are the American Conference survivors after the opening weekend of playoff games dominated by home teams.

Minnesota had the closest call, outlasting Washington 27-20 on a pair of fourth quarter touchdown passes from Fran Tarkenton to John Gilliam. Dallas will host the Vikings for the NFC title next Sunday after eliminating Los Angeles 27-16 with Roger Staubach hitting Drew Pearson on two scoring pitches.

George Blanda's four field goals helped Oakland romp to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh. That put the Raiders in the AFC championship game against defending Super Bowl champion Miami next Sunday. The Dolphins advanced by whacking Cincinnati 34-16.

Vikings 27, Redskins 20
Minnesota managed only nine rushing yards in the first half and went into the dressing room trailing 7-3. That was when defensive end Carl Eller decided to shake things up. He made a little speech to his teammates, telling them to get out there and play football. That bit of inspiration helped the Vikings turn the game around in the fourth quarter when Tarkenton, who's never been in the playoffs before in 13 pro seasons, tossed scoring passes of 28 and six yards to Gilliam.

Cowboys 27, Rams 16
Dallas forced turnovers on Los Angeles' first two offensive plays and cashed in for a pair of touchdowns en route to a 17-0 lead. Then the Rams rushed back, slashing away all but one point of the margin.

But rookie Drew Pearson, who had caught a four-yard TD pass earlier, grabbed an 83-yarder from Roger Staubach to finish off L.A.

Raiders 33, Steelers 14
Blanda kicked field goals from 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, putting points on the scoreboard everytime the Raiders got him in range and insuring that there would be no opportunity for the kind of last-second heroics the Steelers used to eliminate Oakland from the playoffs a year ago.

Dolphins 34, Bengals 16
Cincinnati frightened Miami, scoring

13 points on two Horst Muhlmann field goals and an interception which safety Neal Craig returned for a TD, in the final 3½ minutes of the first half. That cut a comfortable 18-point Dolphin lead down to a less-awesome five points.

UCLA overwhelms Bonnies, 111-59

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes UCLA's basketball success startles even Bruin Coach John Wooden.

"I thought St. Bonaventure would be stronger than it was," said Wooden after the top-ranked Bruins captured their 81st straight victory by blasting the Bonnies 111-59 Saturday night.

"Perhaps," surmised Wooden, "they were awed by our strength."

The Bruins provided reason for awe, exploding for 20-2 and 13-3 scoring bursts in the first half, when they ran up a 63-20 lead.

In other games, second-ranked Maryland tripped Santa Clara 53-32; No. 7 Indiana survived a second-half scare to beat 15th-rated South Carolina 84-71; No. 8 Louisville defeated Bradley 74-65; No. 9 Providence trimmed DePaul 93-75 and No. 10 Alabama Alabama walked over Columbia 70-43.

Long Beach State, ranked 11th, walloped Indiana State 74-45; No. 12 Memphis State crushed Samford 101-69; No. 14 Arizona stopped Texas Tech 86-64; No. 16 Southern California halted Ohio U. 80-68; Vanderbilt, rated 17th, beat Kansas 83-72; No. 18 Syracuse upset Boston College 110-88 and in the only other loss among Top 20 teams, No. 19 Jacksonville was upset by St. John's, N.Y. 68-60.

Maryland chipped away at the Santa Clara defense to claim the championship of the Cable Car Classic in Oakland. John Lucas scored 23 points to win most valuable player honors in the tourney.

In a consolation game of the same tournament, San Francisco, a preseason ranked team, snapped a five-game losing streak by beating St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-63.

The 15th-ranked Gamecocks came back to within three points of Indiana in the second half after trailing by 14. "It looked like last year all over again," said Indiana Coach Bob Knight, referring to a game where the Hoosiers frittered away a 16-point lead to South Carolina in the second half.

Louisville outscored Bradley 20-6

So, the defending world champions did just that. They shut out Cincinnati in the second half and got a second TD pass from quarterback Bob Griese and a pair of long range field goals of 46 and 50 yards by Garo Yepremian to finish off the Bengals.

early in the first half and then held on for its sixth straight victory. Bill Butler scored 19 points for Louisville, which was bothered by a fullcourt press in the second half which cut its lead to three points.

Providence duo Kevin Stacom and Marvin Barnes took care of DePaul. Stacom scored 38 points, while Barnes had 16 points and 17 rebounds.

Alabama, upset Friday night by St. John's in the opening round of the Connecticut Classic, came back to punish Columbia with Ray Odums scoring 15 points.

Meanwhile, St. John's continued to be a giantkiller, beating Jacksonville behind the shooting of Frank Alagia who scored 19 points and was named the Classic's most valuable player.

Long Beach State forced Indiana State into 23 turnovers and 26 per cent shooting from the floor, as Long Beach got 14-point performances from Leonard Gray, Clifton Pondexter and Glenn McDonald.

John Washington, starting for the first time because of senior Wes Westfall's illness, scored 17 points and grabbed 24 rebounds for Memphis State; Coniel Norman scored 25 points to pace Arizona over Texas Tech; Southern California ran off 12 straight points in 2:23 of the first half to spurt ahead of Ohio University; Lee Fowler and Terry Compton combined for 37 points to lead Vanderbilt over Kansas and Dennis DuVal collected 30 points for Syracuse which beat Boston College, for its 36th straight home triumph.

New Mexico State captured its own Roadrunner Invitational tourney, beating Oklahoma State 85-56; the host also triumphed in the Oral Roberts Classic, as Oral Roberts defeated Murray State 86-83 and Dayton beat California 66-62 to capture its Dayton Invitational.

Larry Fogle, the nation's leading major college scorer with a 36-point average, tallied 43 points in Canisius' 127-88 victory over Scranton U.

Flyers win in Dayton Invitational

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stung by a one-point championship loss last year to Alabama, the University of Dayton hung on this year and won over the University of California-Berkeley 66-62 Saturday night in the Dayton Invitational.

Dayton was led by co-captains Donald Smith and Mike Sylvester, both of whom drew praise from California Coach Dick Edwards.

"Sylvester was tough, really tough," Edwards said. "He hurt us inside and we put him at the foul line too much. It's hard to keep the ball away from him."

"And not too many people can shut out Don Smith," Edwards said. Dayton Coach Don Donohue said the championship "should give the team confidence."

Smith scored Dayton's last two points with 1:13 remaining after being fouled by Rickie Hawthorne, opening a seven-point lead—the widest margin of the game.

But Hawthorne bounded back, sinking a hook shot with 39 seconds left to narrow the gap to four points.

Dayton hung on to win the championship, however.

In the consolation game, forward Larry Haralson and guard Ron Caldwell led Drake to a 66-60 victory over Georgia. The two players, each scoring 18 points, brought Drake behind in the first half and led them to a 39-14 halftime lead.

"This tournament has been good for us in the sense that we'll correct mistakes," said Georgia Coach John Guthrie. "You come up to something like this to prepare yourself for a conference race."

Ohio State came from behind to take third place in the Kentucky Invitational tournament with an 85-80 victory over Dartmouth. The Buckeyes trailed by 11 points in the second half, but tied the score at 77-77 with 3:59 remaining and went on to win.

Dartmouth took control of the game midway through the first half, holding a 47-40 lead at halftime. But Buckeye Larry Bolden led Ohio State's comeback, hitting 13 points early in the second half. Bolden was high scorer

Tom Weiskopf named year's male golfer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio, has been named male golfer of the year by the Golf Writers of America.

Weiskopf, who won the British Open last summer and won $243,155 in 1973, won the title by a six-vote margin over fellow Columbus star Jack Nicklaus.

Kathy Whitworth outpolled Judy Rankin for the women's title, while Gay Brewer and Patty Berg were named recipients of the Ben Hogan award for comebacks from physical ailments.

Big Ten basketball teams spread across continent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Ten basketball teams will spread throughout the continent and even into Hawaii this week for a series of holiday tournaments before finally settling down to conference openers Jan. 5.

They'll take with them a 43-23 record against interstate rivals but the going figures to be a lot tougher on the tournament trail which will feature strong opposition.

Seven teams will engage in tournament play including Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Michigan, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Minnesota.

Iowa, Northwestern and Ohio State will not participate in tournaments this week although Northwestern and Ohio State played in tournaments last week.

Michigan also was involved in a tournament last week and the Wolverines captured their own tourney title with a 70-66 victory over Bowling Green in the championship game.

Ohio State took third place in the Kentucky Invitational by defeating Dartmouth 85-80 and Northwestern fell to Texas A&M 86-84 in the Marshall Tournament. The Wildcats lost both

Rose Bowl practice sessions different

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Woody Hayes and John McKay are taking entirely different practice approaches to the Rose Bowl game.

Hayes, the tough disciplinarian who coaches Ohio State, is drilling his Big Ten co-champions hard daily at Citrus Junior College.

The casual McKay, coach of Southern California, doesn't have another practice scheduled until Wednesday for his Pacific-8 champs.

The fourth-ranked Buckeyes (9-0-1), and the No. 7 Trojans, (9-1-1) are rematched in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Southern California whipped Ohio 42-17, last New Year's.

"I'm afraid we're soft," said Hayes, trying to snap a personal two-game losing streak and the Big Ten four-game winless spell in the Rose Bowl.

"We need more work," the Ohio State mentor said before a practice Sunday. "Some of our players are four and five pounds too heavy. We'll work that off."

Hayes has another heavy practice scheduled today before the team Christmas party in its hotel. The Buckeyes will resume their workouts Wednesday.

The Trojans, meantime, practiced last on Friday. McKay says that doesn't mean he's taking the Rose Bowl lightly.

"I want to win as badly as anyone, but if it means beating our players up in long practices before the game, I refuse to do that," said McKay, who is preparing his sixth Rose Bowl team in the last eight years.

McKay and Hayes have met twice before in the Rose Bowl and each has scored one victory. Ohio State won in

Hunter safety course offered

A special Hunter Safety Course will be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish & Game Association and held at their lodge. This community service event will take place on Sunday, December 30, from 1:30 - 4:00 P.M.

Movies and discussions on the subjects of safe gun handling in the home, on the range, and in the field will be highlighted. Jerry Cremeans, local game protector, will be the principal instructor. He will be assisted by experienced personnel of the sponsoring organization.

Interested persons of all ages are welcomed to participate. It is known that a substantial number of younger people will receive their first guns as Christmas gifts. Therefore, it is thought that the choice of December 30 as the date for the course will provide a timely opportunity for these youngsters to get off on the right foot by learning proper, responsible handling of their new hunting or target guns.

In addition to the indoor instructional phase of the course, some carefully supervised shotgun and rifle shooting will be conducted to help familiarize participants with their firearms and to give them a chance to practice safe gun handling under the watchful eye of competent instructors.

Participants will be awarded colorful Hunter Safety Course shoulder patches and certificates. The course and refreshments will be free of charge.

Miami of Ohio whips Gators, 16-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Miami, the Oxford, Ohio, school which calls itself the "cradle of coaches," has sent four former coaches on to major college football powerhouses. The present head man, Bill Mallory, wants to take the Mid-American Conference up with him.

"Florida played a major power tonight," Mallory said Saturday after his 15th ranked and undefeated team overpowered the Gators, 16-7, in the frost-bitten Tangerine Bowl.

"People should give the Mid-American Conference champion a little more consideration in the bowls," he said. "Our champion is capable of playing some of the best instead of them always having to pull in someone who is 6-4."

Florida finished the regular season with a 7-4 record, tied for fifth in the Southeastern Conference. But it won the last five games and was ranked No. 1 on defense in the SEC.

The victory gave Miami an 11-0 record and its first undefeated season since 1955, when the Redmen were coached by Ara Parseghian, now at Notre Dame.

Miami also has been coached by Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Pont of Northwestern.

The bowl game, played in mid-20 temperatures, drew 37,234.

Miami, No. 1 on defense in the nation, overwhelmed Florida with an old-fashioned power running formation and the type of hard-nosed, opportunistic defense that the SEC is famed for.

The Gators didn't get beyond mid-

1968 and Southern California triumphed in the last game.

McKay is coaching on his seventh Rose Bowl and Hayes in his sixth, ranking them one-two for most coaching appearances in the Pasadena classic. McKay is 4-2 and Hayes 3-2.

While Hayes likes his squad to mix it up, McKay takes the opposite approach in the final practices.

"We will not scrimmage," McKay said. "We don't want anyone getting hurt. We'll just try to get everyone in the best mental and physical shape possible."

Cavaliers top Rockets

Dwight Davis relishes a good personal performance, but he would prefer some new faces on the opposing team.

"I enjoy doing well, but I'm getting tired of playing against these guys," Davis said after he scored a game-high 25 points and paced the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 99-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Sunday night.

"We've played against them six times already, and that's a lot of times to play the same team."

Cleveland broke away from a 77-77 tie with nine minutes remaining, hit eight points in three minutes and stayed in command the rest of the way.

In other NBA games, Capital defeated Buffalo 110-85, Kansas City-Omaha beat Golden State 101-93 and Boston slipped past Seattle 96-95.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky nipped San Diego 123-120.

Tommy Davis grabs AL batting crown

BOSTON (AP)—With an average of .293, Baltimore's Tommy Davis has captured the individual crown and the Orioles, also averaging .293, took the team batting championship in the first year of the designated hitter in the American League.

Davis, formerly batting champion of the National League, had 156 hits in 432 times at bat as a designated hitter, according to official figures released by the league Saturday. Davis had 13 hits in another playing capacity and finished tied with Milwaukee's George Scott at .306 in the over-all batting race.

field in the first half. They scored the only time Miami gave them good field position, in the final three minutes.

Miami ground out 239 yards rushing with fullback Chuck Varner, named the game's outstanding back, picking up 157 on 28 rushes and getting his team's only touchdown on a three-yard burst.

The Redskins used the old-fashioned T-formation to get the ball to Varner more often and give power blocking to either side.

Florida Coach Doug Dickey said the formation surprised his team and kept it off balance.

"They made enough yardage to win and we made enough mistakes to lose," he also said.

Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

It's a bright, sunny day here at our Fayette County Airport, with the sun reflecting on the ice and snow covering the ground and runway. It's very pretty, but it makes the take-offs and landings a little hazardous.

Larry and Gloria Loyd flew to Louisville, Ky., to visit Larry's father who is in the hospital recovering from a serious operation. Larry's dad won the "oldest pilot" trophy back in June at our annual fly-in. We became acquainted with him, then, and were very sorry to hear of his illness.

"Tex" Guerra flew our Cherokee to Texas, where he is visiting old friends and his family. He left this past Monday, and we're hoping the weather holds for his return this weekend. Otherwise, Tex might miss joining his wife and children in Sabina for Christmas.

We're pleased to announce that Jack Sanders received his private pilot's certificate. Jack claims he wasn't nervous, but we think otherwise. He had his alarm set at 6 a.m. on the day of his flight test, but was up at 5 a.m. Also, he took his shower with his glasses on, which we thought was a little strange! Anyway, he was a mighty happy man when the whole thing was over, and he had that important piece of paper designating him a private pilot.

WE HAVE some good news and some bad news. The good news - we are happy to welcome Bob Woodmansee to our VA training school. Bob has enrolled in the commercial pilot course. Now, for the bad - we are losing Tim Vehnekamp from our VA program, as he and his family are being transferred to northern Ohio. We will miss Tim, Margie, and their little baby, Wendy. The Vehnekamps flew to Alabama for the Thanksgiving holidays and got weathered in for a few days. However, as they were visiting with Margie's family, the forced layover was very enjoyable.

We have seven students enrolled in the Instrument Ground School, being taught by Paul Homman, our ground instructor. The men studying for their instrument ratings are: Don Soale, Homer Newhouse, Jack Yager, John Woodmansee, Steve and Gene Stanton and Howard Wright.

Another bit of news, Bill has passed all of his tests for agricultural flying, and we expect to be quite busy with this phase of flying when spring comes. We are gathering our equipment for the ag business now, and he is looking for a suitable ag plane to use.

Private pilots flying our aircraft have been Steve Warner, Kenny Smith, Howard Bryant, J.E. Kinley, Jack Patton, Millard French, Walt Gooldin and Jim Roberts.

IN BETWEEN our bouts with the nasty weather, student pilots receiving instruction and flying solo were David Taylor, Ned Payne, Don Jackson, Mark Pitstick, Randy Martindale, Bruce Denen, Bill Sever and Gene Pfaff.

Roy Smith purchased a Cessna 140. Other recent plane purchases included a Cherokee 140 by Gene Pfaff and a Mooney by Don Morrow of Jeffersonville.

Our charter work has been steadily picking up, and Bill and Curt Hiser have gotten around quite a bit, both in the single and the twin-engine. There were three trips for the V & Y Construction Co. - one to Warren, Pa., one to Louisville, Ky., and one to Steubenville. We flew to Detroit for Chrysler Corp., to Baltimore Md., for Greenfield Plastics, to Detroit, for the Budd Co., to Baltimore for General Motors and to Richmond, Va., for the Jeffersonville Farm Service. These trips have been both passenger and freight trips.

In between charters, Bill gave some flight tests. Gary Welch, from our Ross County Airport, received his private license, Father Crowe, from Madison County Airport, received his commercial license, two students from Lebanon were flight-tested and Pam Janey, Marshall Clark, and Paul Rowland all received private licenses.

Gene Pfaff and his son, Willie, flew to Cleveland to pick up Gene's other son, Dan, who had flown in from Japan for the funeral of his grandmother.

WE HAVE HAD several business planes land here when the weather permitted. Hough Brothers Co., of Sunfield, Mich., came in to visit Landmark, and Fred Ross of Neff Aviation arrived in a Bonanza. Alpine Air Charter Co. sent their Lear jet here to pick up freight for the Ford Motor Co., and we had a Bell Helicopter, coming from Danbury, Conn., stop for fuel. A Cessna 177 came in from Pittsburgh.

and the K-D Manufacturing Co.'s Aerostar from Lancaster, Pa., was in and out of here several times bringing businessmen to visit the Mecto Tool Co. J.A. Donaldson, of Hamilton Aviation, flew here in a Beech 18, and D.D. Lay flew his Seneca here from Lawrenceburg, Ky., to visit the Mac Tool Co.

Instructor Paul Homman flew with John Woodmansee on a night training flight to Fort Wayne, Ind. Since they were flying our four place Cherokee, they took their wives along for the ride.

Joe Kingery took a student cross-country flight to Lancaster, Hillsboro and back. It was a memorable trip for Joe, as he learned about carburetor ice. Joe started flying with us in the summer, and he had never encountered this before.

Paul Junk received his recommendation flight preparing him for his upcoming flight test, and Louie Poole enrolled in the commercial pilot course.

VA STUDENTS practicing their maneuvers and building hours towards their commercial ratings were Tim Vehnekamp, Billy Pauley, Bob Woodmansee, John Woodmansee, Tom Romph and Charlie Dodds. John and Tom have both also had their initial flight training in the Aerocommander for the retractable gear and constant speed propeller time that is now required by the F.A.A.

Roy Smith has been flying his Cessna 140, and Deane Carter and Owen Prince took their Skyhawk to Ross County where they could get a hangar for the winter months. Larry Soldan and Kenny Bumgarner went flying in Larry's Cherokee Arrow, and Maurice Hopkins were flying his Skyhawk. Also, Maurice, Eddie Pendergraft and Paul Crosby flew Paul's mother home to Van Wert.

That's about all the flying news for now, so I'll call it quits and get busy wrapping Christmas gifts. To all of you - Happy Holidays from the guys and gals at the Fayette County Airport.

Ohio Bell manager explains toll-free call arrangement

Calling free anywhere in the country for motel reservations or dialing a toll free number to discuss an investment opportunity is almost taken for granted these days.

For Ohio Bell customers this means dialing "1" for access to the long distance network and then "800" which designates the call as toll free and this will not be charged to their bills.

Since this service is being offered more and more lately, some people think any number in the 800 series is free of charge, according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for Ohio Bell here.

"This has been misinterpreted,"

Galloway said. "Only when people are instructed to dial 800, instead of an area code, are they making a toll free call."

Any other area code number that begins with 8 is exactly that; an area code for some part of the country, that will be billed accordingly.

Business ethics being questioned

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — James S. Kemper Jr. got up to talk before a fraternity group last fall with no notes. As he recalls, it was not until he heard his own voice that he was sure what the subject would be.

The topic, a new one for Kemper, president of the $1.5-billion Kemper Insurance Group, was morality in business. He has since refined his ideas, particularly in a speech at the University of Southern California.

The core of his thesis is this: We must run the crooks out of the business establishment. Those who produce unsafe or shoddy merchandise, who advertise falsely, who give political payoffs must go.

"It is the crooked or unethical businessman who usually produces the restrictions that affect us all," Kemper states. Such a person, he feels, does more harm from within than any critic could do from without.

"The public perception today," Kemper said a few days ago, "is that there is no strong moral leadership from our institutions." And so, he believes "this is the biggest opportunity in a century for business to assume moral leadership."

To begin with, he would have the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Chamber of Commerce drive out of their organizations those members who fail to live up to ethical standards.

"Public law provides punishment for corporate crooks, but there is a gray area in which unethical conduct may not be criminal conduct, and in that area we must police ourselves," he insists.

As Kemper sees it, "There should be specific enforceable sanctions within trade associations so the business community can publicly ostracize and expel companies which fail to live up to acceptable standards of performance and morality."

How to make your Christmas jingles easier and cheaper.

A lot of people will be jingling our bell this Christmas.

So we'll all be pretty busy. Making sure your jingle doesn't get jangled.

Especially your long distance jingles.

Just remember a couple of things. Long Distance calls made the days before Christmas, and even the day after, have the best chance of getting through.

On Christmas Eve, the best time to call is between 5 and 6 P.M.

And for wishing Merry Christmas, Christmas Day, avoid the busy time period by calling before

10 A.M., or between noon and 3 P.M.

Most important, though.

Whenever you make a long distance holiday call, dial it yourself.* Any long distance call, day or night, is cheaper when you dial direct without operator assistance. That way you'll save.

So have a Merry Christmas.

And when it comes to wishing one, just jingle our bell.

Use your phone for all it's worth.

*Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number.

Super Bowl prospects dwindle down to four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League Super Bowl countdown is at four and holding. Minnesota and Dallas are still alive in the National Conference and Oakland and Miami are the American Conference survivors after the opening weekend of playoff games dominated by home teams.

Minnesota had the closest call, outlasting Washington 27-20 on a pair of fourth quarter touchdown passes from Fran Tarkenton to John Gilliam. Dallas will host the Vikings for the NFC title next Sunday after eliminating Los Angeles 27-16 with Roger Staubach hitting Drew Pearson on two scoring pitches.

George Blanda's four field goals helped Oakland romp to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh. That put the Raiders in the AFC championship game against defending Super Bowl champion Miami next Sunday. The Dolphins advanced by whacking Cincinnati 34-16.

Vikings 27, Redskins 20
Minnesota managed only nine rushing yards in the first half and went into the dressing room trailing 7-3. That was when defensive end Carl Eller decided to shake things up. He made a little speech to his teammates, telling them to get out there and play football.

That bit of inspiration helped the Vikings turn the game around in the fourth quarter when Tarkenton, who's never been in the playoffs before in 13 pro seasons, tossed scoring passes of 28 and six yards to Gilliam.

Cowboys 27, Rams 16
Dallas forced turnovers on Los Angeles' first two offensive plays and cashed in for a pair of touchdowns en route to a 17-0 lead. Then the Rams rushed back, slashing away all but one point of the margin.

But rookie Drew Pearson, who had caught a four-yard TD pass earlier, grabbed an 83-yarder from Roger Staubach to finish off LA.

Raiders 33, Steelers 14
Blanda kicked field goals from 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, putting points on the scoreboard everytime the Raiders got him in range and insuring that there would be no opportunity for the kind of last-second heroics the Steelers used to eliminate Oakland from the playoffs a year ago.

Dolphins 34, Bengals 16
Cincinnati frightened Miami, scoring

13 points on two Horst Muhlmann field goals and an interception which safety Neal Craig returned for a TD, in the final 3½ minutes of the first half. That cut a comfortable 18-point Dolphin lead down to a less-awesome five points.

UCLA overwhelms Bonnies, 111-59

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes UCLA's basketball success startles even Bruin Coach John Wooden.

"I thought St. Bonaventure would be stronger than it was," said Wooden after the top-ranked Bruins captured their 81st straight victory by blasting the Bonnies 111-59 Saturday night.

"Perhaps," surmised Wooden, "they were awed by our strength."

The Bruins provided reason for awe, exploding for 20-2 and 13-3 scoring bursts in the first half, when they ran up a 63-20 lead.

In other games, second-ranked Maryland tripped Santa Clara 53-32; No. 7 Indiana survived a second-half scare to beat 15th-rated South Carolina 84-71; No. 8 Louisville defeated Bradley 74-65; No. 9 Providence trimmed DePaul 93-75 and No. 10 Alabama Alabama walked over Columbia 70-43.

Long Beach State, ranked 11th, walloped Indiana State 74-45; No. 12 Memphis State crushed Samford 101-69; No. 14 Arizona stopped Texas Tech 86-64; No. 16 Southern California halted Ohio U. 80-68; Vanderbilt, rated 17th, beat Kansas 83-72; No. 18 Syracuse upended Boston College 110-88 and in the only other loss among Top 20 teams, No. 19 Jacksonville was upset by St. John's, N.Y. 68-60.

Maryland chipped away at the Santa Clara defense to claim the championship of the Cable Car Classic in Oakland. John Lucas scored 23 points to win most valuable player honors in the tourney.

In a consolation game of the same tournament, San Francisco, a preseason ranked team, snapped a five-game losing streak by beating St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-63.

The 15th-ranked Gamecocks came back to within three points of Indiana in the second half after trailing by 14. "It looked like last year all over again," said Indiana Coach Bob Knight, referring to a game where the Hoosiers frittered away a 16-point lead to South Carolina in the second half.

Louisville outscored Bradley 20-6 over Georgia. The two players, each scoring 18 points, brought Drake from behind in the first half and led them to a 39-14 halftime lead.

"This tournament has been good for us in the sense that we'll correct mistakes," said Georgia Coach John Guthrie. "You come up to something like this to prepare yourself for a conference race."

Ohio State came from behind to take third place in the Kentucky Invitational tournament with an 85-80 victory over Dartmouth. The Buckeyes trailed by 11 points in the second half, but tied the score at 77-77 with 3:59 remaining and went on to win.

Dartmouth took control of the game midway through the first half, holding a 47-40 lead at halftime. But Buckeye Larry Bolden led Ohio State's comeback, hitting 13 points early in the second half. Bolden was high scorer

Big Ten basketball teams will spread throughout the continent and even into Hawaii this week for a series of holiday tournaments before finally settling down to conference openers Jan. 5.

They'll take with them a 43-23 record against interstate rivals but the going figures to be a lot tougher on the tournament trail which will feature strong opposition.

Seven teams will engage in tournament play including Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Michigan, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Minnesota.

Iowa, Northwestern and Ohio State will not participate in tournaments this week although Northwestern and Ohio State played in tournaments last week.

So, the defending world champions did just that. They shut out Cincinnati in the second half and got a second TD pass from quarterback Bob Griese and a pair of long range field goals of 46 and 50 yards by Garo Yepremian to finish off the Bengals.

Rose Bowl practice sessions different

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Woody Hayes and John McKay are taking entirely different practice approaches to the Rose Bowl game.

Hayes, the tough disciplinarian who coaches Ohio State, is drilling his Big Ten coathpions hard daily at Citrun Junior College.

The casual McKay, coach of Southern California, doesn't have another practice scheduled until Wednesday for his Pacific-8 champs.

The fourth-ranked Buckeyes (9-0-1), and the No. 7 Trojans, (9-1-1) are rematched in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Southern California whipped Ohio 42-17, last New Year's.

"I'm afraid we're soft," said Hayes, trying to snap a personal two-game losing streak and the Big Ten four-game winless spell in the Rose Bowl.

McKay and Hayes have met twice before in the Rose Bowl and each has scored one victory. Ohio State won in 1968 and Southern California triumphed in the last game.

McKay is coaching on his seventh Rose Bowl and Hayes in his sixth, ranking them one-two for most coaching appearances in the Pasadena classic. McKay is 4-2 and Hayes 3-2.

While Hayes likes his squad to mix it up, McKay takes the opposite approach in the final practices.

"We will not scrimmage," McKay said. "We don't want anyone getting hurt. We'll just try to get everyone in the best mental and physical shape possible."

Tommy Davis grabs AL batting crown

BOSTON (AP) — With an average of .293, Baltimore's Tommy Davis has captured the individual crown and the Orioles, also averaging .293, took the team batting championship in the first year of the designated hitter in the American League.

Davis, formerly batting champion of the National League, had 156 hits in 432 times at bat as a designated hitter, according to official figures released by the league Saturday. Davis had 13 hits in another playing capacity and finished tied with Milwaukee's George Scott at .306 in the over-all batting race.

Miami of Ohio whips Gators, 16-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Miami, the Oxford, Ohio, school which calls itself the "cradle of coaches," has sent four former coaches on to major college football powerhouses. The present head man, Bill Mallory, wants to take the Mid-American Conference up with him.

"Florida played a major power tonight," Mallory said Saturday after his 15th ranked and undefeated team overpowered the Gators, 16-7, in the frost-bitten Tangerine Bowl.

"People should give the Mid-American Conference champion a little more consideration in the bowls," he said. "Our champion is capable of playing some of the best instead of them always having to pull in someone who is 6-4."

Florida finished the regular season with a 7-4 record, tied for fifth in the Southeastern Conference. But it won the last five games and was ranked No. 1 on defense in the SEC.

The victory gave Miami an 11-0 record and its first undefeated season since 1955, when the Redmen were coached by Ara Parseghian, now at Notre Dame.

Miami also has been coached by Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Pont of Northwestern.

Hunter safety course offered

A special Hunter Safety Course will be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish & Game Association and held at their lodge. This community service event will take place on Sunday, December 30, from 1:30 - 4:00 P.M.

Movies and discussions on the subjects of safe gun handling in the home, on the range, and in the field will be highlighted. Jerry Cremons, local game protector, will be the principal instructor. He will be assisted by experienced personnel of the sponsoring organization.

Interested persons of all ages are welcomed to participate. It is known that a substantial number of younger people will receive their first guns as Christmas gifts. Therefore, it is thought that the choice of December 30 as the date for the course will provide a timely opportunity for these youngsters to get off on the right foot by learning proper, responsible handling of their new hunting or target guns.

In addition to the indoor instructional phase of the course, some carefully supervised shotgun and rifle shooting will be conducted to help familiarize participants with their firearms and to give them a chance to practice safe gun handling under the watchful eye of competent instructors.

Participants will be awarded colorful Hunter Safety Course shoulder patches and certificates. The course and refreshments will be free of charge.

VA STUDENTS practicing their maneuvers and building hours towards their commercial ratings were Tim Vehnekamp, Billy Pauley, Bob Woodmansee, John Woodmansee, Tom Romph and Charlie Dadds. John and Tom have both also had their initial flight training in the Aerocommander for the retractable gear and constant speed propeller time that is now required by the F.A.A.

Roy Smith has been flying his Cessna 140, and Deane Carter and Owen Prince took their Skyhawk to Ross County where they could get a hangar for the winter months. Larry Soldan and Kenny Bumgarner went flying in Larry's Cherokee Arrow, and Maurice Hopkins were flying his Skyhawk. Also, Maurice, Eddie Pendergraft and Paul Crosby flew Paul's mother home to Van Wert.

That's about all the flying news for now, so I'll call it quits and get busy wrapping Christmas gifts. To all of you - Happy Holidays from the guys and gals at the Fayette County Airport.

Ohio Bell manager explains toll-free call arrangement

Calling free anywhere in the country for motel reservations or dialing a toll free number to discuss an investment opportunity is almost taken for granted these days.

For Ohio Bell customers this means dialing "1" for access to the long distance network and then "800" which designates the call as toll free and this will not be charged to their bills.

Since this service is being offered more and more lately, some people think any number in the 800 series is free of charge, according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for Ohio Bell here.

"This has been misinterpreted,"

Galloway said. "Only when people are instructed to dial 800, instead of an area code, are they making a toll free call."

Any other area code number that begins with 8 is exactly that; an area code for some part of the country, that will be billed accordingly.

Business ethics being questioned

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — James S. Kemper Jr. got up to talk before a fraternity group last fall with no notes. As he recalls, it was not until he heard his own voice that he was sure what the subject would be.

The topic, a new one for Kemper, president of the $1.5-billion Kemper Insurance Group, was morality in business. He has since refined his ideas, particularly in a speech at the University of Southern California.

The core of his thesis is this: We must run the crooks out of the business establishment. Those who produce unsafe or shoddy merchandise, who advertise falsely, who give political payoffs must go.

"It is the crooked or unethical businessman who usually produces the restrictions that affect us all," Kemper states. Such a person, he feels, does more harm from within than any critic could do from without.

"The public perception today," Kemper said a few days ago, "is that there is no strong moral leadership from our institutions." And so, he believes "this is the biggest opportunity in a century for business to assume moral leadership."

To begin with, he would have the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Chamber of Commerce drive out of their organizations those members who fail to live up to ethical standards.

"Public law provides punishment for corporate crooks, but there is a gray area in which unethical conduct may not be criminal conduct, and in that area we must police ourselves," he insists.

As Kemper sees it, "There should be specific enforceable sanctions within trade associations so the business community can publicly ostracize and expel companies which fail to live up to acceptable standards of performance and morality."

How to make your Christmas jingles easier and cheaper.

A lot of people will be jingling our bell this Christmas.

So we'll all be pretty busy. Making sure your jingle doesn't get jangled.

Especially your long distance jingles.

Just remember a couple of things. Long Distance calls made the days before Christmas, and even the day after, have the best chance of getting through.

On Christmas Eve, the best time to call is between 5 and 6 P.M.

And for wishing Merry Christmas, Christmas Day, avoid the busy time period by calling before

10 A.M., or between noon and 3 P.M.

Most important, though.

Whenever you make a long distance holiday call, dial it yourself.* Any long distance call, day or night, is cheaper when you dial direct without operator assistance. That way you'll save.

So have a Merry Christmas.

And when it comes to wishing one, just jingle our bell.

Use your phone for all it's worth.

*Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number.

I wrote this letter to tell you how Savings Bonds can help you.
A Savings Bond will replace your money if something happens to it. Why do you think people buy Bonds? To save more money. They pay back
5-1/2% for interest. Don't you think it's worth it? Why don't you get a Savings
Bond, it's the safest way to save.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds
Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. 10 months (4%) the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

If your U.S. Savings Bonds are lost, stolen, or destroyed, it doesn't matter. Because all you have to do is report the loss, and you'll be issued a new one. It's another one of the reasons why you can't beat Bonds when it comes to safe, sure saving.

Next time you see
point it out.

It's litter in the streets. It's air that smells.
It's a river where fish can't breathe.
You know what pollution is.
But not everyone does.
So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.
Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Queen and family go for economy

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's family piled into a minibus that gets 30 miles per gallon rather than a Rolls-Royce automobile for a half-mile drive to Sunday chapel. Prince Philip drove as the queen and other members of the royal family went from Windsor Castle to the royal lodge in Windsor Great Park in the 11-seat minibus.

"It's convenient for the family to pile into a minibus for the short trip, and it saves valuable fuel," a castle spokesman said.

Heavy volume of long distance calls expected

Long distance calling over the Christmas holiday, always at a high level, is expected to be even greater this year because of the energy crisis, according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for Ohio Bell in Washington C.H.

With many families unable to get together for the holiday, Ohio Bell shares the expectation of AT&T that the volume of long distance calls will increase by as much as 11 per cent over last Christmas.

In 1972, figures show that slightly more than a million direct distance dialed calls were attempted by Ohio Bell customers throughout the state on Christmas day. This year, the volume may well be around 1,149,000. These are described as "attempted" calls because many resulted in busy signals or the other party was not home and did not answer. About half the calls are actually completed.

Persons who plan such calls this Christmas are urged to get the number in advance, if they need to call the long distance directory assistance operator to get the number. This will eliminate these directory assistance calls on Christmas day and reduce the chances of getting a busy signal when trying to get family and friends on the actual call.

AT&T is adding 2,500 circuits for the extended Christmas weekend. Past records at Ohio Bell indicate that the best time to place long distance calls are Christmas Eve between 5 and 6 p.m., or after 11 p.m.; and on Christmas Day before 10 a.m. or between noon and 3 p.m.

South Solon wins fight for lights at rail crossing

SOUTH SOLON — A long struggle by residents of South Solon to obtain flashing lights at a railroad crossing has ended following action by the Madison County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioners have approved payment of up to 95 per cent of the cost to have the warning lights installed at the DT&I crossing on Ohio 323.

The village renewed efforts to obtain the lights a year ago after the principal of Stokes Elementary School was killed Dec. 12 at the crossing.

During the past year, village officials have met with various state, national and county officials in an attempt to explain the need for the crossing lights.

Gary Saunders, a village councilman, credited Madison County Engineer Neil Babb for convincing the commissioners there is a need for the lights and that the county should help the village meet the costs.

Saunders said the village could have come up with no more than $3,000 to pay for the warning lights. The commissioners allocated funds from the county's $5 permissive license tax for the project.

Holiday traffic toll increases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With much of the heavy Christmas holiday traffic still ahead, traffic fatalities across the nation had climbed above the 300 mark by early Monday.

Christmas at Jasper School

MILLEDGEVILLE — Six classes combined their talents for the annual Christmas program at Jasper Elementary School.

Mrs. Lee Marshall, music instructor, along with the kindergarten, first, second, third, sixth and special education classes presented a program of traditional Christmas songs and stories.

Prior to the program, PTO president Marion Stockwell requested a special vote to be held concerning a donation of $25 for the support of the proposed Miami Trace junior high school bond issue.

At the end of the program Santa Claus distributed treats to all the children.

Garbage gas lights tree

PALOS VERDES, Calif. (AP) — A lighted Christmas tree stands atop a Southern California garbage dump as a hint of things to come.

Gas formed by the decaying rubbish runs a generator which furnishes electricity for the tree's lights.

Next Christmas that same garbage may be running heaters and ovens in 2,500 nearby homes.

Beyond that? Joe Edberg, the man who harnessed the energy, says the 140-acre dump here could supply gas for 25,000 residences — perhaps for as long as 30 or 40 years. Other dumps could provide similar power, he adds.

As organic matter breaks down, it releases gases — including methane — and carbon dioxide.
